ECONOMY GIVEN LITTLE SUPPORT AT WASHINGTON

No Real Reductions Proposed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—With the federal government still heading in the direction of bankruptcy, the lame duck session of the 72d congress does not appear to hold substantial promise of relief to the taxpayers.

Developments in the first week of the session have indicated pretty clearly a general tendency on the part of the legislators to shirk responsibility by passing troublesome problems along to the Roosevelt administration and the 73d congress, an extraordinary session of which the new President will be obliged to convene shortly after March 4.

No Attempts at Real Cuts.

Though the budget is still unbalanced, though 3 billions of dollars have been added to the public debt in the last two years, and the addition of another billion this year impends, though income and other tax sources are drying up, neither the administrative nor the legislative branch of the government has other notions than to go on spending as prodigally as ever and to pile on more taxes to make both ends meet.

That bankruptcy lies in that direction and at no distant date is the warning of an increasing number of business men and economists.

President Hoover in his 1934 budget proposed expenditures 479 millions below those for 1933. But the saving is more apparent than real, for the reason that the reductions are composed largely of items by which the appropriations for 1933 were enormously increased.

No Deflation of Bureaucracy.

The President proposed no radical deflation of the paternalistic, subventionary and regulatory activities of the central government now costing the taxpayers more than a billion dollars a year. The cost of the federal government under the President's budget will remain in the neighborhood of 4 billions annually.

The treasury and postoffice departments appropriation bill reported to the house yesterday indicates that the congressional notion of economy at this moment does not extend beyond cheese paring. The federal bureaucracy, now numbering more than 600,000 persons, is to remain intact. Political sinecures are immune from attack.

Neither in this appropriation bill nor in the others now in process of framing by the appropriations committee does the Democratic majority manifest a disposition to cut expenditures to the extent of the 25 per cent promised by the Democratic platform. The fulfillment of that pledge, if it be fulfilled, awaits the coming of the Democratic executive on March 4.

Fight on Veterans' Benefits.

The move for a 450 million dollar reduction in cost of veterans' benefits by eliminating compensation for non-service connected disabilities is in for hard sledding. Even Mr. Hoover's moderate proposal of a 127 million dollar cut is not likely to receive congressional approval at least at this session.

The amendment of veterans' legislation to achieve the saving proposed in the budget message is extremely technical and involved and is little understood.

Features of Hoover Plan.

"1. With certain exceptions, prohibits allowance, compensation, retired pay under the emergency officers' retirement act, pension, hospitalization or domiciliary care administered by the veterans' administration to any person making a federal income tax return of $1,500 or more if single, and $3,500 or more if married, with $400 additional for each dependent, and to any person receiving federal, state or municipal salary above the same limitations.

"2. No disability allowance under the world war veterans' act, 1924, as amended, shall be payable to any former soldier, sailor, or marine who is not totally and permanently disabled under the proposed economy measure.

"Under present law disability allowance is payable to any honorably discharged ex-service man who entered the service prior to Nov. 11, 1918, and served ninety days or more during the world war and who is suffering from a disability of at least

POLICE SEEKING CLEWS IN LIFE OF MUSICIAN

Admit Mystery Has Them Baffled.

The authorities were pondering a half dozen theories last night as they groped for a clew to the murder of Edwin O. Schildhauer, 28 year old bandmaster at Austin High school.

An infatuated school teacher, a petty politician and his sweetheart, and a west side racketeer were among the characters in the forefront. Meanwhile the police sought to discover the motive and the trail of the two gunmen who kidnaped the bandmaster three doors from his home at 5435 Fulton street Saturday night, took him for a gangland ride, and dumped his body on the outskirts of Cicero, with two bullets in his brain.

Go Into Victim's Past.

The police delved into the slain man's past. They questioned his wife, Frances, who is to become a mother in May, his friends, his fellow teachers and his pupils exhaustively. The further they delved the greater their perplexity grew.

The bandmaster's young widow brought up the name of the school teacher who, she said, had been enamored of her husband. The widow had witnessed the abduction. The police said she was still distraught.

Neighbors told the story of the petty politician and his sweetheart, in whose affair, it seemed, the righteous young bandmaster had interfered. Cicero police broached the name of the west side gangster, on the extraordinary notion that the bandmaster had turned bootlegger and was buying from the "wrong" sources.

Admits Difficulties of Case.

When he called a halt after 24 hours of uninterrupted investigation last night, Capt. Patrick Kelliher, commander of the Fillmore district, confessed the deep difficulties of the case and admitted that no theory so far advanced gives much promise of a solution.

Some of the lesser officers of the station were strongly inclined towards the so-called "triangle theory." They were giving consideration to the bandmaster's personal appearance — his love of jewelry, his modish attire, his spats, and his bushy but carefully combed hair.

They agreed there was no reason to suspect the infatuated teacher, whose affair with the bandmaster occurred four years ago. But, they reasoned, if he had been irresistible to the teacher, he might also have charmed some other girl, a student, perhaps, with a vengeful father or brother.

Hold Inquest Today.

To explore this theory further they decided to question the high school authorities regarding the bandmaster's relations with his pupils when the inquest is opened at 1 o'clock today. Among those subpoenaed are Wilbur H. Wright, principal of the school; Roland Marsh, dean of boys; Miss Eula Beaton, dean of girls, and O. R. Jones, director of the girls' orchestra.

The widow, an attractive woman of 24, was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty. She denied there was any other woman in her husband's life. Mrs. Schildhauer had been in bed and hysterical most of the time since discovery of the bandmaster's body, sobbing and hugging his photograph.

"We never quarreled," she said, leading up to the story of the enamored teacher. "My husband was always faithful. There was only that one affair—the woman was a substitute teacher.

Seemed Mad About Husband.

"She seemed to be mad about my husband, even calling me up to talk about him. I told my husband about it and he spoke to the principal, who had her transferred."

The widow gave a vivid description of the abduction. Her husband had made ready about 8:15 p. m. to leave home for a concert of 200 bandmasters in Mirror hall, 1136 North Western avenue.

"He left his diamond and ruby ring at home for fear of a holdup," she said. "He had two quarters in his pocket. I gave him an additional two dollars. He put the bills in his pocket and kissed me goodby.

"It was snowing heavily," she went on. "I stood at the front window to wave a last goodby. He waved back, then started east towards the car line. He had taken about twenty steps

MRS. STEIGER, 105 TOMORROW, IS A GUEST AT PARTY

Mrs. Mathilda Steiger, who will be 105 years old tomorrow and has been for many years the oldest resident of Park Ridge, was the guest of honor yesterday at a birthday celebration attended by her three daughters, twelve grandchildren, thirty great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. The party was held in the home of one of her daughters, Mrs. Bertha Deering, 104 North Chester avenue, Park Ridge, with whom Mrs. Steiger lives.

The other daughters are Mrs. Herbert Schuneman and Mrs. Augusta Bischoff.

Mrs. Steiger was born in Germany and came to the United States in 1888. A year ago a physician advised her to stop doing housework. "I haven't quit yet though," she said, "and I feel fine."

ELECTROCUTED IN PREPARING PARTY SURPRISE

There was going to be a party yesterday at the home of Samuel Cusmano, 18 years old, of 7541 Ellis avenue, and Samuel decided that he would rig up a few surprises for the guests.

He attached a small microphone to the radio, placing the microphone in another room. It was his scheme, when the guests were seated in another room listening to the radio, to broadcast Christmas messages to each one of them by name.

Just about the time the guests were to arrive, Samuel inspected the hook-up. He touched the microphone. He fell to the floor. He was taken to the Auburn Park hopital, where Drs. C. J. Barnes and S. J. O'Brien and members of Rescue Squad 1 under Capt. Joseph Hoff worked upon him for an hour. Then they pronounced him dead, a victim of electrocution.

John Mackolia Breaks His Leg, but It's Not Serious

Policeman John O'Brien, in charge of the Brighton Park police patrol wagon, last night sped to 41st street and Albany avenue, where it was reported a man had slipped on the ice and had broken his leg. There they found John Mackolia, 45 years old, 4068 South street, sitting in the snow. As had been reported he had broken his leg, but it was a wooden one. So instead of taking him to a hospital the police took him to his home.

Bomb Hurled Into Crowd in Cuban City; 4 Injured

SANTA CLARA, Cuba, Dec. 11.—Two men and two children were gravely wounded when a bomb was hurled from the roof of an adjacent building in the crowded Parquereal while the municipal band was playing a concert and exploded at 9:40 o'clock tonight. The authorities believe it the work of the student element. It is the second bombing in the Puarquereal, where two were killed several months ago.

Mayor to Tell Captains Beer Joints Must Go

Two new drives to prepare Chicago for the return of lawful 4 per cent beer were announced last night by Mayor Cermak.

This morning, he said, he will order the preparation of an ordinance designed to bring under police control all retail dispensers of near beer and similar malt beverages. This ordinance would provide for $200 or $250 licenses for all places, including restaurants, lunch counters and drug stores which sell Volstead brew for consumption on their premises.

Will Address Police Captains.

This afternoon he will address the police captains, supervising captains and other executives of the department and order them under penalty of severe disciplinary punishment to put an end to the beer racket in Chicago, to clean up the situation so that the handling of real beer, when the time comes, will be a legitimate, honorable business.

The mayor's plans were disclosed as the result of the calling of the meeting of police officials in Commissioner Allman's office. The commissioner, when asked about the matter, said the mayor might appear before the meeting and issue orders directly to the department.

Promises Straight Talk.

"I expect to be there," said Mr. Cermak when he was asked about this statement, "and if I am, I shall tell the captains exactly what I expect of them and exactly what will happen if they do not do what is expected.

"I don't intend to wait for the return of real beer as the signal to get the beverage business on the right basis. I'm going to do it now, and I'll start out with the police department.

Threatens to Suspend Captains.

"The police know about them, and those places are going out of business if I have to suspend some captains for 30 days and put all the detectives in some stations back in uniform. The same thing applies to beer flats which are scattered throughout the city, many of which really are houses of prostitution.

"But I intend to give the police department all the help possible; and I think one way in which we can help them is to establish control over near beer places by means of licenses.

"My information is that most of the cheating in the way of beer selling is being done by places that pretend to sell near beer and substitute the stuff they buy from the so-called syndicate — beer for which they are compelled to pay $55 a barrel although, free from syndicate profits, it could be sold for $25 a barrel.

Believes License Plan Effectual.

"These places include restaurants, coffee shops, lunch counters and even drug stores which have licenses for only their main lines of business. I am convinced that if we put a $200 or a $250 license fee on the sale of malt beverages we could keep those places under control and trim the wings of the racketeers.

"Such a license ordinance also would enable us to put an end to the beer flats, for it would contain a provision prohibiting the issuance of licenses in apartment buildings. Right now any flat renter can start out and sell near beer and substitute real beer when nobody's looking. We can stop that and will stop it."

Reorganizes Detective Squads.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker spent yesterday reorganizing his squads as required by the transfer order of Saturday which replaced 64 members of his command with new men. He was asked if he intended to organize any more "hoodlum squads" to make it warm for the racketeers.

"They'll all be hoodlum squads," he replied.

He ordered all squad members to appear before him this morning and will order them to put new force into the rounding up of members of the old Capone crime and bootlegging organization, he said.

Lieut. William V. Blasl, who succeeds Lieut. Walter Storms as deputy chief of detectives, will take up his new duties today.

HORSES GET USUAL CHRISTMAS DINNER; IS PROVIDED BY WILL

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Horses of Kansas City, who twenty-two years ago and every year since have participated in a free Christmas dinner of oats and hay, were not forgotten in the will of Mrs. Emma W. Robinson.

Mrs. Robinson, who died yesterday at Olathe, Kan., and other animal lovers promoted the first dinner in 1909 in Convention hall.

The will of the 70 year old woman, her attorney announced today, corresponds with that of her husband, who left $10,000 to the "Emma Robinson's horses Christmas tree fund." The Kansas City humane society is to spend the money.

Charitable work of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson also included bequests to Mercy Children's hospital.

U. S. BALKS NEW MOVE TO REPUDIATE WAR DEBTS

Britain Offers to Pay if Applied on Revised Deal.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Great Britain will pay the United States $95,550,000 on its war debt next Thursday. With this payment, however, it will practically repudiate the present debt funding agreement with America.

In a note made public here tonight the British government told the United States that the payment must not be regarded as the regular semi-annual installment, provided for in the debt agreement, but as a payment on capital to be taken into account in any future understanding.

Does Not Mention Interest.

The British note does not say anything about the interest due on Thursday. Under the funding agreement the Dec. 15 installment was to be divided as follows:

Payment on debt..... $30,000,000
Interest 65,550,000

The note further notifies the United States that the $95,550,000 will be paid in gold, "since, under the circumstances, this would be the least prejudicial of methods now open."

The British announcement that the remittance is to be treated as "a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement" apparently was prompted by what the London government seems to think was a cordial invitation for new negotiations contained in Secretary of State Stimson's note of last Thursday.

Urges New Negotiations.

The British note takes pains to point out that no time is available for fresh negotiations between now and the date the payment is due. But it urges the United States to hasten renewed war debt discussions as much as possible so as not to run the risk of a "general breakdown of existing intergovernmental agreements."

The British are pressing hard for these negotiations to be concluded before June 15, the date on which the next war debt payment would normally fall due.

News that the United States had replied immediately to today's note was received with great surprise in high British circles late tonight. It was understood by government officials that no answer had been expected. The American reply is expected to be received some time during the night.

Does Not Answer Argument.

London's note makes no attempt to answer with figures the argument set forth in America's demand that the payment must be met.

This week's installment will be paid by some means other than out of ordinary revenue. How this will be done cannot be learned. A number of avenues are open. In the first place, the British government may have acquired that much gold by some means or other without the accumulation of the precious metal becoming known. If it has not, there are several other methods by which the money could be raised. It could borrow the equivalent of the payment from the Bank of England.

On the other hand economists are

Stimson in Quick Reply Says Old Pact Stands.

The Dance of Debts

With war debts payments due next Thursday, the cable lines were busy last night with the final drive of the Franco-British alliance for repudiation and the quick and sharp reply of the United States. Briefly, here is what happened:

LONDON—Great Britain sent a note to the United States, announcing that it will pay $95,000,000 but that this payment must not be considered as a part of the debt funding agreement but as a payment on capital account, pending a new settlement. The note was given to the press for cabling to America and published in Paris before Washington admitted its receipt.

WASHINGTON—The United States replied promptly, declining to accept the British payment, if accompanied by conditions which were considered tantamount to repudiation of the debt funding agreement.

PARIS—France was informed early this morning by the British of the American reply. Premier Herriot's plan to ask his parliament today to approve a similar "repudiation" offer to the United States was upset. Herriot prepared to meet Prime Minister MacDonald at 7 a. m. to devise some new scheme. Ex-soldiers demonstrated yesterday, demanding that France refuse to pay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The Hoover administration tonight dispatched a note to Great Britain declining to accept the reservations with which the British government earlier in the day had stated it would pay the $95,000,000 due on the war debt Dec. 15.

Great Britain stated that it will make the December payment in gold. The conditions named, however, are tantamount to repudiation of the debt settlement fixing the amount owed to the United States at four billion 398 million dollars.

The British note, delivered to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson by British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay this morning, states that the war debt payments, interrupted by the Hoover moratorium, "cannot be resumed without disaster."

Assumes Debt Reduction.

The note from London further declares the British government will treat the December payment as an amount to be credited on the payment of the amount to which the war debt shall be eventually reduced by negotiations between the two governments.

The effect of the British note is to give notice of the intention of Great Britain to scrap the war debt settlement as of the date of the Hoover moratorium.

Secretary Stimson immediately replied that acceptance of the December payment is not to be considered an acceptance of the conditions attached thereto.

The December payment will be accepted only in accord with the terms of the debt settlement which only congress has the power to change, said the Stimson note.

Text of Stimson Note.

The text of Secretary Stimson's reply to Great Britain follows:

"I learn with satisfaction of the decision of your government 'to make payment of the amount due on Dec. 15 under the funding agreement of June 18, 1923.' But in view of the statement in your note that 'in the view of his majesty's government, therefore, the payment to be made on Dec. 15 is not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement,' I must call attention to the fact that the secretary of the treasury has no authority to accept payment from your government except as provided under the terms of the funding agreement.

"As I pointed out in my note of Nov. 23, 1932, there is reserved to the congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect of the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration.

"The executive has no power to amend or to alter them either directly or by implied commitment. Accordingly, it should be understood that acceptance by the secretary of the treasury of funds tendered in payment of the Dec. 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement.

"The sum so received must be credited to principal and interest as provided therein.

"I therefore assume that in paragraphs five and six of your note you are not proposing to make this payment otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the funding agreement but that you are stating your views as to steps which your government may desire to propose subsequently after a reexamination of the entire problem.

"I have emphasized these facts with a view to avoiding any possible future misunderstanding. I believe that our future course as pointed out by our correspondence is clear.

Prepare for Parley.

"In your first note of Nov. 13 you asked for an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment with respect to the regimen of intergovernmental financial obligations and, in your second note, you welcomed the expression of our willingness to facilitate such discussions, and referred to the desirability of a close examination between our governments of the whole subject in preparation for the international economic conference.

"In my last note of Dec. 8 I replied that the President of the United States was prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, in coöperation with your government, to survey the entire situation [in which the debt of the British government to the United States necessarily plays a part] and to consider what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade and the recovery of prices.

Important to People.

"But, in the meanwhile, as I informed you in my note of Nov. 23, great importance is attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original debt agreement in force and that a satisfactory approach to the whole question would be greatly increased by the pursuance of such a policy.

"It would seem to me therefore to be undesirable that any steps be taken which, by causing misunderstanding, would increase the difficulties that must be overcome in finding an ultimate solution satisfactory to both nations.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration."

TEXT OF BRITISH NOTE

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The complete text of Great Britain's note today regarding the Dec. 15 payment of the war debts installment follows:

"1. His majesty's government, having received the note addressed to them by the United States government on Dec. 7, observe with satisfaction that the United States government welcomes a suggestion for close examination between the two countries of the whole subject dealt with in the British note of Dec. 1.

"His majesty's government feel it will be appropriate to reserve for this joint examination their comments on certain views expressed in the United States note of Dec. 7, but they think it right to state that after further careful consideration they see no reason to modify the general conclusions set forth in their note of Dec. 1.

Britain Unconvinced.

"2. His majesty's government will therefore in the present communication deal only with the last portion of the United States government note which relates to the immediate question of payment on Dec. 15. His majesty's government observe that the United States government recognize the difficulty of effecting transfer; but they remain convinced that no solution other than suspension could obviate these difficulties.

"They note therefore with profound regret that—notwithstanding arguments contained in the British note of Dec. 1—the United States government have decided not to recommend this solution to congress.

"3. In view of this decision his majesty's government have determined to make payment of the amount due on Dec. 15 under the funding agreement of June 18, 1923; but they think it desirable to take the opportunity of stating clearly their position in regard to this payment and of explaining the circumstances in which they have arrived at that conclusion

See Disaster in Revival.

"4. For reasons which have already been placed on record, his majesty's government are convinced that the system of intergovernmental payment in respect towards debts as it existed prior to President Hoover's initiative of June 20, 1931, cannot be revived without disaster. Since it is agreed that the whole subject should be reexamined between the United States of America and the United Kingdom this fundamental point need not be further stressed here.

"5. In the view of his majesty's government, therefore, payment to be made on Dec. 15 is not to be regarded as the resumption of annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement. It is made because there has not been time for discussion with regard to that agreement to take place and because the United States government have stated that in their opinion such payment would greatly increase prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question.

Call It "Capital Payment."

"6. His majesty's government propose accordingly to treat the payment on Dec. 15 as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement; and they are making arrangements to effect this payment in gold as being in circumstances least prejudicial of methods open to them.

"7. This procedure must obviously be exceptional and abnormal; and his majesty's government desire to urge upon the United States government the importance of an early exchange of views with the object of concluding the proposed discussion before June 15 next to obviate the risk of a general breakdown of existing intergovernmental agreement."

BASEL BANKERS SAY PAYMENTS WILL NOT UPSET EXCHANGES

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The Swiss Telegraphic agency today said that the general opinion of bankers gathered here for the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Bank for International Settlements was that payments to the United States in December would not cause any disturbance on the exchange market.

The agency quoted the bankers further as expressing the opinion that rapid stabilization of all exchanges is desirable and should be taken into consideration. This remark was made in connection with a recommendation of the directors last July.

Mother and Girl Scream, Driving Robber from Store

Mrs. Emile Patterson, owner of a confectionery at 4046 Armitage avenue, and her daughter, Hope, 16 years old, tussled with a robber and routed him with their screams early yesterday when he tried to force his way into the store. Mrs. Patterson was locking up the store when the man appeared at the door. When she opened it, he pushed his foot inside and pointed a revolver at her. She pushed against the door and screamed. Her daughter came to her aid, also screaming, and the bandit fled.

wondering whether the government will draw the payment from a sinking fund or whether there is sufficient gold and foreign currency in the exchange equalization fund. This was started at £50,000,000 [about $495,000,000 at current exchange rates] for use by the government in controlling violent fluctuations of the pound sterling. Operation of the fund is shrouded in strictest secrecy. What its condition is at the present time is known only to treasury officials.

No Gold from France.

In connection with the problem of raising the money, an official denial was issued at 10 Downing street tonight that French gold is being advanced to help tide over the British payment. This was allegedly agreed to upon the condition that Britain would not demand payment of the French annuities next March.

At the same time no budgetary transaction is necessary. Since the payment is not to be made out of revenue, rumors that a new budget would have to be arranged, because no provision for the instalment was made in last April's budget, die a natural death.

The question of technical default was raised in official circles tonight because it seems certain that gold will not be available in the United States by Thursday. It is pointed out that due "to the friendly relations between the two countries" the mere fact that the gold will not be physically handed over into the vaults of the federal reserve bank would not cause this question to be raised.

Could Earmark Gold.

A bookkeeping transaction at the Bank of England could earmark sufficient gold to the credit of the federal reserve, reducing any physical operations to a separate storage of the metal which could be shipped to the United States as and when required.

Although today's note was not written and approved at a formal cabinet session, its contents were decided upon a week or so ago when account was taken of the position which would arise if the United States insisted upon full payments.

The note had the individual approval of Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, who are at Geneva.

LONDON TIMES CALLS STIMSON'S REPLY 'NATURAL'

LONDON, Dec. 12.—[Monday.]—(AP)—The London Times called Secretary of State Stimson's quick reply to the British war debt note "quite natural" in a brief comment today. The American answer came too late for comment in today's morning papers, the Times alone treating the question. Other papers devoted themselves to the British note published yesterday.

"In a very prompt reply it is naturally pointed out that the secretary of the United States treasury has no authority to accept payment except in accordance with the existing agreement," the Times said.

The Daily Herald foreshadowed the possibility of American dissent to the British note in an editorial, which called the English memorandum "none too urbane" in wording. The paper said that if Mr. Stimson "should refuse to accept the money under the terms of the British note the British government could throw on the United States full responsibility for the political and financial chaos which may ensue."

Grandmother Is Killed in Fall from Second Floor

Mrs. Rebecca Baron, 56 years old, 2245 Geneva terrace, was killed yesterday when she fell from the rear flat of her second floor home as she was drawing in a clothes line. She had hung out some clothing of her 1 year old grandson, James Copes, and apparently leaned over too far in drawing it in, according to police.

FARM BOY BEATS UP 3 HOODLUMS AND CAPTURES 1

Three young hoodlums, who attempted to make off with two suitcases left in the automobile of Guy Gould, a farmer of Peshtigo, Wis., at State and Quincy streets, were routed by Gould's son, Everett, 19 years old, who captured one of them.

The hoodlums had felled Everett's father with a blow on the head with a wrench, when the son stepped in and gave the trio a beating. Two of them took to their heels, but the third, who said he was Kenneth Arno, 17 years old, 35 North Paulina street, was taken to the Central police station by Everett.

The Gould family had driven into Chicago to visit friends. After parking their car in the loop, they decided to see the sights of the city by walking around. As they returned they came upon the youths looting their car.

Found Shot Through Head; Kin Tell of Despondence

U. S. NOTE UPSETS FRENCH PLAN TO FIX OWN TERMS

Herriot to See M'Donald on Debt Deal.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—[Monday, 4 a. m.]—The answer of the United States to the British debt note, which was fired back to London within eight hours of its receipt, hit France on the rebound early this morning and blew the bottom out of the government's plans to pay "with reservations" as they stood last night.

So grave was the news considered by Premier Herriot, who was informed of the reply by telephone from the British embassy, that he decided to arise at 7 a. m., to hold an impromptu conference with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain. MacDonald will pass through Paris on his way home from disarmament discussions at Geneva at that hour.

MacDonald May Stop Over.

In view of the decisive check encountered by the Franco-British alliance in the offensive they are carrying on for general cancellation of war debts behind a smoke screen of local disturbances, it is considered possible that MacDonald may change his plans and stop over for a few hours.

The government's decision is once more put in doubt pending the result of a talk with the British prime minister. If Herriot is assured of continued British support in view of America's insistence that the debt funding agreement stands, his path in the chamber of deputies this afternoon may not be any rougher than before. But it is also more than possible that the entire chamber may kick over the traces and rise up unanimously against making any further payments to the United States under any conditions.

Today's parliamentary debate on war debts promises to be a "knock down and drag out affair." Demonstrations against payment to the United States broke out in the Latin quarter last night with the participants clashing with the police on café terraces.

Despite orders of Chief of Police Jean Chiappe forbidding manifestations, the French royalist organization, Action Française, late last night served notice that it would march on the chamber this afternoon to protest against paying.

Police Reserves on Guard.

Special forces of police reserves and if necessary, Gardes Republicaines, have been ordered to deal with the demonstrators.

While a mob of war veterans stood outside the Quai d'Orsay shouting "Not one sou! Down with debts!" the cabinet yesterday adopted Herriot's plan to pay the $19,261,432 installment next Thursday with the reservation that the payment is simply an advance on whatever settlement is reached at a debt revision conference.

It is known that the French had intended to specify a lump sum payment method as was adopted at Lausanne for German reparations, but America's note swept this plan into the discard along with the rest.

The cabinet's deliberations were interrupted when the war veterans sent delegations to petition Herriot against making the payment. Earlier in the day 3,000 former soldiers attended a mass meeting in a Paris hall held under the auspices of the National Confederation of War Veterans' societies. The hall rocked with applause as speaker after speaker attacked the debtor government and the American creditor.

Attacks "Uncle Shylock."

"Go to Verdun or any other place along the old front and listen to the voice of the dead," shouted Edmond Bloch, secretary of the General Association of War Cripples. "They did not give their lives so that France should pay in place of Germany."

Jean Goy, Parisian deputy, attacked "Uncle Shylock" and aroused his audience by urging them to adopt revolutionary methods if necessary to prevent payment to America. The meeting closed with the unanimous adoption of a vigorous resolution calling upon France to pay nothing to the United States as long as it receives nothing from Germany.

When the meeting broke up about 1,000 veterans began to march toward the Quai d'Orsay. Police reserves were mobilized to prevent disorders.

A feeble effort was made to turn back the marchers near the Quai d'Orsay, but the veterans shouldered their way through the police lines. Faced with the necessity of using force against that grim-faced army, many of whose members hobbled along on crutches and wooden legs or wore patches over their eyes as the result of wounds, the police drew back and contented themselves with keeping the crowd from joining the marchers.

Veterans Refuse to Halt.

In a final effort, Chief of Police Chiappe stepped out in front of the column of veterans and beseeched them not to demonstrate in front of the foreign ministry. The leaders of the veterans refused to halt, but assured Chiappe they would maintain discipline in their ranks, whereupon the chief of police surrendered and walked along at the head of the column.

The delegation, headed by Deputy Scapini, a blind veteran, and four colleagues from the chamber, entered the grounds of the Quai d'Orsay and requested an audience with Herriot. The premier consented and interrupted the cabinet meeting to receive the veterans and listen to their petition against paying the debt installment.

2 KILLED WHEN NATIONAL GUARD PLANE CRASHES

Bernardsville, N. J., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Lieut. Guy Rudd and Sergt. Robert Juneman of the 119th observation squadron, forty-fourth National Guard division, were killed today when a plane they were flying in formation with two other National Guard planes crashed in an apple orchard on the Robert L. Stevens estate and burst into flames.

According to residents of Bernardsville, when the plane passed over that town it was obviously in difficulties. Smoke was issuing from it and it was less than one thousand feet up, and was losing altitude rapidly.

Both Rudd and Juneman wore parachutes and might have tried to save themselves by jumping. They must have seen that there was no place favorable for an emergency landing. Apparently Rudd hoped to "set the ship down" in an apple tree as the most favorable landing that could be attempted under the circumstances.

The ship was an open cockpit Douglass observation plane of the 038-B type, equipped with dual controls, and powered by a 600 horse power Hornet engine.

CATHOLIC GROUP TO ESTABLISH 300 RELIEF BUREAUS

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul will take over from the Illinois Emergency Relief Fund all charity work of that organization applying to needy Catholics, it was announced yesterday.

Three hundred relief bureaus in Chicago and Cook county will be established by the society. In this way the society will act as agent for the fund.

Announcement of the plan was made at a meeting in the Stevens hotel of members and officials of the Central charity bureau of the Catholic church. Among the speakers were Cardinal Mundelein, Msgr. William A. Cummings, diocesan supervisor of charities, and James F. Kennedy, president of the metropolitan central council of the society. It was pointed out that the society in taking over the Catholic end of the fund's work could operate more efficiently and save overhead expenses.

NEW SNOWFALL COVERS NORTH HALF OF NATION

A fresh blanket of snow covered Chicago yesterday as part of a general snowfall which extended across the central and north area of the country from California to the east coast.

The snowfall here yesterday measured 2.4 inches as against a fall of approximately 4 inches over Friday night and Saturday. J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster, predicted that there would be a lull in the snow today, but more snow tomorrow. Little change in temperature is expected. Yesterday's minimum reading was 24 degrees.

Little Effect on Transportation.

All city parks were active with children and grownups, too, who got out old and new sleds and used every slope and hill for their sport. Traffic was not impeded to any great extent, largely because the snow was light and dry, surface line and rapid transit transportation moved close to schedules, and regular sweepers were in the business areas last night cleaning the streets for today's beginning of another week of Christmas shopping.

The snowfall failed to prove a boon, as it has in previous years, to the denizens of the flophouse districts bordering the loop. The city employed no extra help, assigning 200 of the regular street cleaners of the 1st and 2d wards to the loop cleanup.

City officials were doubtful if the flophouse denizens would get any snow shoveling revenue from the city this year because of the condition of the city finances. In past years the bill for extra labor and trucks in removing a single heavy snowfall has sometimes mounted as high as $150,000. It was suggested yesterday that instead of paying cash this winter the city might recruit its extra labor, in case of heavy snowfall, from the shelters for the idle maintained by the emergency relief commission, paying the men in script good for food and lodging.

Country Roads Open.

Motorists found driving on country roads about Chicago less troublesome yesterday than on city streets. In the country the dry snow did little to block wheels, and corn and other vegetation still standing in fields prevented drifts from forming on the highways.

In the city, however, the constant stopping of automobiles at stop lights and other street intersections melted the snow and formed a layer of ice which caused dangerous skids. The Chicago Motor Coach company sprinkled sand on a large number of these danger spots located on boulevards. The company had fifty snow plows at work on the boulevards and the Chicago surface lines kept gangs working to keep its tracks clear.

John Cooper, 3634 Ellis Park, walked into the Wabash avenue police station yesterday shivering and scantily clad. Two men had held him up at South Park way and 48th street, taking his overcoat, hat, coat and pants, he said.

Extends Into Virginia.

Dispatches from other parts of the country described conditions similar to those in Chicago. The snowfall extended south into Maryland and Virginia. Washington had two inches of snow and expected more last night.

St. Louis had a sleet storm. There were heavy snowfalls in Pennsylvania and upper New York, and a considerable fall in New York City. President Elect Roosevelt was prevented from attending church services near his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate.

San Francisco had snow accompanied by the lowest temperatures in the 62 years covered by weather bureau records. The mercury dropped to 27 degrees. Automobile races at the Oakland speedway, across the bay, had to be postponed because of the snow.

There was two inches of snow in the San Joaquin valley in central California, but orange growers believed that their groves were safe unless the temperature dropped further. Ninety per cent of the orange crop has been picked in that district.

BUYS 'HOT' CAR UNWITTINGLY; FACES CHARGE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 63; recovered, 58; found stripped, 29.

Nathan Ladeson, 114 Ridge avenue, Evanston, must appear in court today on a charge of possessing a stolen car because he failed to investigate thoroughly when he bought the automobile two months ago.

He bought the car, he told police, from a man named Penson, who gave his address as 500 North Homan avenue. On Dec. 8 Mr. Ladeson drove the car to the loop and it was stolen.

Sergts. James Kerwin and Edward Isenberg of the automobile detail were put on the case, and yesterday recovered the car. In checking the motor and serial numbers they found both had been changed and that the car had been reported stolen last Aug. 1 by Max Shaloway, 2210 South 50th avenue, Cicero.

Los Angeles Shivers with Snow and Frigid Blasts

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Foothill suburbs of Los Angeles were mantled with snow today as winter descended, bringing freezing temperatures to the city and adjacent fruit belts. Firing of smudge pots in lemon and orange groves was started last night. Temperatures as low as 23 degrees were reported from hardest hit districts. There were many fire calls in Los Angeles as heating facilities were taxed to combat icy winds and driving rain.

U. S. SIGNS WITH FOUR EUROPEAN POWERS ON ARMS

Agrees to Work for Cuts in Real Earnest.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—The United States today became a signatory to an agreement entered into with the "Big Four" powers of Europe—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—to go to work for world disarmament after Christmas in real earnest.

The accord, which resulted after nine days of arduous conversations between representatives of the five powers, also brought Germany back into the disarmament conference fold by promising her equality of armaments at some future date along with fulfillment of the French security dream.

Norman H. Davis signed the agreement for the United States, which binds it to work without delay with the four European states for a "convention which shall effect a substantial reduction and a limitation of armaments" and leave the door open for still further reductions.

Germany Consents.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, got his government's consent early today to the agreements tentatively reached last night and by noon they were signed by all five powers.

It was with the conviction that the disarmament conference, when it meets in January, will have at least a fighting chance of success, disarmament being the single issue from now on, that the five signers, with Arthur Henderson, conference president, and Sir Eric Drummond, league of nations secretary, held their final meeting today.

To prepare the real plan of action, the five—Davis, Premier Herriot of France, Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, Baron von Neurath and Prime Minister MacDonald—have agreed to meet again in mid-January, just before the conference resumes. This meeting will be held in London, as MacDonald does not expect to be able to return to Geneva.

At this session Davis' suggestion of a preliminary treaty consolidating progress reached thus far will be acted upon, enabling America and the other powers not involved in the continental problems of disarmament and security to stand in the background.

Use of Force Renounced.

Germany's willingness to join other European powers in a "solemn reaffirmation" renouncing the use of force in the settlement of any difficulties, which was another highlight of the accord, is the source of congratulation all around in view of recent utterances of some of her leaders which, as one statesman here said, could not be called "peace propaganda."

All are of the opinion that while achievements as yet are intangible, they ought to reduce political tension. The disarmament conference without Germany would have been as bad as Lausanne was without the United States, a British spokesman said. This, he added, ought to convince the United States that "Europe is getting on with putting her house in order."

Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, arrived today prepared to fight any move to bury the conference, but discovered he was not needed for this purpose.

Japs Get New Instructions.

Meantime, as the league's committee of nineteen prepared to meet to recommend to the assembly ways of attacking settlement of the Manchurian dispute, the Japanese received instructions from Tokio to stand pat. The delegation here intimated that if the United States and Russia, who are not league members, are asked to join a committee of settlement, the committee can no longer be considered a league organ working under the covenant.

Moreover, the Japanese will not sit on the committee at all, they said, unless their fundamental contentions are accepted in advance. Yosuke Matsuoka, hard hitting chief delegate, is preparing for a dash back to Tokio across the United States. He may sail on the Europa Dec. 17.

London Scorns Jap Naval Plan.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The new Japanese naval proposals, injected into an already hopelessly tangled world situation, received no welcome in Great Britain. Both politically and psychologically this latest suggestion from Tokio is considered bad and untimely. There is suspicion here that this move was made now by Japan to cloud the Manchurian situation further or to gain bargaining material in negotiations to weaken the case set up by the Lytton committee's report.

Eye Regional Scheme.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 11.—To students of far eastern naval politics the novel and important part of the new Japanese scheme is the proposed regional arrangements for mutual limitation of secondary armaments.

Statistical comparisons made by adding the proposed maxima in offensive and defensive categories, it is pointed out, are at the present stage irrelevant. No final aggregate figures are named or can be reached until the United States, the British commonwealth and Japan have negotiated a regional convention fixing their quotas in this class.

Regional conventions are an essential part of the scheme, for only some such arrangement, the Japanese hold, will bring disarmament down to earth.

Contend Parity Not Meant.

In setting maxima for the secondary classes the Japanese allocate to themselves the same tonnage rights as the United States and Britain would have. That may be read as a claim to parity, but the text of the statement, according to the Japanese, shows it merely sets a maximum.

Under previous arrangements the maximum tended to become a minimum, but the Japanese contend that regional conventions will put an end to the tendency to build up to a maximum all-round. The maximum indicates a peak, not a standard, they say.

AMY JOHNSON BEGINS RETURN HOP FROM AFRICA

MOSSAMEDES, Southwest Africa, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Amy Johnson Mollison, seeking a record on her return flight from Cape Town to England, landed here today at 3:45 p. m. [G. M. T.], [9:45 a. m. C. S. T.] and rested for more than five hours before taking off on a projected non-stop flight to Duala, Cameroons. She said she was well ahead of her schedule.

As she landed here she put behind the longest jump in her flight homeward. It is 1,350 miles from Cape Town to Mossamedes. The hop from here to Duala is 1,300 miles. She made the trip from Cape Town to here in 10 hours and 45 minutes, averaging slightly more than 110 miles an hour.

At this rate, she would arrive at Duala about 7 o'clock tomorrow morning [1 a. m. C. S. T.].

Thousands See Takeoff.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Shouting "Cheerio!" to thousands of well wishers, Amy Johnson took off today on a return flight to Croydon airport, London.

"Hold your thumbs for me!" she called to the throngs that massed about her plane just before she pointed its nose upward into the windless morning.

"I'll get there in record time, all right," she shouted. "I must get back to Jim."

Leaves Early in Morning.

The daring aviatrix, the wife of Capt. J. A. Mollison, who a year ago flew from England in 4 days, 17 hours, and 19 minutes, only to have his wife clip more than ten hours from his record, took off at 5 a. m. [G. M. T.] or 11 p. m. central standard time Saturday.

Mrs. Mollison flew here from England in 4 days, 6 hours, and 55 minutes, arriving Nov. 13. On that trip Britain's greatest woman flyer encountered trouble over the wilds of western Africa, but thoughts of those difficulties apparently did not enter her mind as she left today.

She was traveling light. She carried only a few personal belongings.

EX-SECRETARY TO VOLSTEAD ENDS OWN LIFE

Spencer T. Rudd Tells of Despondency in Note.

Spencer T. Rudd, who was secretary to former Congressman Andrew J. Volstead at the time the dry law was enacted, shot and killed himself yesterday in Lincoln park near the Belmont yacht harbor. He had been missing since Saturday noon. A note in his pocket stated that he did not wish to be a burden.

Rudd was 40 years old, and until two years ago was vice president of the 1400 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation. He lived at 3175 Hudson avenue with his wife, Mrs. Vernon Thomas Rudd, an artist known for child life drawings, and with her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Thomas.

Cheerful When Leaving Home.

Police learned that Rudd left his home in apparently fine spirits at noon Saturday. His wife and her mother did not suspect that he would not return. Yesterday morning Mrs. Grace Nerny of 4407 Magnolia avenue, walking through Lincoln park, came across Rudd's body lying in the snow. She called the police.

In one of Rudd's pockets police found a note addressed to the coroner. It stated: "Do not in any way blame my wife or my mother-in-law for this. Sick in mind and body over all. My head buzzing all the time, so I can't hope to be a support to my wife. I must not be a burden."

According to Mrs. Thomas, the mother-in-law, Rudd had been ill recently and in the last year had seemed to be a changed man. Rudd married her daughter four years ago on coming to Chicago to engage in the real estate business.

Inactive Because of Illness.

F. W. Kinder, an official of the 1400 Lake Shore Drive corporation, said that Rudd resigned his position two years ago, and later went on an European pleasure trip with his wife. Rudd became ill shortly after his return and had not engaged actively in business, he added.

Ex-Congressman Volstead, who is now legal adviser for the northwest headquarters of the prohibition offices at St. Paul, said last night that Rudd had been his secretary at Washington from 1917 to 1923. His secretarial services ended when Mr. Volstead retired after defeat. Rudd, according to Mr. Volstead, was an orphan and had worked as a bookkeeper in a land office in Minnesota, and for a while lived in the Volstead home at Granite Falls, Minn. Since 1923 and before coming here, Rudd had worked for oil concerns at Denver and Muncie, Ind.

Among the exhibits in the show is a collection of ancient spectacles, some of them 500 years old.

ADD NEW CHARGE AGAINST SELLERS OF RELIEF COAL

Besides the charge that F. Bieschke & Sons had substituted cheap coal for the more expensive contract fuel in deliveries to families on the relief rolls, officials of the Better Business bureau have given information to the Illinois emergency relief commission that coal has not always been delivered as specified in the contracts with the commission.

"The contracts between the commission and the seven coal firms delivering fuel to families on the relief rolls call for delivery either in the basement or on the first floor," Frank H. Lanser of the Better Business bureau said yesterday, "and 75 cents a ton for that service is included in the price paid by the commission. Instances of the coal's having been dumped in the street have been furnished to the commission. If a saving of 75 cents a ton is to be made, the commission should reap the benefit and not the coal contractors."

State's Attorney Courtney is expected to have formal notice of the substitution charge today with the receipt of a letter from Kenneth Barnard, general manager of the Better Business bureau. The letter contains a copy of a sworn affidavit filed by Mr. Lanser with the relief commission.

SCIENTISTS SET SAIL FOR SOUTH AMERICA TO SEEK SPECIMENS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The two masted auxiliary schooner, White Cloud, carrying a party of scientists, sailed from here today for South America in search of rare specimens of animal and vegetable life.

The party is in charge of G. Proctor Cooper III, of New Haven, Conn. Accompanying him are William S. Shepard, retired member of the forestry faculty of Yale and Cornell universities; Charles Edward Hill of Brookline, Mass., navigator; Mrs. Cooper, who will sketch specimens and assist in motion picture making; Joseph Cadden, playwright and newspaper correspondent, and others.

An attempt will be made to correlate the flora of the British and French West Indies with the mainland of South America to prove or disprove the theory that the islands formerly were a part of the continent.

Robbers Wait Till Church Meeting Ends; Take $300

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Two robbers who mingled with the congregation of the Hungarian Reformed church today produced pistols when the meeting ended and escaped with the $300 proceeds of a charitable campaign.

LIFT OWN SPIRIT BY FILING NAME AS GOOD FELLOW

Only Investigated Families Will Receive Baskets.

In a snowstorm that dropped a holiday garment over the city, the Good Fellows yesterday started the last two weeks of their campaign to carry baskets and cheer into the homes of destitute on Christmas eve, just a week from next Saturday.

For those with overcoats and whole shoes the weather aroused high spirits becoming to the midwinter holidays. For those without overcoats and with holes in their shoes, the snow intensified their discomfort and despair.

You may continue your high spirits this morning by clipping the nearby coupon and joining the Good Fellows. You'll be assuring some unfortunate family of happiness on a day when all should be merry, Christmas.

You'll Get Family Needing Help.

Mail the coupon to Good Fellows, TRIBUNE, Chicago. You'll receive the name, address and brief description of a family worthy of your Christmas basket. Or you may call in person at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

In all probability there'll be some children in the family assigned to you. Just as the snow was a joy to youngsters with warm clothing and a warm home, while it meant suffering for children of the poor, so does Christmas emphasize the happiness or grief in a home. But all it takes is an inexpensive basket of toys, candy and foodstuff to bring Christmas cheer to the child wards of charity.

You can't miss an opportunity such as this to replace tears with grins on youthful faces merely by playing Santa Claus for an hour to some family that will have no other Santa Claus.

All Recipients Investigated.

Your family will be deserving; all of the recipients have been investigated by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook county bureau of public welfare, the Juvenile court or some other affiliate of the Chicago council of social agencies.

You'll enjoy your own Christmas a whole lot more for having done an unselfish kindness. You won't be assuming any future obligations. You won't be exposed to future charity solicitations. All you're asked to do is to fill and deliver a basket.

If you can't make the delivery yourself, cash donations will be accepted. Every penny will be spent for baskets, THE TRIBUNE paying all administration costs. Tear out the nearby coupon now.

Routs Robber with Shots, Discovers Trail of Blood

Conrad Rubli, owner of a delicatessen at 106 West Schiller street, yesterday routed a bandit who attempted to hold up the place, and apparently wounded the fleeing gunman. The robber entered with a drawn revolver. Rubli seized his own gun and opened fire. The robber fired once in return and then fled to a car in which a young woman drove him away. Bloodstains on the snow substantiated Rubli's story that he had wounded the man.

1,000 Women Will Begin Welfare Fund Drive Today

The Emergency Welfare fund drive for $7,500,000 enters a new week today with total subscriptions of $3,326,114, which is 45 per cent of the goal, and in addition money raised in the churches of the city yesterday when an appeal was made from the pulpits. The amount of these gifts will be determined today.

Solicitation of merchants outside the loop will be started today by 1,000 women under the leadership of Mrs. William L. Hodgkins. More than 5,000 workers for the trades and industries division, directed by Joseph T. Ryerson, will continue their solicitations, concentrating on groups of employes.

The largest total of donations from any one classification of business to date has come from the public utilities, it was announced yesterday by Robert A. Gardner, campaign chairman. This group has given $418,000, or 70 per cent of its quota of $600,000. Banks have given $319,000, or 55 per cent of their quota.

Lions' Officials Discuss Aid for Rural Towns

A special meeting of officers and directors of the International Association of Lions Clubs was held yesterday at the Auditorium hotel, preliminary to a two-day session, beginning today, at international headquarters at 332 South Michigan avenue. The conference discussed two ways in which the 2,700 Lions clubs in the United States and Canada can help the small town dependent on rural produce and rural relationships. One was the value of barter and exchange. The other was a general campaign for the stability of nonperishable products, such as grains and wool. These proposals will be gone over more fully today.

GREIN ASKS U. S. TO EXTEND DUCK SEASON, AID POOR

City Sealer Grein yesterday sent a request to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to extend the duck shooting season, which closes on Dec. 15, an extra day, with the proposal that hunters give to the poor their kill of that day. His telegram read:

"An over abundance of ducks this season prompts me to ask you if it would be possible to extend the shooting season one extra day, Dec. 16, allowing members of the many hunting clubs in Illinois to shoot on that date exclusively for the poor, thereby helping to fill thousands of Christmas baskets for them. Or at least allow the licensed guides to shoot 15 ducks on the last day. For this good cause many of us have already arranged to give a day's shoot of 15 birds."

Grein explained that the guide's shoot is credited ordinarily to the hunter's maximum of 15 ducks a day. If the rules were set aside for the last day, both hunter and guide could shoot 15 ducks, making the supply for the poor greater, Grein said.

JAP MILITARISTS DRAIN NATION; DEFICIT MOUNTS

Nippon Under Control of Superpatriots.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 21.—[By Mail.]—Japan's government is a muddled, opportunistic, irresponsible affair in ordinary times, a strange combination of feudalism and democracy, but in times of emergency it unifies quickly and behind the active stage, where the politicians strut, is the most unique political figure in the world, the "Genro," or last of the elder statesmen, Prince Saionji.

Cabinets and ministers come and go, the tide of party power ebbs and flows, but this remote old man, residing in a villa far from the scenes of strife, lives on, guided by ancient wisdom, inspired by pure love of the people's welfare, acting as the political mind of the emperor, above constitution, parties, diets, or popular criticism.

When the political leaders of the Seiyukai or Minseito parties go astray and find themselves in darkness, when unrest is abroad and the dagger of the assassin flashes, when Japan is in danger and a new way must be found, the great and the proud of the land go humbly to this house among the pines and await the decision.

Premier Visits Prince.

Premier Saito traveled there the other day. The budget is causing apprehension and talk of a new political upheaval. Japan is faced with a crisis of desperate importance in the league of nations. What would the supreme wisdom do? Such an institution is comforting, reassuring, to the politicians as well as to the people. Whatever happens he is never wrong. If a new crisis is precipitated the oracle is again invoked.

In earlier days the elder statesmen constituted a supergovernment which made and unmade cabinets and watched closely the policies and course of governmental affairs.

Prince Saionji has gradually withdrawn from such intimate control. He has favored the two party system, is believed to be strongly opposed to dictatorship and has exercised chiefly the power of nominating a new premier for the throne. With his passing this may fall to the grand chamberlain and minister of the imperial household, but the "Genro" is said to favor its abolition.

But these are troublous times. Politicians and political parties are discredited. There is talk of some sort of Italian Fascism being imported to Japan, and the communist propaganda is making headway among teachers, women, and students. The superpatriots are demanding less political interference with their plans for the defense and extension of the empire.

Public Trust Betrayed.

Japan has adopted the way of western capitalism so whole heartedly that many of its drawbacks and errors are accentuated here, such as concentrations of wealth and widespread dark poverty. There have been many betrayals of public trust, graft in high places and low.

"The complaint of the people against political parties," writes Ichiro Sekiguchi in Contemporary Japan, "is that party activities are demoralizing to policies and that they handicap the serious prosecution of national policies. It is not necessary to quote in extenso the list of discreditable things done recently by political parties, but suffice it to say that in whatever walk of life a Japanese finds himself, he will feel the 'political party,' from big concerns, such as the South Manchurian Railway company down to small officials and even policemen. Everything is branded either 'Seiyukai' or 'Minseito,' and it is not at all to be wondered at that against this state of affairs the mass of the people should have revolted."

Political assassinations, therefore, engineered by a group of young army and navy officers, had this broad sort of sanction, while at the same time the acts were condemned.

Adopts Coalition Rule.

Faced with the failure and popular disapproval of party government, Japan, as in England and Australia, turned to a national or coalition government, under the advice of the "Genro." It is interesting to see how this came about.

The crisis came with the explosion of bombs and the discharge of revolvers that startled Tokio on the evening of May 15 last. The chief victim was Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai who had sought to reëstablish the finances of the country on a sound basis. He represented the Seiyukai party, which, in the February elections had won 304 seats in the lower house, against 147 for the opposition. The election, however, apparently did not carry with it popular support.

The cabinet resigned, the emperor ordered the acting premier to remain in office and sent for the "Genro." The prince from his villa in Okitsu requested a delay of a few days. He wanted to keep far from the center of the turmoil and think things over. After four days the prince emerged from his retirement and took up his residence in Tokio. He invited the political leaders to tell him their views and one after another, minister counts, generals and admirals visited the old man.

Urges National Government.

He finally decided that party power could not be changed by the process of murder, that the people did not have confidence in either party, and recommended for the post Viscount Makoto Saito, former governor general of Chosen, and minister of the navy under Inukai. At the same time he instructed him to form a national government, consisting of three ministers from Seiyukai, two from Minseito and three from the house of peers. On the next day the imperial command was issued for the new ministry. It was accepted as a wise temporary measure to save the situation and not a permanent loss of constitutional government.

Since that time both parties have been jockeying to return to complete power, but the balance remains without any immediate prospect of a change. The budget controversy shows that the present ministry is under the domination or fear of the military group, for despite the unemployment, the tax burden, public debt and treasury deficit the military expenditure, after much bargaining, remains the highest in history. This is not alone for the expenses of the Manchurian adventure, but for the perfection and purchase of new arms sert them and that the party leaders, chastened and informed, will be able to take control again.

More Wars Seen.

Much depends upon the business side of the Manchurian venture. Japan will have to pour money into there for two or three years, and then if a new stable market is built and maintained and the glory of the empire undimmed the military will be justified, and there will probably be more wars.

A new third party bids for power in the coming session of the diet. It is called Kokumin Domei, or People's alliance, and is led by Kenzo Adachi, former Minseito home minister, who caused the collapse of that party government last year. The only principles announced so far by the party are a Japanese Monroe doctrine for the far east and an understanding with soviet Russia.

Adachi now has from twenty to thirty supporters in the diet. In addition to his political objective, now somewhat dim, he is building a religious pantheon in a pine wood overlooking the sea near Yokohama. This consists of an octagonal temple 60 feet in diameter in which the statues of the great religious leaders of the world, now being made in various lands, will be set up for common veneration. These are Confucius, Buddha, Socrates, Christ, Prince Shotoken, the St. Augustine of Japan; Kobo Daishi, founder of the Jodo sect; Nichiren, Buddhist saint, and Shinran, his contemporary.

It will be a long time before the Marxian doctrines stamp out the "opium of religion" from the Japanese mind or displace the family system deeply ingrained with ancestral worship in the national Shinto religion. The Fascist way seems equally foreign and impossible, for it needs a dictator, and no dictator is in sight unless it be one of the military who serves under the emperor. It will be a group that controls Japanese policies rather than a man. The outlook seems to be for a new trial at democracy, a democracy that can hold its own and justify itself amid the warring elements of feudalistic old Japan and capitalistic new Japan and gain the respect of the people.

PLAN MURDER CHARGE AGAINST WANDERWELL SLAYING SUSPECT

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—H. M. Brayton, deputy district attorney, has announced William James "Curly" Guy, 24 year old Welsh adventurer, faces a formal charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Capt. Walter Wanderwell aboard the yacht Carma last Monday night.

Announcing a warrant would be issued tomorrow Brayton said "we believe we have uncovered enough evidence to charge Guy with the murder of Wanderwell."

The decision to prosecute came after authorities again questioned Edward De Larm, an Indian aviator, concerning the whereabouts of Guy the night of the shooting. They sought to shatter Guy's alibi that he was in the De Larm Glendale home, 30 miles distant from Wanderwell's yacht.

Conflicting stories told by De Larm and his wife, Mrs. Isabella De Larm, authorities said, prompted Brayton to accede to the demands of Long Beach detectives for a murder warrant.

A DUCK DINNER TAKES PLACE OF THE 3D DEGREE

Chief Schoemaker Tries a Little Experiment.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker adopted the tactics of modern salesmanship yesterday, and invited a prospect to leave a detective bureau cell and take luncheon with him. He closed his deal over the dessert. The prospect, Frank Pizza, 19 years old, confessed his part in the murder a year ago of Detective James J. Caplis.

Caplis was shot to death on Dec. 21, 1931, when he attempted to prevent a robbery of the Beachview Garden café, 804 Wilson avenue. He was off duty at the time, and had gone to the café with a young woman. Four members of the bandit gang are now serving sentences ranging from 12 to 99 years in Joliet penitentiary.

Goes to Chief's Office.

Pizza, named by the captured killers as one of their two missing accomplices, was seized Saturday in a room at 3537 Van Buren street and locked up in the detective bureau. Chief Schoemaker ordered the youth taken to his office at noon yesterday.

"Are you hungry?" asked the detective chief.

"Sure," said Pizza.

Chief Schoemaker called a detective, and the two policemen took Pizza, somewhat bewildered at such treatment, to a restaurant adjoining the police building. All three sat down to a duck dinner.

"Well, what about it?" asked Chief Schoemaker at the end of the meal. "Are you going to tell us what you know?"

Ready to Sign Confession.

"All right," agreed Pizza. "I was with the gang that night. I'll sign a confession and plead guilty."

He was taken back to the detective bureau and Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler was summoned. In his confession Pizza stated that Frank ["Red"] Freeman, now serving 99 years in Joliet, planned the robbery. His assignment, Pizza said, was to get the contents of the cash register.

He did no shooting, he asserted. Detective Caplis was killed, he asserted, by Rocco Ferro, the sixth member of the gang, who is still at large. Other members of the gang also blamed Ferro for the actual killing.

BOY, 9, AND SISTER, 7, BREAK INTO BANK; TAKE TWO SACKS OF MONEY

Bloomsburg, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A 9 year old boy and his 7 year old sister today broke into a Bloomsburg bank, police said, and took two sacks containing small sums of money.

The children were found later by an older sister who notified the father and then turned them over to the police.

They were released tonight in custody of the father for appearance before a justice of the peace tomorrow.

The boy and girl entered the Bloomsburg Bank-Columbia Trust company, in the heart of the town, through a small window, about six inches wide, opening from a wash room, police said.

RIOTS IN SPAIN AS DOLE STRIKES SPREAD; 1 KILLED

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Riots resulting from dole strikes were reported here tonight from several parts of Spain. One person was killed and two were wounded in the town of Solera, near Jaen, when a civil guard fired on rioting strikers. The president of the Federation of Trade Unions at Oviedo was wounded by pistol fire.

Strikers at Gijon, where the walkout is fairly complete, blew up several electric wire standards even while Gov. Jose Alonso was announcing he had succeeded in procuring food supplies for the needy. Fifty persons were arrested yesterday at Salamanca where strikers stoned bus guards. Officials of Socialist headquarters in Salamanca said the strike has been declared in 200 towns of the province.

The need for greater unemployment relief is given as the reason for the walkout. Strikers at Gijon are refusing to go back to work until arrested comrades are liberated. Civil guards were increased in a number of towns.

Robber Terrorizes 2 Farm Families; Suspect Seized

Sheriff Tiffany of Lake county yesterday took into custody for questioning Robert Hanson, a Wauconda youth, during a search for a bandit who had threatened the life of a baby and terrorized two farm families in an effort to find hidden money.

The bandit appeared before daylight at the home of Herman Schers, a tenant farmer on Rand road near Wauconda, as Schers and his hired man, Gordon Voling, left the house to start the morning chores. The two men were ordered back into the house, he bandit following, after slipping on a mask. In the house he demanded $500 from Schers, who replied that he had no money.

Threaten to Club Baby.

"I'll smash the baby's head if you don't show me the money," threatened the bandit, stepping over to a crib in which Schers' baby, Jerry, 4 months old, was sleeping, and holding his revolver over the infant's head.

Schers pleaded again that he was only a tenant and had no money. Apparently convinced, the bandit left the crib. After tying up the hired man and making him get into Schers' automobile, the bandit forced the farmer to drive him to the home of Rollin Hallock, the owner of the farm.

"Tell Hallock that your wife is seriously ill and that you want to bring her in," the bandit ordered. When Hallock came to the door he was ordered back into the house and Schers and Voling were forced to follow him. In the house were Hallock's wife and her mother, Mrs. Lucy Clouth, 30 years old, who was asleep.

Strikes Woman With Gun.

The bandit gagged the three men and locked them in a closet. Then, during a search of the house, in which he found $3.50 in Mrs. Hallock's purse, the bandit struck Mrs. Hallock on the head with his gun and put her in the closet also. Mrs. Clouth awakened after the bandit had fled and freed the captives, who had been striving to work themselves loose from their bonds.

One clew that the sheriff was working on was the statement of Mrs. Hallock that she had bitten the forefinger on the bandit's right hand when he put his hand over her mouth. Hanson, the sheriff's office reported, had some marks on his forefinger, but when taken into custody he was dressed differently from the bandit.

DRY HEADS FACE DEFEAT ON BEER; BILL IS ASSURED

Mills Will Be Asked for Stand on Tax.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—For the first time since the Anti-Saloon league put the prohibition amendment upon the American people the high command of the organized professional dry groups of the country faces defeat at the hands of a major congressional committee.

Tomorrow and Tuesday spokesmen for the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U. and the other dry groups which for more than a decade have dominated every congressional committee remotely connected with prohibition will go before the house ways and means committee to demand rejection of the Collier bill legalizing 2.75 beer and light wines.

Enough Votes Claimed.

Informal inquiries directed to ranking members of both major parties on the committee today disclosed a disposition to allow the crack of the Anti-Saloon league whip to go unheeded. Both Chairman Collier and Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Ill.] asserted today that they have the votes to report out a bill favorably. Each stated that a bill, framed in accordance with the bulk of the evidence placed before the committee this last week will be framed and laid before the house at the earliest opportunity, probably this week.

When the last person on the long list of spokesmen for the dry organizations has spoken his piece the ways and means committee will call upon Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills for the administration's attitude on the passage of beer legislation at this session. Committee members said the cabinet member would be asked directly whether the treasury approves beer legislation as a revenue getter and whether President Hoover would sign a beer bill if submitted to him. The treasury's best estimates on the revenue possible from beer legislation also would be sought. It is understood the treasury will say that the beer tax always has been a good revenue getter.

McBride Will Appear.

High up in the list of drys who will sound the call to arms for dry dominated congressmen will be found F. Scott McBride, Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon league and successor of Wayne B. Wheeler, the prohibition zealot who wrote the 18th amendment into the constitution. Beside him will be the familiar figure of Deets Pickett, spokesman for the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Ella A. Boole, veteran head of the National Women's Christian Temperance union and spokesman for the nation's most fanatical drys has a place on the program beside that militant dry, Canon William Shea Chase, spokesman for the International Reform organization. A. J. Barton will speak for the Southern Baptist convention. Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of New York City will head a delegation of six women who will carry the message of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement. Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton of Cambridge, Mass., will appear for the Unitarian Temperance society.

When the last witness has been heard the committee will go into executive session to attempt to digest the hundreds of thousands of words and figures piled into the record by proponents and opponents of the Collier bill legalizing light wines and 3.2 per cent beer.

ASK RECRUITS FOR CHARITIES' MOTOR CORPS

The Volunteer Motor corps is in need of volunteers. The Chicago Council of Social Agencies issued an appeal yesterday for motor cars with their drivers to run errands for the welfare agencies which are trying to bring relief to the city's poor and sick.

"Every time the telephone rings we hope it is a volunteer because we have many more requests for service than we can fill," explained Mrs. Agnes Kawin Deutsch, chairman of the corps. "Perhaps the Jewish Social Service bureau wants a patient driven from Michael Reese hospital to a convalescent house after an operation. They call on the corps and we try to find a driver.

"The Illinois Children's Home and Aid society needs drivers to take its case workers over the city. The United Charities, the Cook county bureau of public welfare, in fact, all the charities, are in need of this service."

Those wishing to volunteer their service should telephone Mrs. Deutsch at State 8394 or visit the council's office at 203 North Wabash avenue on Tuesday or Thursday mornings.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

GANG RIDE DEATH OF BANDMASTER BAFFLES POLICE

Hunt for Clews in Life of Teacher.

"The man was small," she recalled. "My husband seemed to hesitate as he came closer. Then he turned around and started swiftly back towards home. The short man followed and punched him twice, and seemed to nudge him with something in his pocket. Then my husband turned again and went towards the car. Another man got out. They shoved him in and drove away."

The prosecutor voiced his wonder that the tall, muscular bandmaster had offered no resistance.

"He wasn't that kind," the widow explained. "He was always afraid of injuring his hands. He wouldn't even drive a nail or catch a baseball. He had them insured for $20,000. He knew how valuable they were. He had had offers to lead night club orchestras for a big salary. But he wouldn't accept those offers—his dream was to be a great composer."

Inquires About Delay.

The prosecutor was curious also concerning the delay in notifying the police of the kidnaping. As the car pulled away Mrs. Schildhauer had run down the stairs and followed it for half a block, then returned to sob her story to her father, who lives on the floor above her. This was about 8:20 p. m. and the first police alarm was received at 9:30 p. m.

"It was my fault," he said. "My wife heard Frances scream and followed her. When they returned both were so hysterical that I could make nothing of their story. There was nothing I could give the police on which they could work. So we drove over to the hall to see if Edwin had, perhaps, been held up and gone on there. When we learned he had not arrived I noticed the police."

The school principal recalled the episode of the substitute teacher, but asserted that she was in no way culpable. As he remembered it, the teacher was not transferred, but left of her own accord.

"As I remember it, there was gossip started by some of the boys," he said. "It distressed the young woman as much as it did Mr. Schildhauer. She may have called the Schildhauer home to discuss it with Mrs. Schildhauer. In any event, as a substitute, she was not in our school long. She left of her own accord."

Praises Slain Teacher.

The principal had only praise for the slain bandmaster, which praise was echoed by other teachers, by the boys in the high school band, and by their parents.

"He was one of our most successful teachers," said Mr. Wright. "His character was wholesome and his influence of a splendid type. His band was one of the best in Chicago's public school system and we were proud of it. In my five years at Austin, I never heard a complaint against Mr. Schildhauer."

With these praises in mind Capt. Kelliher, at first, could conceive of no better theory than that the bandmaster had fallen afoul of robbers. He held to this theory for a time in the face of the fact that Schildhauer's strap watch, the $2.50 and another watch given him by the band were found untouched on the body.

"There are indications of a stick-up," he said. "One of the robbers beckons Schildhauer to the curb, perhaps asking a street direction. He approaches, becomes suspicious, and turns to get away. Then the robber puts a gun on him, and he gets in the car. On the ride, perhaps, they shoot him. They're not interested in $2.50, and are too smart to take the timepiece, which might be traced to them. They toss the body out and get away."

Neighbor's Story.

But a neighbor of the Schildhauer's, Mrs. James Garvey, who lives at 3455 Fulton street, came forward with a story that made the robbery theory untenable. About 7:30 p. m. Saturday, she said, she heard the racket of a racing motor and looked outside. There she saw a muddy gray flivver without lights, and distinguished two occupants by the glow of their cigarets.

A little less than an hour later, she said, the car moved slowly eastward, to creep up on the walking bandmaster, the police are convinced. Robbers, as Capt. Kelliher conceded, would scarcely lie in wait an hour for a particular victim in a middle class neighborhood, such as Fulton street.

The story of the minor politician and his woman friend came from various neighbors. About four months ago, they said, gossip spread through the block that the politician, a precinct captain in the vicinity, was visiting a woman in a flat adjacent to the Schildhauer's.

The politician, it transpired, was a nephew of a teacher at Austin High school. His aunt, learning of the politician's peccadillo from his wife, asked Schildhauer to intervene. The bandmaster, according to the neighbors, approached the landlord of the building and had the woman evicted.

Friends in Gangland.

The only suggestion of a clew in this story was the statement of the neighbors that the politician had powerful friends in gangland. It was possible, they conjectured, that in wrath over the bandmaster's prying into his affairs, that he might have appealed to his gun toting pals to have Schildhauer taken for a ride.

The "alcohol angle" was brought up after Cicero police had made a thorough search of the spot at 58th court and Pershing road. A young couple in an auto had come upon the body there an hour after Schildhauer's abduction. They observed that his left hand was gloved and the right hand bare, with a cigar stub lying between the outspread thumb and forefinger.

"It suggests a gangland ride," said Capt. Arthur Wentzel. "They say the bandmaster hesitated before getting in the car. Perhaps he recognized his kidnapers and decided to go along in hopes of squaring himself with them. They probably let him think he had squared himself. Perhaps he lighted his cigar and was at ease. Then they gave it to him behind the ear. It has the mark of an alky killing."

Born in Wisconsin.

There was nothing in the band master's life to support the theory, however. Police learned that he was born near New Holstein, Wis., the only son of a German farmer, Herman Schildhauer. In high school he showed an aptitude for music and at the state high school band contest in Two Rivers, Wis., in 1923 carried off first prize for the clarinet.

There he attracted the attention of H. O. Vandercook, proprietor of a musical college in Chicago. He attended the Vandercook school, then went on to the Chicago Conservatory of Music, and finally to Lewis institute, where he took a bachelor's degree.

He had written his father two weeks ago inviting him and his mother to attend a concert the Austin band was giving on Jan. 11, and the parents planned to go. Last night they were planning to leave New Holstein on a morning train in time to attend the inquest this afternoon.

DIES OF GUN WOUND.

Robert Wasson, 21 years old, of 8312 May street, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital of a gunshot wound which he suffered accidentally last Friday while handling a revolver in the home of his aunt at 6643 Parnell avenue.

FUGITIVE LOAN FIRM HEAD CAUGHT AFTER SIX MONTHS' SEARCH

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Walter Clyde Davis, missing president of the City Savings Building and Loan association of Colorado Springs, Colo., who has been the subject of a nation-wide hunt since a shortage of $1,720,000 in the association's assets was discovered last June, was arrested here today.

"I'm your man, all right," Davis was quoted by detectives who arrested him. "I'm glad it's happened; I knew it had to be. I was thinking about giving myself up, anyway."

Davis had $200 in cash when caught, which he said was all he had left, although he claimed ownership of real estate worth $600,000 in Colorado.

'NORPE' REMINDS CONGRESSMEN OF ECONOMY PLEDGE

Hoover's Budget Plan Is Called Inadequate.

George W. Rossetter, general chairman of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures — the "Norpe"—reminded forty-four middle western congressmen yesterday of their preelection pledges to seek federal tax reductions of 750 million dollars during the next fiscal year.

In other words, these men who assured the organization they would go the limit in helping to reduce the cost of government, wre urged to go far beyond the recommendations of President Hoover concerning the 1934 budget. In his proposals to congress last Wednesday the President suggested maximum economies of approximately 400 million dollars.

Majority of Legislative Bloc.

The forty-four federal representatives on the list of the Norpe represent Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin and constitute a majority of the bloc from this group of states. They constitute a majority of the delegation of each state except Iowa.

"Each of these men," said General Chairman Rossetter, "has either made a very definite pledge to assure the reduction of 750 million urged by our country-wide body of taxpayers or has indicated support of economy measures of similar importance to our business institutions and our wage earners.

"Already we have taken steps to show this important congressional bloc that President Hoover's announced list of appropriations for the national government in the next year means little relief from our present difficulties.

Add to National Debt.

"Instead of presenting a budget balanced with present tax possibilities, they mean very certainly that we will add to our already stupendous national debt by at least 300 million dollars.

"That any sane congressman will vote such a budget into operation at the expense of his sorely depression-tried constituency, particularly when we find that only a few days ago a report issued by the department of internal revenue shows that income tax payments have slumped 40 per cent in one year, seems out of the question.

"We feel that middle-western congressmen have a particular interest in bringing the national budget back to reasonable limits. If any group has suffered acutely from the business slump and the wild rise in taxation and governmental costs it is that made up of the farmers, the factory workers, and the other taxpayers of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin."

PLAN MENTAL TESTS OF BOY WHO WROTE EXTORTION LETTERS

Coldwater, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Richard Odren, 17, "model student" at Roosevelt High school here, who confessed yesterday that he was the author of three extortion notes, including one to Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker demanding $10,000 on threat of kidnaping his wife, will be examined by brain specialists tomorrow.

Odren, son of a salesman, leads his class in six subjects and is a fine pianist. He told authorities he was first prompted to pen the extortion notes by watching progress of the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Among the other notes which the youth says he wrote were letters to Allen J. Pratt, wealthy manufacturer here, last September, in which Odren demanded $1,000 on threat of kidnaping 3 year old Allen Treat Pratt.

VON SCHLEICHER VICTORY SEEN IN GENEVA ACCORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—Governmental officials consider the agreement reached at Geneva last night, under which Germany is slated to return to the disarmament conference in return for a promise of arms equality, a distinct victory for Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister. The accord will ease the tension of Germany's relations with foreign countries, it is predicted.

Nationalist and military circles, however, assert that Germany has received only a promise of theoretic equality and that it remains to be seen what the powers will allow her at the next session of the disarmament conference. The Nationalists assert that by promising to cooperate in disarmament, Germany may be compelled to reduce her armaments further.

Germany's approval of the Geneva accord followed a report of it dispatched to Chancellor von Schleicher by Baron von Neurath, Germany's representative at the parley.

Truck Crashes Into House, Kills Baby, Fires Building

San Juan Capistrano, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A 22 day old baby burned to death today when a gasoline truck and trailer rolled down a hill into a farmhouse, crashed into the bedroom where the infant slept and set the dwelling afire. The baby was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stoffel. The fire destroyed the house, Stoffel's motor car and the truck and trailer.

NEW HOPE FIRES CAMPAIGN TO WIN SUPERHIGHWAY

Fox Valley League to Ask Support for Project.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Fox Valley federation was stirred to new activity in behalf of the west side elevated highway yesterday by reports from Springfield that the governor's road commission will recommend legislation next year enabling the state to finance the project with gasoline tax revenues. The commission, headed by State Representative David Hunter of Rockford, is scheduled to hold a final session on Dec. 28 and to make public the results of its year's study.

"With highway construction placed on a sound basis of traffic and economic requirements, northern Illinois will be assured of the elevated motor road for rapid automobile communication with Chicago," said Edward J. Baker, St. Charles capitalist and civic leader. "My information from Springfield is that the 1933 legislature is going to adopt these sound policies for future road construction."

Find All Delay Within City.

Mr. Baker is vice president and a director of the Fox Valley federation. The federation represents the group of cities on the banks of the Fox river 40 miles west of the loop.

"We of the Fox river valley," he continued, "fully appreciate how much it will mean to us to have safe and fast motor transportation into Chicago. The 40 foot roads are now an actuality. We can travel rapidly to the periphery of Chicago's built up area. Then we encounter the hazards and delays of congested surface streets with stop lights, cross traffic and pedestrians.

"With the elevated highway we will be brought at least 20 minutes closer to the loop. The Fox valley will become a more desirable residence for commuters.

Benefit to All North Illinois.

"These cities just west of Chicago—such as St. Charles, Geneva, Elgin, Aurora and Joliet—will not be the sole beneficiaries of this express travel facility. The benefits will be spread through all northern Illinois, including Rockford, Dixon, De Kalb, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Bloomington, Champaign, Urbana, and Kankakee. Interurban commerce will be stimulated."

"The Fox Valley federation," added Lester J. Norris, president of the organization, "will solicit support for the elevated highway in civic groups of these other cities. I think we will have no trouble showing them how it is to their interest to have the state highway department allocate Chicago's portion of future state construction on this super-roadway.

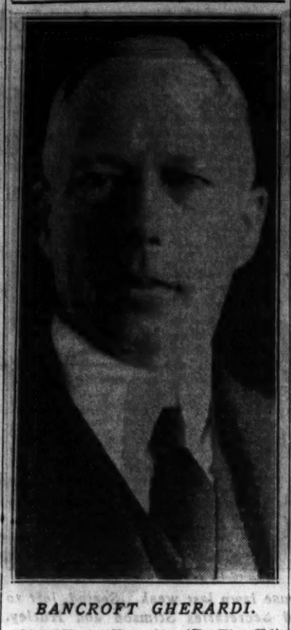
"We wouldn't suggest that any of these cities surrender any of their dues from the state highway department to build the elevated road in Chicago. But it is obviously of benefit to Illinois as a whole if the state should construct the express route rather than scatter its appropriations in Chicago on minor local improvements.

Expects More Funds for Cities.

"All cities of the state, according to our information from Springfield, are going to get more concrete from the highway department than in past years. In Chicago, there should be no exception to the rule that in spending money derived from motorists of the entire state, the department should pick projects of most benefit to motorists of the entire state."

The enabling legislation mentioned in the interview includes a removal of the present limitations on the state's expenditures in municipalities and the adoption of a policy authorizing the use of road funds to purchase right of way. These changes not only will facilitate the construction of the west side elevated highway but will enable the state to make rural and municipal traffic improvements in all parts of the state without burdening local property owners.

To Receive Medal



BANCROFT GHERARDI.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The Edison medal for 1932 has been awarded to Bancroft Gherardi of New York and Short Hills, N. J., for telephone engineering, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers announced today. The award was founded by associates and friends of Thomas A. Edison. The medal will be presented to Gherardi at the institute's convention here next month. He is vice president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

WRONG WOMAN KILLED BY SHOT, POLICE BELIEVE

Police investigation of the slaying early yesterday of Mrs. Lillian Gillispie, 55 years old, a widow living at 2755 West Harrison street, by William [Leggy] Wallace, a petty politician, led them to the conviction that he shot Mrs. Gillispie by mistake. Wallace was shooting at another woman, the investigation indicated.

At the Bridewell hospital, where he was taken after he turned his revolver on himself, Wallace's only comment on the case was the repeated assertion: "It was all a mistake."

Police are holding two other women—Mrs. Ruth Brown, 36 years old, a resident of the rooming house at 2851 West Harrison street, where Wallace lived, and Mrs. Agnes Skelly, the landlady there. They, with Mrs. Gillispie, had accompanied Wallace to a party Saturday night and returned to the rooming house.

Capt. Albert Mikes of the Marquette police said that Wallace quarreled with Mrs. Brown and fired a shot at her. The bullet missed her by inches and struck Mrs. Gillispie in the head. Wallace then ran into the street, fired a shot at a police squad which arrived shortly in response to a radio alarm, and then shot himself twice in the chest. He will recover, surgeons said.

Wallace was a storeroom clerk in the county hospital for 11 years, and was formerly a Democratic precinct captain, police said.

Commander of Army in Hawaii Visits City

Maj. Gen. A. J. Bowley, commander of the army division stationed in the Hawaiian islands, passed through Chicago on furlough yesterday. He arrived on the Overland limited of the North Western railroad accompanied by Mrs. Bowley, paid a visit to Fort Sheridan, and left for Washington on an afternoon train. He and Mrs. Bowley will spend Christmas at their home in Virginia.

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

MANUFACTURERS TO OPPOSE LAWS FOR 5 DAY WEEK

Unemployment Insurance Also Draws Attack.

Condemning unemployment insurance and the five day week as unsound in principle and costly and impractical in operation, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, yesterday addressed a bulletin to the association membership announcing that the organization will strongly oppose these measures at the next session of the general assembly.

Coöperation in Work Plan.

"A great majority of manufacturers are now adopting every practical plan for rotation and staggering employment," said Mr. Donnelly. "This association is coöperating with the national 'Share-the-Work' committee headed by Walter Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

"There is a vast difference between voluntary limitation of working hours and involuntary legislative restrictions. The latter is inelastic and would handicap, if not paralyze, many industries which, because of seasonal or trade conditions, must work more than five days a week.

Find Plan Unsound.

"The experience of other countries with so-called unemployment insurance shows this type of legislation to be utterly unsound as a means of reducing unemployment and relieving distress. An observer is warranted in questioning the sincerity of purpose of the leaders of organized minorities sponsoring this type of legislation.

"It is un-American, undemocratic, and is properly classified as a dole. Unemployment insurance laws would undermine the fabric of our economic and social life by destroying initiative, discouraging thrift, and stifling individual responsibility."

DIES OF BURNS FROM BLAST.

Anthony Gaporro, 42 years old, 1332 Taylor street, died yesterday in Mother Cabrini hospital of burns which he received Dec. 3 in an explosion in his garage. He had sought a leak in the gasoline tank of his car with a lighted candle.

YOUTH IS THIRD TO DIE FOLLOWING FAMILY DINNER

Coroner Walsh and the police began an investigation yesterday of the death of Samuel Purotta, 18 years old, who died Saturday at the Presbyterian hospital supposedly of food poisoning. He was the third member of his family to die after becoming ill following a dinner served at his home, 474 West 28th place, three weeks ago.

The other victims were Mary Purotta, 14 years old, a sister, and John Dia Mia, 38 years old, also of 474 West 28th place, an uncle. Die Mia died on Nov. 28 in the county hospital and the girl died at the county hospital on Dec. 3. Inquests into the deaths of the girl and her uncle were continued pending an examination of the bodies by the coroner's chemist.

Present Disability Rates.

"Such disability allowance is payable at the following rates:

"25 per cent disability, $12 per month.

"50 per cent disability, $18 per month.

"75 per cent disability, $24 per month.

"Total disability, $40 per month.

"No disability allowance is payable to a person who was not entitled to exemption from the payment of a federal income tax for the year preceding the filing of the application.

Cuts Allowance on Hospitalization.

"3. Amend section 202 (7) of the world war veterans' act to provide that no person receiving free treatment or subsistence in a government hospital or home shall receive more than $20 per month if without dependents. If the veteran has dependents, provision is made for payment to such persons of the difference between the $20 and the amount to which the veteran would otherwise be entitled except for the provisions of the amendment.

"Under present laws a service pension for a civil war veteran is subject to a reduction of $25 per month while residing in a soldiers' home; a Spanish-American war veteran may not receive more than $50 per month service pension while an inmate of a soldiers' home. Compensation or disability allowance received by a world war veteran is not subject to reduction solely on account of his residence in the home.

"Pensions received by veterans of the Spanish-American war and civil war and compensation and disability allowance received by world war veterans are not reduced while receiving treatment in a hospital of the veterans' administration; however, if a world war veteran is insane and has no dependents, his compensation is reduced to $20 per month while maintained by the United States in an institution. The proposed economy measure will effect a uniform law as related to the veterans of the various wars.

Dependents Cared For.

"It will be seen that the veteran with dependents will not be adversely affected by this contemplated amendment, but in so far as he personally is concerned he will only receive the amount provided for every veteran in these institutions, namely $20 per month and the remainder of his compensation, pension, allowance or retired pay, if any, will be paid to his dependents.

"4. Amend paragraph 3 of section 202 (7) of the world war veterans' act, 1924, to terminate $50 per month statutory awards for arrested tuberculosis, six months after the approval of the proposed change or five years after the date of arrest, whichever is the later. Upon termination of the $50 per month payment, compensation would be awarded in accordance with the rating provided by law for apparently cured tuberculosis which would be permanent; partial 25 per cent or $25 per month.

Changes on Retirement Act.

"5. Amend the emergency officers' retirement act, approved May 24, 1928 so that no person shall receive retired pay thereunder unless he served for a period of ninety days or more between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, and actually contracted a disease or suffered an injury as the result of and directly attributable to his war service before July 3, 1921, or regardless of length of service contracted a disease or suffered an injury in service between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918.

"Under this section those cases will be excluded if the disease or injury did not result from a causative factor arising out of and in the course of active military or naval duty within the periods specified.

"Also there will be excluded under this amendment the cases of those officers who have relied for service connection under the world war veterans' act, 1924, as amended, on the presumption of soundness or presumption of service connection contained in the first and second provisos of section 200 of that act, or the regulations issued by the United States veterans' bureau or the veterans' administration in accordance with such act, which deem that certain chronic constitutional or analogous diseases existing within a year of the discharge are service connected."

STRUCK BY AUTO, EYE INFECTION CAUSES DEATH

August W. Anthony, 71 years old, 5612 South Green street, died in his home yesterday of an infection which developed from an injury to his right eye, received Dec. 6 when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at 22d street and Cicero avenue, Cicero.

His death raised the Cook county motor death toll for 1932 to 1,050.

An inquest is to be held today at St. Luke's hospital into the death of Oscar P. Chamberlain, civil engineer and a colonel in the officers' reserve corps, who was fatally injured by an automobile Saturday as he was crossing Michigan avenue at Randolph street. Leon S. Glaser, 32 years old, 1234 Madison Park, a son-in-law of former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson, the driver of the car, was released following the accident by police, with instructions to appear at the inquest.

DRY ENFORCER SLAIN BY FIVE MEN IN AUTO

Stuart, Va., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—R. D. Shepherd, 23, county prohibition officer, was shot and killed and Joe M. Frances, 30, another officer, was probably fatally wounded early today in an attempt to capture five men fleeing with an automobile seized a few days ago while transporting liquor. Shepherd was in the act of arresting the men when he was shot in the back. Frances received a bullet in the chest. Two men are held in connection with the killing and three others are sought.

DEMAND DEATH FOR VARECHA; HEARING TODAY

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court will hear the testimony today on which he will decide what punishment to impose on James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 year old killer, rapist, and robber. Varecha pleaded guilty last week, thus hoping to save himself from the electric chair.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, however, said that he would insist on the death penalty. The prosecutor will point to the report of Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, in which the alienist said that Varecha is sane and beyond rehabilitation.

Defense Attorney Joseph Nosek will base his plea for leniency on the theory that the state is somewhat responsible because, despite Varecha's known conditions, he was allowed to escape from the St. Charles school and the home for feeble minded at Dixon. Among the crimes charged against Varecha are the murder of Frank Jordan and the rape of Miss Lillian Henry, both of which occurred on the night of Nov. 16.

AUSTRALIA SEES DEFICITS GOING DOWN, TRADE UP

Expects Balanced Budget by June, 1934.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 11.—Reduction of governmental deficits, general taxation relief, and the donation of an £8,000,000 [$40,000,000 at par] internal loan for public works are effectively under way by the commonwealth federal government in its second year of the "Premiers' Three Year Plan" to balance budgets and assist industries.

Australia is definitely on the road to improved conditions though still under a staggering national debt of £1,156,000,000 [$5,780,000,000 at par], or £178 [$890 at par] per head, and a floating debt of £82,670,000 [$413,350,000 at par].

The signs of recovery show in actual betterment of retail business throughout the country, more employment in various industries, slight rises in stock quotations, increase in Canberra city building permits and noticeable improvement in railway traffic revenue.

Deficits Lower, Receipts Higher.

Whether the Ottawa conference treaties with Great Britain and the other dominions will benefit Australia greatly still remains to be seen as the subject is yet a matter of bitter debate in the commonwealth parliament.

Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons reported to the last premiers' conference, Oct. 28, that the commonwealth deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, will be reduced from an expected deficit of £13,000,000 to one of £9,000,000, and that the federal government may have its budget balanced before the end of the three years' plan in June, 1934.

Though the aggregate deficit of all six states for the quarter ended Sept. 30, was £5,173,000, the federal government had a surplus of £2,619,000, leaving a total net deficit of £2,554,000, which is quite an improvement over the deficit of £13,071,000 on the corresponding date in 1931. Combined revenue of the commonwealth and states increased by £6,440,000, and expenditures decreased by £4,077,000, compared with the corresponding period last year.

Present momentum of the reform movement in New South Wales [the mother state], under Premier B. S. B. Stevens' United Australia government, is extending its beneficial effects into other states.

The retrogression in New South Wales under the late John T. Lang Labor rule has been compensated for by reforms under the present Stevens régime. Except for occasional local outbreaks of communistic protests in the coal fields and certain industrial centers, the wave of Red activities has died away.

Reds Are Deported.

Under the recent federal crimes act the government has prosecuted and deported several foreign leaders of the communistic elements in Australia and has stopped revolutionary publications.

The communist party, the Militant Minority movement, United Front Against Fascism, Unemployed Workers' movement, Friends of the Soviet, League Against Imperialism and the Workers' Defense corps in Australia have all been declared illegal under the crimes act.

So strong had the Red element become in certain localities that even the Royal Australian navy for one brief half hour on Nov. 7 felt the interference of communist agitators who distributed pamphlets among seamen in Melbourne inciting them to mutiny against reduced pay. Navy officials quashed the trouble quickly.

The incalculable harm done the labor movement in New South Wales by the dominant Red influences in the Lang group has resulted in a cleaning out of communists from labor organizations.

It is even likely that Ex Premier Lang, who was dismissed last May by Royal Governor Sir Phillip Game, may forsake his insurgent laborites. He would insist on his own plank of "socialization of industry and money," even against the strong right wing of the Australian Labor party now under the leadership of James H. Scullin, recent federal prime minister, and Edward G. Theodore, former federal treasurer.

The proposals for new states to be carved out of New South Wales as well as some stabilization of foreign exchange for the Australian pound are live issues.

FIGHT ON! CHINA ORDERS AS ARMY IS BEATEN BY JAPS

Acts to Stiffen Resistance in Manchuria.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11.—The collapse of the Chinese loyalist defense in Manchuria under Gen. Su Ping-wen at the western end of the Chinese Eastern railway [the Hailar-Manchuli sector] and the flight of Gen. Su with 3,000 Chinese troops across the frontier into Siberia does not mean that the volunteer movement against the state of Manchukuo has failed, the Chinese Nationalist government announced tonight.

T. V. Soong, finance minister and acting head of the executive yuan, speaking in behalf of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, declared the defeat of Gen. Su by the Japanese army was due to the fact that his troops were merely former railway guards and not experienced soldiers.

Hatred Against Japs Grows.

"Hence their fight does not mean the collapse of the Chinese resistence," Soong said. "Manchuria, as well as China generally, is seething with hatred against the Japanese invaders and nothing short of complete extinction of the Chinese people in Manchuria will enable Japan to secure peace in that area."

The Nanking government's statement was issued for the purpose of controverting reports alleging that panic was relieved over the defeat and flight of Gen. Su.

An unconfirmed report received here from Tientsin said that Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, former war lord of Manchuria, is massing four divisions of troops into Jehol province, north of the great wall, as a result of the clash between Chinese and Japanese forces Friday at Shanhaikwan.

Raid Chinese Customs House.

Sir Frederick Maze, British inspector general of customs, in a statement today alleged that the Japanese raided the Chinese customs house at Shanhaikwan and seized large quantities of goods.

The Chinese press today gave prominence to statements of Nanking officialdom expressing disappointment over the league of nations' failure to take action in the Manchurian conflict. They urge continuance of the anti-Japanese boycott as well as the support for the Manchurian loyalists and volunteers. Chinese newspapers also urge a resumption of relations between China and soviet Russia as a consequence of Geneva's failure.

A 1,000 word statement declaring Russia has refused to surrender Gen. Su to the Japanese or even to consider the Japanese demand that Gen. Su and his troops be interned in Russia was published here tonight by the official Tass agency.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE NEW REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Mr. Hoover, it is assumed, and it would seem that it must be rightfully assumed, will be retired from any part in the reorganization, if that is the name for it, of the Republican national party. There is no personal injustice in this to Mr. Hoover. Although his four years of administration were turbulent and disappointing, nevertheless even one term in the Presidency is a capsheaf for any man's ambition and in Mr. Hoover's case it can well be the climax of a varied, and you may say brilliant, career. From the farm in West Branch, Ia., to the White House by the road Mr. Hoover took is an achievement which should satisfy the old age of any American, even if Mr. Hoover adds nothing more to it in private life.

History probably will deal with Mr. Hoover otherwise than as politics has done. In politics the practical rules leave him out of consideration in the immediate future of the Republican party. He carried the standard to the party's worst defeat and that indicates the change which must follow. But it is only part of the change. It is time at last for the party to make a distinction which some men who have attached its label to themselves have not made. In specification, it should be acknowledged at last that the radicals in the party, who have not had the courage of Norman Thomas and Brother Zack Foster and who have taken the Democratic party as a half way stage, have not been, are not, and will not be, Republicans. It is a dangerous absurdity to try to maintain a party with such elements in it. The La Follettes, Mr. Norris of Nebraska, Hiram Johnson of California, Brookhart of Iowa, Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, and others like them, have used the Republican name either for their personal ambitions or for the advancement of ideas which are not a part of Republican agreements.

These men have been a nuisance and a weakness in the party. They vote Democratic. They make no attempt to bring themselves within the range of party action. They bolt its conventions and they oppose it in congress. Their place may not be in the Democratic party, but that is a future trouble they have wished on the Democrats, who have accepted it in accepting their support. It will probably be found that the malcontents are like leaders of the Anti-Saloon league and are playing both major parties for their own purposes.

The election rather plainly pointed to the men to whom it would be natural to look for responsible decisions in putting the Republican party back on its feet. These men, to mention a few, are Coolidge, Wadsworth of New York, Beck of Pennsylvania, Reed of Pennsylvania, and Glenn of Illinois. They have ideas in common and are able and consistent in putting them together as a declaration of party principles. Political trends indicate the probable division of political thought in the United States upon certain real differences which will make an actual as well as theoretical opposition as to major parties.

On the one side, which now seems to be the direction of the Democratic party, there is a movement to the left. Where it will stop no one could predict. It will be pushed further and further in the direction of socialistic or communistic government undertaking. The midway stopping point is seldom found. The doctrines embraced cannot be satisfied by halfway measures. There will be a party opposed to this, and that seems to be the part which both tradition and circumstances have prepared the Republican party to take up. Thus the Republican party will bring together American citizens who still believe in the value of representative democracy, the limitation of bureaucratic state socialism, the restriction of economic extension of government, and the freedom of the individual as still the highest aim of political and social organization. Such beliefs were the reasons for the existence of the American republic and there remain Americans who believe that no other ideal has so justified itself in human experience.

The party in putting itself together again has another element to consider. It may be described by mentioning some names, such as Capper of Kansas, Fess of Ohio, and Vandenberg of Michigan. The first two are typical of the group. They represent the dodo ideas which by this time have a geological value as crustations. Mr. Capper, for instance, is a rather pitiful survival of archaic silliness. These old boys, being regular, must be given consideration, but the back benches, well out of any drafts, can be made to accommodate them. No survey of the party would be complete without Mr. Borah, and likewise none will endeavor to chart him. He could be important, but he will probably choose to be merely lonesome.

THE R. F. C. AND RECOVERY.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is again mentioned as financing the sale to China of some of the wheat held by Pacific coast cooperatives. Six and a half million bushels, it is announced, are to be sold for three million dollars. The terms of payment are not specified, but it is commonly assumed that the Chinese are to have three years or more in which to discharge the debt.

This more or less tentative arrangement was announced almost at the moment that the administration's budget was submitted to congress. The budget makes no provision for advances to the Reconstruction Finance corporation because, it is argued, such advances will be self-liquidating. How many of the loans are of the caliber of this Chinese advance no one who has not examined the collateral held by the R. F. C. can say; but unless the common opinion is far wrong, the government is going to take some crushing losses, and those losses will have to be borne by the taxpayers.

In a sense, the R. F. C. was created to make unsound loans in an emergency. The corporation was a device by which the government's credit could be thrown behind financial institutions such as banks and insurance companies. Its advances to railroads were permitted because railroad securities formed a large part of the capital holdings of the financial institutions whose collapse would have caused untold misery to millions of individual Americans.

But that service has been performed. The panic which seized the country earlier this year has been allayed. Whether the R. F. C. ever should have been created is a question which can be left for students of economic history to decide; meanwhile it is sufficient to note that the work which the corporation was to perform has been accomplished. The time has come, therefore, to close the corporation's books and prepare to liquidate as soon as possible in the interest of the taxpayers. The longer the corporation is permitted to exist and the larger the sums placed at its disposal, the more certain it is that bad loans will be made and that the losses will be staggering and in themselves will retard recovery.

It is true, as every one knows, that bank credits have been greatly curtailed since the depression set in, but it is idle to hope that even the credit of the United States treasury is sufficient to fill the gap. The best means of bringing about the desired reëxpansion of credit is to offer those who have constructive projects in mind every assurance that their projects will succeed. A promise of higher taxes, resulting from the extravagances of the R. F. C., is not calculated to encourage investment and enterprise.

AMERICAN CONTRASTS.

Aside from the depression this is a great country. Such a reference may give a colicky feeling to adherents of the new schools of thought who observe the worst of lands in the worst of worlds. Nevertheless the observation persists. This is a great country. In these parts of it a section, at least, of the citizenship, bourgeois probably and without the proper shame of class consciousness, may sit by the window, with three or four inches of snow, freshly fallen, spread over the outdoors, and attend a football game being played among the roses. The attending citizen should have a pair of chickadees saying B. V. D. in the balsam outside. It's a cheerful thought of a hardy race.

This radio adventure in time and space is peculiarly American. Elsewhere if there is the space there is not the variety and if the snows and the roses could be produced the entertainment would be lacking. We could not regard the exercises of the first grade of the Sevastopol grammar school in the Marxian dialectic as a satisfactory substitute although in the proletarian ethic little Fedor who turned stool pigeon on his papa and got him the works from the commissars might arouse mighty cheers in Leningrad as he carried the argumentative ball. As bourgeoisie we cling to our childishness.

Sometimes California in giving the snowbound portion of the nation these treats adds a high mist to the roses, but if the players are a foot deep in the consequences of it we do not hear much about it. Even in a deluge the California sun is shining on the new Greeks and as dusk comes along the wintry lakes and as the chickadee folds up for the night the game is still going on in the golden light with the perfumes of Eden dropping upon the heroic scene.

Editorial of the Day

FARM RELIEF.

[State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

Farm relief is human relief. The person in the most interior ward of our greatest city who never saw a farm in his life has his welfare linked with farm welfare. If our farmers were to once more prosper, even mildly, doubtless business revival would come almost over night. There is not a person anywhere, no matter what the source of his wealth, who is not beholden in some measure to the farms.

The foregoing indicates that we are all in the same boat. We all want farm relief. Farm relief is so necessary to all of us that no farmer can say, "We could get farm relief if it were not for those folks in town." That is not so—every man, woman, and child is for farm relief whether he knows it or not.

But—and the "but" is very important—farm relief does not consist in everything proposed in its name. Let us get that clearly into our heads.

Not so long ago this nation stood idly by when a scheme of farm relief was proposed. There was not objection enough to it to mention. The nation—farmers and city and towns folk—in silence swallowed the scheme hook, line, and sinker because they feared they would be misunderstood if they objected. There is no use blaming President Hoover for the farm plan that didn't work. If not by actual support, then, at least by the implication that comes from silence, we were for that attempt, even though there were literally thousands that did not believe in the plan. Farmers the nation over have now utterly repudiated that plan.

Now "farm relief" is being talked again. It is being suggested for early passage at the session soon to convene. If "farm relief" is not afforded then, then an extra session of congress is now hinted in prospect.

The thought is this: If a scheme of "farm relief" is proposed that simply means perpetuation of the huge oversupply of wheat at public expense, then let those who do not believe any such scheme is sound speak right up—loudly—and say so.

No permanent good can come to farmers nor to any of us by unduly encouraging some half baked scheme in the name of kind-heartedness. There is no kindness to ourselves nor to any one in going on encouraging a supply of wheat vastly in excess of the nation's needs at a fair price. The price of wheat cannot be fair whenever there is too much of it. To have dollar wheat there must be a dollar supply, and congress cannot change that fact.

WILL THEY PAY? December the fifteenth comes this week, Thursday. We think Great Britain will walk right up to the captain's office and come across with the masuma, but France—well, it's hard to say; they haven't thrown up any barricades in the streets yet, thrown down the Vendome column, or pitched any gendarmes into the street. Payment by France will mean a crisis in Paris, and they can't have a crisis without displaying a few symptoms beforehand.

LOUIZEY.

Goliath Gale on his velocipede
Rode on the sidewalk to Louizey's house
To spend the evening on her clean-swept steps.
She touched the chain hung from the pearl sword-pin
That clasped her silken fascinator close
She coughed a little, crossed her slippered feet
In a quiet way, as though she spoke with them:
Said, "Evening, Lisith. On your way somewhere?"

She did not hide from the shrewd bachelor
Her poorly covered evidence of joy
That he had come. Adjusting his scarfpin
Worn on an ascot tie with purple stripes,
He held his large brown derby in his hand,
Picked at a bulging package, paper wrapped,
Swishing the dust from lately polished shoes
Against a bloom-heavy syringa bush.

"Why . . . no, Louizey. Can't say that I am, Unless you calculate to send me on."
The widow Prudolme has invited me
To fix her shutters, mend her puttied jug
Studded with buttons, bits of colored glass.
She's saved a side for you, she showed me once . . ."
Louizey moved her rose-geranium
Near the begonia and umbrella plants
Before she spoke, and then with diffidence:
"I never cared for Wilminna Prudolme . . .

Twirled at his mustache, hoped she did not know
It covered a new set of china teeth.
He stuttered for a moment, then he said:
"Of course, if you feel that way, why I'll stay."
He held the unwrapped package out to her,
Pushed back his slipping, well-starched, shiny cuffs;
"I've brought you a new stereoscope, and have
Some pictures of Victoria on the throne,
And Sarah Bernhardt boating on the Thames."

Louizey then was suddenly grace itself:
"Well, now, Goliath, just come in, and that
Was thoughtful of you, but I heard today
You got them for a premium with that Ungodly thing you ride around upon.
Horses for you, I guess, are out of date
Since you sit high on a velocipede.
As long as I live horses will do me!"

Two decades passed. The widowed Mrs. Gale
Rode down the Midway of the great World's Fair
With Oakley Smalley, on a red tandem,
A straw hat perched upon her pompadour,
Where on display was a velocipede:
Could speak with a supreme authority,
So putting force upon her pedaling feet
She said, while signalling with the handlebars,
"Remember back when we thought those were fast?"

OUR STOP-WATCH MYSTERY STORY for today. Samuel Insull in Greece receives his wardrobe trunk, packed to the brim, which he had ordered from Paris ten days ago and which he could not take with him at the time of his hurried flight to Athens. Now, then, sleuths, does it mean that he thinks he will be extradited from Greece and wants the warm clothing to wear home on the long voyage? Or does it mean he expects to defeat extradition and, expecting to remain indefinitely in Greece, naturally wants his full wardrobe? Find answer on page 38.

And seek the way that leads back home.

BEER AT CHRISTMAS! But probably not. However, if we just meet an old fashioned mince pie face to face along about that time—mince meat and sukar and brown crust and brandy, rare, ripe old brandy just oozin' out all over it!—oh, then we wouldn't mind whether we got beer in our Christmas stocking or not.

TONSILS AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

DR. PECK is quoted as having said that one-third of all the operations performed on all organs for all disorders is removal of tonsils and adenoids. If we add to this many thousand operations on the tonsils and adenoids the possibly millions of teeth extracted yearly but not counted in the estimates by Peck, we get an astounding number of operative procedures done in and through the mouth. A very large proportion of these operations are for the purpose of removing foci of infection that are causing arthritis, rheumatism, heart disease, neuritis, and a variety of other disorders.

In certain cases spectacular cures have resulted from these operations. In others there has been no gain whatsoever and in some harm has even been done. What we very much need is some way of telling which of the cases will be benefited by operation. The trend of medical opinion is away from the promiscuous removal of tonsils and adenoids and the pulling of teeth.

Drs. J. R. Page and A. Alving conducted a very carefully checked investigation of the effects of extraction of teeth and removal of tonsils and adenoids on a variety of cases grouped as having Bright's disease. They wanted to find the answers to two questions: If a patient has Bright's disease with dropsy and broken compensation will operation of this kind harm him and can his kidneys stand the strain? The answer was that removal of tonsils and teeth is borne very well by men with crippled kidneys. No proof was found that the operation harmed the kidneys or endangered life.

The next question was: Will operation be of service in curing or alleviating the kidney disease? The answer to this was: None. The investigation indicated that while operation was safe it was useless, so far as effects on the kidneys were concerned.

Dr. O. R. Lourie attempted to discover whether operations on tonsils, adenoids, and teeth were of benefit in certain diseases of the eyes. His conclusion was that they were not. A previous study had led him to the conclusion that removal of tonsils and adenoids had not been of great service in a long list of disorders, including heart disease, arthritis, and rheumatic and neuralgic pains.

Bloomfield established several years ago that in certain types of enlarged tonsils the bacteria in the tonsil or the tonsil itself served to protect against infection. Persons with this type of diseased tonsils, if you want to call it such, had more sore throats after the tonsils were removed than they did before.

There is no denying the fact that the situation is a difficult one. There seems no satisfactory answer to the question, Shall the tonsils and adenoids be removed? In some cases the answer appears to be easy to arrive at. In the majority of cases it is not. Will some one discover a simple working method by which satisfactory decisions can be made?

FAT AND APPLES.

J. K. writes: 1. What is the average weight for a girl 5 feet 7½ inches tall and 21 years old?

2. I eat as many as six apples a day between meals. Is this fattening?

3. What fruits are the least fattening?

REPLY.

1. About 141 pounds.

2. There is very little to fatten one in six apples. But why eat anything between meals? If one eats three standard meals a day and in addition eats six apples he will probably put on weight. The eating-between-meal adults are nearly always fat and, what is more, they remain so, however much they talk about wanting to reduce.

3. Those that are the most watery. The juicy ones are least fattening.

RAZOR CANCER.

W. B. writes:

1. What is the remedy for razor cancer?

2. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Radium is the best remedy. Operations, X-rays, and even pastes can cure.

2. Yes. Quite so.

VACANT LOT CLEANED.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please send some one over to clean up the vacant lot opposite us. There is an old junked auto and other debris scattered about and it makes a very disagreeble sight. Also, there is a deep hole dug on it. J. R. S.

Report is made that old automobile body and rubbish have been removed from vacant property referred to and hole filled in. Conditions are now satisfactory and householders in the vicinity have been notified, where necessary, to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output and to stop further dumping. Location will be kept under observation.

CIVIL SERVICE ACT.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—In the rating on a civil service examination, would military service have any weight? I have taken the examination for patrolman in the city of Chicago. I was honorably discharged from the army in 1926, completing three years' enlistment. J. D.

Replying to this inquiry, I wish to inform you that the civil service act provides that preference in certification may be given only for military or naval service during the years 1861, 1862, 1863, 1864, 1865, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, or 1919. However, few veterans were eligible in the recent examination for patrolman, in view of the age limit, 21 to 28 years. JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary Civil Service Commission.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 12, 1916.

AMSTERDAM.—Sixteen persons were killed and several mortally wounded in a riot at Tourcoing on the occasion of the deportation of 300 civilians by the Germans, according to the Echo Belge. The paper says that the riot started when one of the men ordered deported was struck on the head with a rifle butt by a German soldier because he did not walk fast enough. Thereupon the crowd of spectators rushed at the soldier and a general mêlée followed, the German troops using their rifles. The account says that a squadron of cavalry had to charge the crowd before order was restored and that fifty arrests were made.

LONDON.—The Germans already have begun to impose heavy taxes on the Rumanian towns which have fallen into their power. In Craiova, a place of only 50,000 persons, the tax amounts to $10,000,000, or $200 per capita. The population in Bucharest, which has 350,000 inhabitants, has been ordered to pay double the rate of Craiova. A Jassy dispatch says that in addition to the heavy war tax in Bucharest an edict has been issued forbidding the circulation of paper money unless it is marked as German, for which 30 per cent of the value of the notes is demanded. A similar contribution, but for 15 per cent, is exacted in Craiova.

LONDON.—Despite the claims from Berlin that the resistance of the Rumanians has been broken, vigorous fighting is in progress at all points in that field. The heaviest loss to the defenders is detailed in the official report issued in Sofia, which tells of the capture of the western end of the twelve mile bridge across the Danube at Cernovoda. This report also says that a Bulgarian force crossed the Danube into Rumania near Silistria and captured the city of Kalapasi. Strong Russian attacks were delivered on the Transylvania front today, but were unsuccessful and without influence on the advance of the Teutonic armies in Wallachia.

LONDON.—Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre, commander in chief of the allied armies in the west, hero of the battle of the Marne, master strategist, and savior of France, is to be "kicked upstairs." France considers that Joffre has done more for his country than even Joan of Arc, but that he has given of his best and must make way for new blood, for fresh ideas, and for greater energy. It is possible that he will be made chief of the allied war council. Who is to succeed him probably will be decided this week. The choice seems to lie between Gen. Nivelle and Gen. Petain.

PARIS.—There was tumult in the chamber of deputies during the discussion of the military appropriations bill when the Socialist deputy, Pierre Brison, spoke. He was violently interrupted from all parts of the chamber when he declared that Frenchmen should no longer fight to assure the possession of Constantinople to Russia. "You're a traitor!" was yelled at M. Brizon by numerous deputies.

CHICAGO.—Charles C. Healey resigned as chief of police. But before surrendering to the pressure upon him he dictated terms far different from the unconditional surrender originally demanded of him. His resignation takes effect on Jan. 1, but instead of leaving the department on that date he will step at once into his old rank as captain in command of the traffic division. That position, in his eyes, is second only to the office of chief. He also won his point that he resigned only because of the mayor's request and not because of his impending trial or any similar reason. The opinion prevailed that First Deputy Herman Schuettler is about the only member of the department who has a chance to succeed Healey.

ABOUT BEER.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Dec. 3.—It seems to us too much attention is being paid to the so-called big brewers as to matters pertaining to the brewing business. Since they were primarily responsible for some of the conditions leading to and causing prohibition, why wouldn't it be fair to consult with the smaller members of the brewing fraternity? The fact that the breweries are large does not signify that they know everything about the industry. On the contrary, being so large they have lost that point of personal contact which is essential to the well-being of the new brewing industry if it is to properly survive and avoid the old abuses of big business methods or rather lack of common sense.

As regards the alcoholic content of beer, we think that should be left with the industry, however, setting a maximum of 4½ per cent. An arbitrary 2.75 rate is undesirable as that beer, while palatable, is too thin. A 3.25 is a much better beer. By raising the alcoholic content it would enable such of our industry as desires to compete with foreign products.

If the political economists intend to have the beer industry shoulder the whole national, state and municipal debts, they may as well forget all legislation on the beer question. To begin with, a tax of $3 or $4 per barrel is ample if beer is to sell for 5 cents a glass. If you raise the taxes too high, and that is anything over $4 per barrel, then you cannot sell it for 5 cents. If beer sells at 10 to 20 cents per glass you defeat the very object for raising revenue, because the workman with his present day limited earning power cannot and will not pay more. What is more, he should not pay more than 5 cents per glass. What the country needs today is a large glass of good, wholesome beer for 5 cents.

The proposed tax on each barrel of beer is not all. Each state and city proposes additional taxes, ranging from $500 to as high as $1,000 for each restaurant, hotel, club or drug store selling the same. Besides that is your property tax, sales tax and what not. As we said before, if you consider taxing beer to the limit, the returns will be as disappointing as the postoffice 3 cent rate. A big dose of common sense legislation is needed. W. A. HENGE.

TELL IT TO THE ASSESSOR.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—The new deal in the assessment of personal property taxes seems to be merely another shuffle and not a very good one at that. I have just received a list of the assessed valuations in the district in which I live and to my surprise find that the fair cash value as stated in the sworn schedule I sent the assessor has been increased four times. In other words, in the opinion of some one in the assessor's office, who has never been in my home, I am a liar under oath.

Furthermore, in the six flat building I live in only three of the tenants are on the list and the valuation of the janitor's few belongings is more than the tenant of a $100 a month apartment who recently bought a new $2,000 automobile and who earns at least $5,000 a year. In the block there are 70 persons listed, while there are 111 occupied apartments and two large private residences, the latter not being listed. Needless to say, the army of the tax strikers has enlisted another recruit. B. F. J.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Honest government is cited so much as the great need of the day that it is becoming a red herring to drag over the far greater need of honest citizenry. The second must precede the first. Yet the only apparent difference between the average citizen and those in control of government is the matter of opportunity. In demonstration of this we could submit any of the personal property lists which are being studied and commented upon at the present time. Having lived and worked in District 10, town of Jefferson, for over a decade, a district considered among the better residential sections of our city, we can present a few exhibits from the same. Being one of its highest assessed residents we may be privileged to speak.

Exhibit A. A poor family living opposite a railroad in a hut with furnishings for which we would not give $50 and a prominent business man with a beautiful home and an 8 cylinder car, both assessed for $130.

Exhibit B. A widow who has labored hard to raise two children and a relict who would not give her jewelry in exchange for the others' possessions, both assessed for $195.

Exhibit C. A professional man and a jack of all trades who would profit by exchanging all of his belongings for the former's automobile, both assessed for $195.

Exhibit D. Several prominent residents, not even listed [possibly a printer's error].

Our impressions: [1] The majority of our better citizens, including both business and professional men, think very lightly of perjury under oath; [2] in our district savings by perjury approximate $100,000 in taxes [multiply by square miles in city to determine city's loss]; [3] if even our better citizenry think so lightly of their word under oath, is it not time to discontinue the farce of demanding an oath? [4] must not Mr. Jacobs grant that his method of arriving at equitable assessment and taxation is a failure in as far as it penalizes honesty and rewards perjury? [5] before condemning dishonest government, should we not put our own houses in order, recognizing that government and citizenship are closely interrelated?

Pastor Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Savage, Bogan and Board Trim Budget.

As a step toward balancing its budget the board of education will have to eliminate appropriations of $4,100,000 for new school buildings in 1933. That opinion was expressed yesterday by Howard P. Savage, business manager of the school system.

The economy will mean the virtual abolishment of the bureau of architecture from the system besides a wiping out of approximately $3,000,000, with which it had been proposed to finance the completion of three new school structures.

John C. Christensen, school architect, will be retained to supervise work on urgent repairs and inspection of the schols, according to the plan. He will have a staff of only five men in place of the fifty employes now on his pay roll. These employes are working two weeks and laying off two weeks at present.

No Program Wednesday.

The economy program will not be ready for the school board meeting Wednesday, Mr. Savage said. The complete picture of what the school board must do will be arrived at following a series of conferences between the business manager and Superintendent William J. Bogan.

The school trustees will be offered an 80 million dollar tentative budget for 1933. From this they must trim somewhere near $20,000,000 to keep their promise to the citizens' committee on public expenditures that the school tax levies for 1933 will not total more than 48 million dollars, exclusive of the bond redemption levy.

Mr. Savage explained that the economy measures will be embodied in a supplementary or revised set of estimates of expenditures.

Half of Cut Up to Board.

"In this new set of figures I think we can bring the budget down 8 or 10 million dollars," he said, "and then the trustees will have to decide on further reductions or salary cuts."

The size of the reductions will depend upon the action taken by Mr. Bogan. For example, should he accede to the proposal of Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, to close Chicago Normal college for a year, there would be a saving in janitor service.

However, the revised set of figures submitted by the business manager and superintendent will outline what economies may be made in the school system if they desire to do so.

Marshals Fight on Pay Cut.

Agnes S. Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, declared that teachers, prominent educators and parents in Chicago are mobilizing to fight the salary cut. The slash in Chicago's school tax levies, she said, had stunned the entire educational world.

Several school trustees have said that the average reduction in basic salaries for teachers will be about 10 per cent. The basic schedules were not touched in 1932, although other economies were adopted, such as shortening the school term and not paying the teacher for holidays. Bonuses were also suspended.

SUED BY WIFE, PAYS HIS BILLS AND DIES BY GAS

After writing several letters in which he inclosed payments of current obligations, including his gas bill, Ernst Knodel, 46 years old, a contractor, ended his life yesterday by inhaling gas in his basement apartment in a building which he had constructed at 1307 Lincoln street, Evanston.

Police, who broke into the apartment in response to an alarm from neighbors who had smelled gas, found Knodel's head resting upon a pillow on a table, an empty cognac bottle before him. The jets of a nearby gas range were wide open.

In apparent explanation of his act, Knodel had placed on the table a newspaper in which he had ringed the story of the divorce suit which his wife, Mrs. Anna Knodel, 1128 Maple avenue, Evanston, instituted on Dec. 8. There was also a summons of the Superior court in the divorce case, which had been served on him Saturday.

In her suit, the newspaper story stated, Mrs. Knodel charged her husband with desertion, and asserted that he suffered from the delusion that he was being spied upon. While Knodel maintained his home and an office in the apartment building, the structure was recently placed in receivership, police said.

ROBINS ISSUES STATEMENT ON HIS OWN CASE

Says 'Darkness' Averted More Serious Collapse.

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Raymond Robins, prohibitionist, social reformer and fr ..l of President Hoover, made his first public statement today concerning his disappearance en route from New York to Washington to keep an appointment with the President. He denied that he was a "quitter." That was taken as a reply to hints that his disappearance and reappearance as "Reynolds Rogers," prospector in North Carolina mountains, had been a sham in order to hide from something. He asserted the "darkness" which had overtaken him was "a provision of nature to save me from a serious collapse."

The statement was brought here from Brooksville, Florida. There Col. Robins is recuperating at his winter home. The statement was made through Dr. Fred B. Smith, chairman of the world alliance for international friendship and moderator of the national council of the Congregational churches, who is known as the Robins' closest friend. The Robins' version was made public by Charles Stelzle, publicity director for the alliance and for other religious and reform groups.

Text of Statement.

"I have come through a terrible experience," says Robins' statement. "Here, in my home, surrounded by my family and the friends and associations I have loved since I was a boy, I am being fully restored. Those who are wise in matters of this sort assure me that the darkness that overtook me in the midst of my day's work was a provision of nature to save me from a serious collapse. Those who meet me in the future will be able to judge of my mental clarity. Those who have known my life in the past will not believe I have been a quitter.

"For the generous and tender helpfulness of many dear friends in these hours of suffering for my wife and family I am grateful beyond words. For the competent and kindly coöperation of the officers of government and the immense aid—and in the main, truthful and fair treatment—accorded me by the public press, I cherish abiding gratitude.

Forgives Unfair Critics.

"In so far as there has been untrue and unfair comment, I forgive its authors and accept it as the cost of a life spent in battle for causes I hold dear. All that I ask for the future is judgment upon the facts of my work from day to day."

Dr. Smith, who went to Florida at Robins' invitation, asserted that the Robins case was one of "overwork causing physical and intellectual fatigue," and that "any hint of there being subterfuge or deception concerning his disappearance is entirely unworthy and unwarranted."

Forbes, chairman of the club committee.

Shepherd Tries to Wreck Train Twice in Two Weeks

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, Dec. 11.—An insane shepherd, near Cheronea, north of Athens, made a second attempt within a fortnight to derail the Simplon express today. The engineer stopped the express before it struck the first of two metallic ties placed on the tracks at an interval of 100 yards. During the night the police captured the shepherd, who, according to a watchman, threatened him with death if his intention was revealed.

BELIEVES CRASH CONCEALS SLOT MACHINE MURDER

A joint investigation will be made by State's Attorney Latham Castle of De Kalb county and State's Attorney George Carbary of Kane county into the death on Friday night of Daniel Fisk of Elgin, who was killed supposedly in an automobile accident.

Prosecutor Carbary said that he believed that Fisk was a member of an Elgin slot machine ring and that he was slain in a slot machine feud. The automobile accident was merely a cover up, he believed.

The accident occurred in Sycamore, which is in De Kalb county. Fisk was riding in one car with an unidentified companion when their automobile was struck from behind by a machine containing two other men. Fisk was catapulted from his car. He was dead when picked up. His companion fled. An inquest was held, and Fisk's death was held to be accidental. Because Fisk lived in Kane county, Prosecutor Carbary took action, although the automobile crash occurred in De Kalb county. He demanded that the inquest be reopened. Yesterday State's Attorney Castle said he would join the inquiry.

Two Seized as Forgers Booked, Freed on Bonds

Isadore Kahn, alias Kayne, and Samuel Zuckerman, arrested Saturday as alleged members of a gang of forgers which has defrauded Chicago concerns of $73,000 in recent months, were booked on charges of operating a confidence game, conspiracy and forgery yesterday at the detective bureau and released on bonds of $12,500 each. The bonds, furnished by Robert Marcus, a professional bondsman living at 4916 Drexel boulevard, were approved by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas.

AVIATRIX WEDS IN AIR AS PRIEST STICKS TO EARTH

MADRID, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Madrid's popular aviatrix, Elisa Prieto, went on a long flight today. She was married in the air to Emilio Copano, a Madrid merchant. She had to content herself with a civil marriage, for the priest, who came to the "Four Winds" airport to bless the wedding, hesitated when the three motors of the airplane began to roar and refused to make the flight.

Judge Enrique Cid, who performed the civil ceremony over Madrid; Jose Alvarez Buylla, director of aeronautics, and Senora Buylla were in the plane along with a number of the aviatrix's friends. The couple came down after the ceremony, deposited their guests at the "Four Winds" and then took off on a honeymoon to Seville.

The bishop of Madrid said tonight canonical law does not authorize marriages to be performed outside holy precincts unless in case of an emergency, without permission from the pope. The couple had intended to have the priest bless the ceremony as they flew over a church.

Thomas, Hailsham Greet Premier Bennett in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—James H. Thomas, secretary for the dominions, and Lord Hailsham, secretary of war, both of whom were delegates to the Ottawa trade conference last summer, were at the station to greet Canadian Premier Richard B. Bennett on his arrival from Liverpool this evening. Bennett would not discuss the purpose of his visit and drove to a hotel in Lord Hailsham's car.

TROTZKY LAUDS TURKEY FOR AID IN MAKING TRIP

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian bolshevik, is back in Turkey, where life for him is dull but safe. He came from Brindisi on the steamer Adria, and sent the following statement ashore by his secretary:

"My wife and I have had a very satisfactory trip, which was my first during my four year stay in Turkey. Visa difficulties were easily overcome, thanks to the aid of Turkish authorities. This fact alone should quell rumors circulating in Europe that I am treated as a prisoner by Turkey. The rumors are untrue that I went to Copenhagen to talk with representatives of the soviet government. Surely Turkey would be a likelier spot for such a conversation than Denmark. The trip was entirely private, without the slightest political purpose.

"We shall return to the island of Prinkipo, where my fishing and hunting gear await me and where I have the small library which remains from the fire in 1931. I shall write a short book about my trip before settling down to more serious work on the international political and economic situation, which will occupy me throughout 1933."

BOLIVIANS CLAIM 460 PARAGUAYAN SOLDIERS KILLED

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Fresh Bolivian triumphs in the Chaco were reported here tonight in an official communique which said that 460 Paraguayan soldiers had been killed and a large number injured in fierce fighting at the now famous "Kilometer Seven." The fight has been raging for several days.

The communique said that the Paraguayans had been driven back to their second lines. It said that Bolivian casualties were five killed and a small number injured. The official report charged Paraguayan troops with attacks on Red Cross stretcher bearers.

The news that Gen. Hans Kundt, the German officer who has again assumed command of Bolivian forces, had started for Fort Munoz had a great moral effect on soldiers in the Saavedra sector, the report said. Paraguayan prisoners are quoted as saying many Argentinans are serving as officers in the Paraguayan army and that they are more severe in their treatment of troops than the native officers.

1931 PERSONALTY TAX COMPLAINTS MOUNT TO 21,117

Four Large City Towns Have Yet to File.

The board of tax appeals already has scheduled hearings for 21,117 complaints against the 1931 personal property assessment, with the residents of the large city towns of Jefferson, Rogers Park, South and North yet to file their objections. The total of these complaints is already 11,155 more than the 9,962 complaints against the 1930 personal property assessment made under the old board of assessors.

Members of Assessor J. L. Jacobs' staff pointed out, however, that the number of complaints against the personalty assessment are smaller by percentage for 1931 than they were for 1930. The assessor has given his word that the 1931 roll contains assessments which the county collector will be able to convert into cash.

The 1930 personalty assessment was the last made under the old régime of the board of assessors and the board of review.

The record shows that only 350,000 items of personalty were assessed in 1930.

Less Than 4 Per Cent.

On the 1931 personalty rolls will be more than 800,000 items. Even though another 10,000 complaints are filed they will total less than 4 per cent of the total extensions. In 1930 the 9,962 complaints were exactly 4 per cent of the total items. The 1930 rolls showed 900 million dollars of assessed valuation and the 1931 rolls one billion 100 million dollars.

In 1930, the assessor explained, the board put all personal property on the tax rolls at full value. On the 1931 rolls all personalty is equalized by the 37 per cent factor exactly as is every real estate assessment. The result, he pointed out, is that in 1930 personalty bore 15 per cent of the tax burden while in 1931 it will bear 35 per cent.

"I know the 1931 personalty assessment is far from perfect," Assessor Jacobs said recently. "But I do know that the job we did was a good one for the money left us by the old board and for the time in which we had to do the job.

"What we did was this: We divided the city into several hundred zones and sent out expert appraisers to each zone. We made an assessment of a typical home in each and used that assessment as a gauge of the homes in each zone.

"System Works Well."

"In general that system worked out well, but there are many particular instances where it didn't work out. Those cases can be adjusted by the board of appeals, when complaint of over assessment is made. But only time, a more careful survey of the city, or a few complaints from other angered taxpayers will allow us to get those persons who were under assessed or not assessed at all.

"Many people seem to believe that the assessor didn't quite play fair when he used telephone lists in getting the names of taxpayers. My defense is that this was the only way we could get out a tax roll, so that the 1931 bills could be prepared on schedule.

"All the cases we missed this year, all the mistakes we made will be corrected in the 1932 assessment. We will have, at least, all the money the county board sees fit to grant us, instead of a remnant of the sum already spent, and we will have a personal property department set up and ready to function. And last we will back tax property in 1932 if we discover we missed it this year."

FIRE DESTROYS CHURCH ALTAR AND SACRISTY

Flames which attacked the rear part of St. Richard's Roman Catholic church, 5034 South Kostner avenue, yesterday afternoon destroyed the sacristy and altar of the church.

The Rev. Francis J. Quinn, pastor of the church, assisted by two parishioners, Frank Berger and Ray McLaughlin, entered the burning building and rescued the Blessed Sacrament and other sacred objects. Father Quinn had held services in the church, a wooden structure built four years ago, during the morning.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an overheated chimney. Father Quinn estimated the damage at $5,000. Pending repairs on the church, he arranged to hold services for the congregation in Edwards school, 48th street and Karlov avenue.

BOY'S MOTHER SPANKS TEACHER; SHE IS FINED $20

Glasgow, Ky., Dec. 11.—(AP)—When a teacher spanks a pupil, it isn't unusual; but when the teacher is on the receiving end of the spanking there are likely to be repercussions.

Miss Floy Whitaker, a teacher in Highland school, near here, was spanked the other day, and as a result Mrs. H. C. Reynolds has been fined $20 by a county court jury.

Mrs. Reynolds admitted that she spanked the teacher and slapped her in the face after Miss Whitaker remonstrated because Mrs. Reynolds came to the school and whipped her son. The jury decided the mother was guilty of disturbing a public school assemblage.

NELSON REPORTS ON 389 CLOSED BANKS IN STATE

Liabilities Are Reduced by $81,516,341.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday made public a report summarizing the condition of the 389 closed state banks in Illinois. The banks reduced public liabilities of $274,540,192 at the time of closing to $193,023,850 on Oct. 1, the report shows.

The reduction of $81,516,341 was made in payment of $51,722,531 to depositors and $29,793,810 in bills payable. Payment to depositors consisted of $10,173,099 in preferred claims, $26,023,253 in common dividends, and $15,526,178 in offsets. Offsets are allowed when depositors owe banks an amount equal to or less than their deposits.

Orders New Payments.

The receivers had $9,784,763 in cash on hand Oct. 1. The auditor has instructed them to make payments to depositors as rapidly as each bank accumulates enough to pay 5 per cent.

The total book value of the assets of the banks at closing was $354,007,400. This was reduced by $105,095,206 to $248,912,194, or 29.8 per cent. At the same time public liabilities were reduced 29.6 per cent. The loss on the conversion of assets was 9.9 per cent, due largely to the sale of collateral by banks which had made loans to the closed institutions.

Receivers made cash collections of $79,144,310 from assets. Rents, interest, and other income of receivership added $6,069,159, making a total cash collection of $85,213,479.

1.28 Per Cent to Receivers.

The receivers received in salary $1,076,218, or 1.28 per cent of the collections. Attorneys' fees were $1,484,397, or 1.53 per cent of the collections. The total gross cost of liquidation of the 389 closed banks was $6,873,980, or 2 per cent. With the deduction of the operating income the net cost of liquidation was given by the auditor as $804,820, or .94 of 1 per cent.

The net cost of collections and the loss on conversion of assets, totaling 10.8 per cent, represents the actual loss and cost on the conversion of $105,095,206 of assets for the benefit of the depositors of the 389 closed banks. This, Auditor Nelson said, represents a new low record in such liquidations.

CHINESE OFFICIAL DIES AFTER NAVAL DINNER; POISONED

CANTON, China, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Chu Chao-hsin, inspector general of foreign affairs in the Canton government and formerly charge d'affaires in the Chinese legation in London, died suddenly today after a dinner at naval headquarters. Physicians said ptomaine poisoning caused death.

The dinner was in honor of Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, commander-in-chief of the British naval forces in the far east. Chu was once the Chinese ambassador to Italy and also consul general in San Francisco. He studied at Columbia university, New York, and held several important posts in the Chinese government.

Chu appeared twice before the league of nations to plead for restrictions on the traffic in opium. At other times he spoke before the league assembly in behalf of the abolition of extra territorial rights in China and China's claim to a seat in the league of nations council. On Oct. 26, 1928, he was named Chinese minister to Japan.

Scientist Finds Eternal Urge Everywhere.

Los Angeles, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A scientific analysis explaining the mystery of eternal life and its existence throughout the universe is offered by Prof. D. F. Sinitsin, Russian scientist.

In a conference here with members of the Sigma Xi, science fraternity of the University of California here, he presented a definition of the basic, invisible processes of life. His explanation came as a simple conclusion to his discussion of ultra-microscopic living organisms.

Limits of Human Sight.

First, he pointed out that the limit of human sight is fixed by light. In this regard, he said, it appears that science has reached the observational limits of the microscope.

The measure of infinitesimally small things is the millimicron. There are 25,400,000 millimicrons to the inch.

Physicists, he said, point out that the shortest wave length of visible light is not less than 400 millimicrons. Nothing smaller than that actually can be seen by man with any type of instrument. By means of diffraction of light, however, it is possible to see the reflection from things as small as about 200, or maybe 150 millimicrons.

Means of experimental investigation other than sight, he said, have determined the existence of living organism as small as 8 millimicrons. This is by means of porcelain filters, on which are placed films whose pores are known to be of definite size.

Ultramicroscopic Life.

These filters have proved the existence of invisible ultramicroscopic organisms in the investigation of disease virus. There are a hundred such different invisible disease virus known, including the virus of smallpox, measured as between 125 and 175 millimicrons, mosaic plant disease virus, measured at 30 millimicrons, and foot and mouth disease virus measured at about 8 millimicrons.

The albumin molecule is known to be about 6 millimicrons and the hydrogen molecule figured about .16 of a millimicron.

Genes, the invisible life units of heredity in all forms of life, have been estimated by Thomas Hunt Morgan, noted biologist, to be something between 8 and 30 millimicrons in size.

Life Born of Chemistry.

"The chemical theory of the origin of life is that after the earth cooled chemical substances came together and formed living organisms," the Russian scientist said.

"We know that some disease virus resist heat and poisons that no known form of life can withstand. Some live without oxygen.

"I conclude from these investigations that there are invisible living organisms, perhaps of eternal life, that are back of all life processes. If there are bad or disease organisms, why not good or life-helping organisms?

"I would call them aphanobionts, meaning invisible life.

"They are so small that they can escape all of our means of observation. They undoubtedly exist not only on the earth but everywhere.

"Aphanobionts not only can be transported from planet to planet but can exist in all space and conditions. The mystery of life will always be a mystery to man, because it is beyond his power of sight."

BULLET LADEN RUM BOAT SEIZED; SKIPPER IS DEAD

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Her sides riddled with shell fire and machine gun bullets, and her skipper, William Bauers, dead, the liquor laden speedboat Matilda Barry of Philadelphia was towed into port today by the coast guard patrol boat CG-163.

Coast guardsmen said that Bauers, when capture appeared certain, attempted to escape in a small dory which was overturned in the high seas. He was pulled aboard the patrol boat, but efforts to revive him failed.

The capture was made off Plantation flats last night after the speedy rum craft's wheel rope was parted by a well directed shot from her pursuers.

The three men who with Bauers had composed the crew were arrested. Four hundred and twenty-five sacks of whisky were captured.

'Men Only' Corner Is Popular for Male Buyers of Lingerie

Gift Shopper for Finery Gets Real Joy Out of Filling His Christmas List with Frills.

BY JUDITH CASS.

LURING the elusive male shopper into a shop . . . keeping him interested and amused while diplomatically and unobtrusively suggesting the right things for the particular female relative or friend takes the imagination and understanding and showmanship of a merchandising genius.

And this year one shop is making a grand gesture for these wary masculine shoppers who have lists and shekels as well as a healthy normal dislike of being found in a shop usually filled with chattering, wild eyed female Christmas shoppers.

The venture should be a huge success for this shop promises to exclude any and all counter attractions. The place will be opened for men only . . . think of such a break, for approximately three hours a man can wander freely about a shop for women, admire the frills and fripperies without being watched . . . he can buy lingerie, feminine fancies, see them modeled and have the time of his life with a crowd of his own kind surrounding him. After the first shock is over and the novelty of such untrammeled freedom wears away, the longest Christmas list can be filled.

Besides buying all the feminine gifts you need you can buy for yourself and other males, and also spend a hilarious hour among the toys, seeing things you no doubt heard about but seldom had the opportunity to really examine. Persuasive whispers of liquid refreshment probably will assure good attendance!

Other masculine shops in town have admirably succeeded in arranging or concentrating their merchandise for easy shopping. One famous sports shop has turned the third floor into a glorified sports department with every conceivable need of the out of doors or fireside sportsman. Snowshoes, skis, toboggans, leather coats, sports clothes, hunting apparel, sweaters, camping kits, guns, murderous looking knives with leather cases, fishing rods, bait, books, a collection of sports shoes and footgear and all the swagger things the husky man needs for outdoor sports are assembled in this room with a log cabin as a background.

On a lower floor you will find the cravats, the fine English shirts, collars, socks, and scarfs and all the good looking costume accessories that will greatly please any particular man.

The cashmere wool scarfs are positively knockouts. Any cranky connoisseur of neck scarfs will get a tremendous kick out of these amazingly soft wool things as well as the snooty silken evening silk scarfs that can be monogrammed in three inch and three lettered splendor. Here also is a special collection of ties that a hesitating feminine shopper can select with the assurance that each article has been officially O. K.'d by a critical male buyer.

Some stunning traveling kits of ostrich leather are especially interesting this year because of the very low price tags and the clever compact fittings and the smart swagger leather.

Most of the kits are zippered for speed and neatness, they are unquestionably the finest gift obtainable for fastidious and persnickety travelers. You can find flat tie cases, collar cases and dressing kits of this good looking light tan leather, all for modest prices that will make you cheer and go back for more.

Free Woman Is Floyd Dell Theme Again

'Diana Stair' Is Heroine of Eighteen-Forties.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Diana Stair," by Floyd Dell. [Farrar & Rinehart.]

THERE used to be, a few years ago, much literary and social discussion of the modern woman. Fiction was filled with heroines who felt they must "fulfill themselves," who must "live their own lives," who for their own social and economic freedom or the freedom of the socially oppressed would sacrifice themselves to the bone. Those heroines were wont sometimes to look upon marriage as a bondage and love as an equal prerogative of the sexes. Readers of fiction of the period would have reason to believe that there was a mass urge for individualism for women.

FLOYD DELL.

One of the most ardent young protagonists of freedom for women was Floyd Dell, then literary editor of a Chicago paper, who wrote on every possible occasion for the cause. Floyd Dell's interest in the economic and emotional freedom of women has been evident in all of the novels which he has written since he gave up being a critic and became a well known novelist. His heroines have never been the old fashioned economic dependents of men, his men have never been the patriarchal male. They have all been contemporaneous with the recent movement for woman's freedom.

Now in a vast novel of 656 pages he tells the story of a real pioneer in the movement, of a beautiful, magnetic, determined firebrand of the eighteen-forties who had no intention of being the conventional lady of her period.

Except for the fact that smoking a hookah was considered depravity and having a nude picture on the wall (of herself disguised as a Greek naiad) was just like wearing a scarlet letter on her breast, except for the stage coaches and forgotten clothes and food, "Diana Stair" might be the story of a woman of our own generation. It gives the reader no feeling of being a historical chronicle.

The heroine is a young widow at the beginning of the book, a sad creature in the eyes of the world whose one object in life was supposed to be the capture of another husband as soon as possible. She has been an abolitionist orator and a worker in a cloth mill and is in Boston to teach school and to finish a long poem which her creative nature urges her to write. She lives in a discreet boarding house where all of the guests are ladies in straitened circumstances—a picture which the author details unforgettably.

After the school term she goes back to the mill where she had worked before and there becomes a strike leader among the women coincidentally with becoming engaged to the son of a small stockholder in the mill with whom she has spent a week-end in love making. When she has to choose between her love and the cause she chooses the cause, not only because it is her nature to hate oppression and restraint but because, as her husband later says of her, "she loves trouble." That husband wisely knows that her nature demands freedom and a cause and he gives her the one, even to the extent of making friends with her lover, and stands by her in her choice of the other.

The book ends with the spectacular trial of Diana for aiding slaves to escape and with the national adulation of her as an abolitionist angel.

Throughout her life Diana's freedom in love militated against her usefulness in her current cause, and it is a little ironic that only with the protection of an understanding if not complacent husband was she able to live and work and love as a free woman.

"Diana Stair" is a mammoth book which to my mind would have been finer if it had been half its present length. But it is written with such complete seriousness, such ardor, that its importance is inherent. One does miss, however, the delicate humor and humanity and charm of "Moon Calf." "Diana Stair" is like its heroine whom the author describes as wholly irresistible, but does not always make her so, a little too tractlike at times to be always deeply, humanly appealing.

Ten Beautiful Words Meet Harsh Ones

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—"Ten most beautiful words in the English language," a list advanced yesterday by Wilfred J. Funk, poet and dictionary publisher, ran into some rough comment today among New York's literati.

The best that was said for any one of the ten—dawn, hush, lullaby, murmuring, tranquil, mist, luminous, chimes, golden, melody—was that lullaby is nice.

That statement was made by Fannie Hurst, novelist, but she added: "Dawn is like a dead cat. Luminous is good, but not as good as lyric. I think these are more beautiful: serenity, peace, beauty itself, vitality, mercy, madonna. No, I don't think much of the list."

Dorothy Parker, poet, said she considered cellar-door the most beautiful word, but those she liked to see best were check and enclosed.

Hendrik Willem van Loon also spoke up for cellar-door and he expressed great surprise when told his selection was the same as Miss Parker's.

"I've only met Miss Parker twice in my life," he said, "and we've never talked of cellar-doors. I don't like this list because I don't like soft words. I like the hard sounds, the short words, like talk. Cuspidor is a good word, too."

Ring Lardner not only scoffed at the Funk list. He gave a list of his own.

"Gangrene is the first word," he said. "Flit is the second, scram is the third—but wait until I finish—mange is the fourth, wretch the fifth, and smoot, with a small s, is the sixth—look it up.

"Guzzle is number seven, McNaboe is eight. I know it's a proper name. And Bluts is number nine. A bluts, sir, is a smoker who doesn't inhale. The tenth word is crene. A crene is a man who inhales, but doesn't smoke."

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

This sextette of youngsters just must read "Winnie-the-Pooh" again, for they are to see him in person, or rather in puppet, next week-end at the Playhouse when Milne's play will be given by the Hastings Marionettes under the auspices of the Junior League Children's theater. In this picture (left to right) are Eleanor Cochran, Frances Amberg, Nancy Cochran, Josephine Carpenter, Mary Goddard, and Mary Cornelia Aldis, all of whose mothers are interested in the league and so are planning parties for their children at one of the two performances. The show will be given at 11 o'clock next Saturday morning and on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Ed Lowry, the Oriental's master of ceremonies, is one of the best possible people whom that theater could have selected for the job of host. He is genial, spontaneous, folksy. He has a boyishness that ingratiates and is essentially clean minded—at least so far as any patter I've heard from him goes. He makes his audiences feel happy and at home. Some time I hope I may hear him sing again that number he gave over W-G-N the first Sunday night he was in town. Something about being thankful, I loved it.

To the picture:

"Me and My Gal" had great possibilities which were made too much of.

The director worried at them till he fairly shook the life out of them. When he finally let them lie, they were weak and exhausted. One example is the drunken man sequences.

Here is a funny drunk, who's tremendously amusing for a couple of scenes. Looks funny, acts funny and has some laughable lines. The combination went to the megaphoner's head, and he hauls that fellow in till, I tell you, you're so sick of him that you could scream!

All of which doesn't prevent Mr. Spencer Tracy from magnificently delivering the goods. He is SO SWELL [as per usual] that, even if there were more wrong with "Me and My Gal" than is the case, I'd still advise you to see it.

He starts out as a cop detailed to patrol Pier 13. Here he commits an act of bravery that results in his promotion. As a patrolman he had met and fallen for the fresh young gum chewing cashier of a wharf lunch room. As a detective he carries on and completes his romance, running up against plenty excitement caused by his sweetie's sister's premarital affiliations with the head man of a gang of crooks.

The head man. . . ! Couldn't place him! Who is he, who is he? I kept asking myself. Came the light. George Walsh! Remember that big he-man of the "silents"? Still okay as an actor.

Joan Bennett forsakes her usual line of wistful appeal, but does nice work as Dan's gum addict beloved. Supporting players satisfy.

This COULD have been an outstanding program film, for it has a pithy story.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You women have come a long, long way in silhouette education in the last few years, haven't you? You've learned how to shed a five pound surplus on a liquid fast, let's say. You've learned how to shift a ten, twenty, thirty, or forty pound cargo into the limbo of departed adipose.

You know what foods add tonnage; what foods are kind to the figure. You've absorbed a lot of good food knowledge of late years, haven't you? and you've enjoyed all kinds of thrills over your weight losses. You've learned your food lessons well—but tell me, now, how many of you stay on at your reduced weight? Don't you have to be up and at it again every little while? How many of you honestly feel you have captured the real spirit of youth with your weight loss by diet alone?

I'm certainly not knocking diet as a reducing agent. It's great—as far as it goes. But it doesn't go far enough. It doesn't take the stiffness out of the joints. It doesn't limber the muscles. It doesn't tone the circulation. It doesn't harden the muscles against fat accumulation.

It doesn't pull you up into a smart posture. It doesn't make you lighter on your toes. It doesn't make you flexible at the waist. It doesn't give you the hip swing that characterizes a really youthful body. It doesn't take the stiffness out of your spine. And these are the things that restore to the silhouette the real look and spirit of youth—litheness, flexibility.

So, now, I'm going to supply you with the means to acquire that look and spirit. I'm going to give you a series of exercises, beginning today, with the promise that if you'll do them faithfully, inside of eight weeks you'll feel and look and act and be younger than in many a long day. I might insert here for those inclined to be swayed only by the "smart thing" that it is very much the "smart thing" today to be up on your exercises. More important, however, is the fact that this series of exercises will reduce you inches and inches as well as make you nimble and quick.

I'm going to take you along in easy stages. The first week you're only going to be asked to do stretching work. I'll tell you more about stretching tomorrow. Today, start in with the stretching exercise offered in today's illustration.

Indian Hill Club Will Hold Its Yuletide Sing Sunday Evening

Expect Large Crowd at Christmas Event on the North Shore; Program to Be Held on Lawn.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF you're invited by a member of the Indian Hill Country club to be in Winnetka next Sunday evening, accept the invitation, for if you do you'll undoubtedly be taken along to the big Christmas "sing" that is to be held on the lawn outside the clubhouse at sundown and you'll have one of the very nicest experiences of your life.

Every one, young and old, meets at these annual affairs which were started seven years ago with about one hundred present, and which have grown so steadily that last year there were over a thousand persons gathered around two silver and white trees, singing lustily the old carols and getting the spirit of Christmas into their souls.

The songfest starts at 5 o'clock, and after an hour of singing the whole crowd troops indoors for hot tea and chocolate and sandwiches and all the other good things that taste so good after being outdoors for an hour in winter weather.

The club has two white and silver trees inside each year and two outdoors, but it is around the outdoor ones that the singing takes place. There will be plenty going on indoors, however, during the holiday season for the daughters and sons of the members, for in addition to the private parties that will be given at the club the club itself has planned a party for the girls and boys of preparatory and college ages on Friday, Dec. 23, and a party for children a little younger on Tuesday, the 27th.

Dance and Midnight Supper.

The one on the 23d will be a dance at night with a supper served at midnight from push carts, and the one on the 27th will be from 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock with dancing and refreshments, too, of course, for, whatever the age, a party isn't a party without "eats."

On Monday, Jan. 2, the club will keep open house, and although nothing elaborate is being planned, in fact, the refreshments are to be as simple as possible, every one anticipates that it will be one of the jolliest parties in the club's history. The date for this annual open house is the 2d instead of the 1st because they do not dance at the Indian Hill on Sunday and the directors want to have dancing for the young people.

The clubhouse has been open all winter so far, and the ice skating on the pond started Saturday, but the toboggan is not being put up this year. Peirce C. Ward is president of the club; Harve G. Badgerow and Lawrence Howe, vice presidents; Darrell S. Boyd, secretary, and Harry G. Edmonds, treasurer.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millibank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

A TRAGEDY AVERTED.

The man covered by the shotgun was the mail robber whom Roberta had remembered by his portrait. He wilted on to the deck, whining and pleading. Capt. Hiram's voice cut through these abject whimperings like a whip lash:

He began, spacing the numbers as evenly as a metronome or the cool referee of a prize fight, but slower. "One . . . two . . ."

There was a rush for the head of the sea ladder that had been lowered. The man who had sunk to the deck was the first to swing his leg over the rail.

Capt. Smith was the last. With a sort of braggadocio that was based perhaps on actual courage he took nearly the full count. There was not the slightest doubt in the mind of any person there but that if he had taken the full one he would have landed in the boat dead.

Henery, who was leaning over the rail, turned and reported: "All hands aboard, sir."

"Cast her off," said Capt. Hiram.

The lines were slipped. The next order came in the same even, quiet voice that had not altered throughout in pitch or volume.

"H'ist jib and fore a'sail."

"My rating is lower than the ship's cat, Henery."

Adam, Peter, Raoul, and Benny went forward. A few moments later the big sails were up and sheeted.

Capt. Hiram returned to the wheel. The four men who had gone forward came aft.

"That's what it come dam' near bein'," Benny growled.

Adam was staring at the sea skiff off their quarter. The boat looked tiny against the enormity of sea. At one moment she poised on the crest of a rolling hill and then for several moments disappeared as if the ocean's maw had swallowed her.

"They got off easy."

Raoul said softly: "Bon dieu, but they can be formidable, these quiet men."

But to Peter, landsman and former small townsman, this dispensation seemed more terrible than if their four recent captives were to have had millstones tied to their necks and been cast into the sea.

It grew hot. The breeze lightened, came fickle, dropped flat.

"Hoped we could carry our trade wind deeper into the doldrums," said Capt. Hiram, "but I guess we've got nothing to complain of."

He had never varied the fraction of a second from his initial quiet, competent character of shipmaster. He was like a perfectly made instrument of precision, just as fine but stronger of construction because no jar was able to affect his rhythmic beat.

The long sustained and terrible episode through which they had passed had not disturbed this rhythm. His handling of it had been in character and when it was over no apparent traces were evident. It might never have happened. It had been dropped into the profound oubliette of the sea. None of them referred to it. No effort to report to some passing ship had been suggested by any aboard.

A curious change had spread over the novices. The strangeness of their new functions had done something to them. They had passed through a wrack of care and were now relieved of it. A wholesale tragedy had been averted. Personal affairs became insignificant in the face of elemental majesty.

Roberta was conscious of this dissociation from a dreadfulness of circumstance that had submerged her during the weeks before her flight from a home that no longer was such. The sweeping away of a father she had loved and revered . . . for in age he stood almost two generations earlier than that of his only child and daughter . . . and with this parent the flood had washed out a family fortune accumulated since her ancestors had dammed that river and built the first little mill on its banks.

All of this seemed unimportant now that she was a sailor out in the middle of the ocean. What really counted was that she was getting to be a good sailor, when for awhile it had looked as if she were destined to be that most forlorn of human creatures, that is, a poor relation. It was better, Roberta thought, to be a good anything than to be a poor relation.

Roberta, peeling potatoes in the shadow of the main sail, said: "Then we're not bound around the cape?"

"Looks more like Cape Town, the way he's hauling in. Know anybody there?"

Adam was caulking some deck seams and making a job of it. He moved on forward. Peter was at the wheel. Henery came down the deck from forward. Roberta beckoned him. He dropped on his heels beside her.

"Henery, are we going to Cape Town?"

"Henery, you give Arlette a chance to do some buying for you. Now if want you to give me one to do some selling."

"Why not?" Henery rubbed his chin. "Don' seem quite right, though, to take the handlin' of that female gear away from mam'selle."

"Let her keep it. But give me a shot at all the rest. A twenty-four hour option."

"My rating is lower than the ship's cat, Henery. The mate pets her sometimes. Besides their share in the sunken treasure, wherever that may be, Arlette's your buyer and clerk and Ladybird is an able mate."

He chuckled. "That off'cer can certainly wring the neck of the wheel when need comes. So you want a chance to lick a little of the sour cream off my jug? All right, daughter. Help yourself. You can have your pick of the cars and boats and clothes and grub and bedding and bungalows and see what you can do. In twenty-four hours."

"Thanks, Henery. How much profit are you holding out for?"

"Well, seein' as this stuff didn't cost me much I'd be satisfied with a measly net profit of a hundred per cent, even if we have lugged it about ten thousand miles. I'll pay you five per cent c'mission. If you can sell one of these slick speed launches for a thousand dollars, say, you haul down fifty."

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Sewing Machine Would Help.

"I have been unemployed for a long time and I think I could earn my living honestly as a dressmaker but I have no sewing machine and I have no money with which to purchase one. Would you be so kind as to ask your readers for one? C. L."

A sewing machine might mean a living for this woman and the end of her troubles. If you have one about the house not being used she'd be very grateful for it.

Would Welcome Clothing.

"My husband isn't working and we haven't been getting any relief. I am expecting a baby soon and would appreciate any clothes for it or for us. My husband wears size 36 or 38, and I wear 38 or 40. Mrs. E. O."

Clothing would partially solve the problem for this family and lessen the woman's anxiety. Any garments in their sizes which you are discarding or any infant's clothing you may have would be gratefully received.

Avoid Giving Toys That Will Perplex a Child

Suit His Playthings to His Age.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We stopped before the window of a big toy store.

"I used to be so——so——annoyed," said my young companion, "when I was little and I used to struggle with one of those that somebody gave me for Christmas." And he pointed to a structural set composed of imitation steel girders that are put together in different designs with tiny screws.

And I remembered, as he spoke, one rainy afternoon when he worked for an hour or two with it until he was in tears. The toy was all right enough, but not for him at that age. The delicate control of his smaller muscles was not developed enough for him to do such tedious and detailed work. What he needed and did have, of course, besides, was something which called into use his larger muscles—such things as hammers, saws, screws and screw-drivers of large size.

At this time of year, when money is spent in such quantities for toys, it is important that the right ones be bought. And where the younger children are concerned that choice must be rather skillfully made. It must take into consideration the stage of development in manual skills that a child has reached. We don't want to give the children playthings and craft materials which they cannot use with a degree of ease.

If a thing is too difficult for his age, it tries a child's patience, it is hard on his nerves, and he feels that sense of frustration or failure which is so upsetting to him.

Naturally, if you're puzzled you will ask, "But, how shall I know what is right for him?"

First, use your powers of observation. What does your small daughter or son enjoy doing indoors and out—either with toys, or with the furniture and kitchen utensils and cleaning things, or outdoor implements and garden tools? Use this information as a clew to degrees of skill and to interests.

And second, ask your toy department for hints. Some stores have experts who prepare lists. Or write to us for our classified list, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wife Uses Wrong Tactics on Erring Mate

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been married three years. I have a small son of 2. My husband is as good to me as he can be, and he adores the baby. BUT——"

Then "Honey" goes on to relate what is probably a common chapter in the lives of present day young matrons. It concerns the free and easy manner in which parties of the moment are conducted, with gin the inspiration for conduct that does not set well with the young wife. Per se——

"Honey" and her hubby, on one specific occasion, attend a party given by an older man whose wife is in Europe. Several unattached girls, whose morals are not as engaging as they might be, are invited. And there's some pretty free love making going on. One of these girls makes a dead set for "Honey's" good looking mate. "Honey" returns from another room just in time to see the pair in an embrace. Immediately the husband is detected he withdraws sheepishly and devotes the rest of his evening to squaring himself with his legal "Honey."

Now, instead of charging the incident off to a mistake in attending the party with the host's wife absent, or, instead of charging the man's behavior off to the gin, "Honey" has now a clear case of martyrdom to enjoy for herself.

"This incident has made me feel I can't trust my husband any more," she wails. "He claims he didn't mean anything by it. Still, I always have that feeling of distrust when we go to other parties now. I'm suspicious of his actions and feel if I weren't there he'd make love to some other girl." And so on.

Now, isn't that the way, Honey, to drive the mate into the very thing you'd honestly like him to avoid? Go on and nurse your suspicions; make them known to him by manner or word, or both, and pretty soon you will have a bona fide cause for suspicion. On the other hand, wouldn't it be better to be a grown up girl? Use your head. Maneuver your man out of temptation if need be, but don't give voice to those suspicions of yours.

If This Fails To Knock Your Cold In a Few Hours

Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

HILL'S Cascara Quinine is GUARANTEED to knock a cold in a jiffy. To relieve the pain, to break up tightness. If it fails, you pay nothing.

This guarantee is made to prove that the surest relief is to go back to first principles and use something that you KNOW does the work. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. You'll feel like a new person almost before you know it. Pain eased, congestion broken; your mind cleared and yourself ready to go back on the job with a wallop.

That's because Hill's is a scientific formula made to DO ONE THING WELL: to knock colds in a hurry—not to cure a score of different troubles.

Get a package for a few cents at any drugstore. Your money backif it fails. Try it—you'll be glad that you did.

it probably will not take place before next spring, for Mrs. and Miss Warren are leaving this week to spend the winter in southern Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carson Ellis are giving a buffet supper next Sunday evening at their residence in Lake Forest for Mrs. Ellis' debutante sister, Miss Laura Thorne

J. A. Carpenter to Visit Daughter.

Since the "Pat" Hills and wee Rue Diana Champaign Hill aren't coming to Chicago from Fort Worth for Christmas, Grandfather John Alden Carpenter is going to Texas to be with his son-in-law and daughter and granddaughter on her first Christmas. This is bad news to Mrs. Hill's many friends here, for they all had hoped that she and her husband and baby would be back in Chicago for a visit during the holidays.

Another popular Chicago girl who is coming home for Christmas, however, with her husband and baby, is the former Sarane Otis, who with her husband, Robert Burns, and their baby will arrive soon from their home in California to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis of 2350 Lincoln Park West.

And still another former Chicagoan who is expected for the holidays is Mrs. Max von Schlegell, the former Florence Harris, who with Mr. von Schlegell is coming from Baltimore to visit her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm L. Harris of 1528 Dearborn parkway. The Harrises, as usual, will go to Florida for the late winter.

Mrs. John Kellogg of 305 Fullerton parkway and her daughter, Betty, arrived in Chicago Saturday from a trip abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Embree of the Ambassador are leaving tomorrow for Los Angeles, from where they will sail on the Mariposa Friday for Honolulu to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Edwina Rogers Embree, on Dec. 22.

Miss Embree is to become the bride of Edward Mumford, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Mumford of Beaconsfield, England, at the residence of former Gov. and Mrs. Walter F. Frear in Honolulu.

The bridegroom's elder brother, Bryant Mumford, has come from England and is sailing with the Embrees for Honolulu to represent his family at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Mumford will live in Honolulu, where she has been attending the University of Hawaii and he is engaged in scientific research work with the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' experimental station. Mr. and Mrs. Embree will go on to Java from Honolulu, not returning to Chicago until April.

Friends of China Tea Today.

The American Friends of China will have tea this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Tavern, after which they will hear Younghill Kang of the University of New York talk on "Chinese and Korean Poetry." As a rule the lecture is first and then tea is served, but the committee in charge of this affair has decided that late comers had better miss tea than the talk, which is sure to be interesting to those who know and care about Chinese and Korean poetry.

It is an open meeting and not confined to members alone. Col. George T. Langhorne, president of the organization, will preside and pouring tea will be his wife, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. Waller Borden and Mrs. John Paul Welling.

A. R. Radcliffe-Brown, M. A., F. R. A. I., will speak on "White Australia" at the luncheon meeting of the English-Speaking union at 12:30 today in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters will hold a study meeting at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. John V. Farwell, 229 Lake Shore drive. Frank V. Glick, executive secretary of the relief commission, will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Redheffer, 1430 Lake Shore drive, will entertain the Green room at a musical this evening. Mrs. Franklin M. Miller is president.

There will be numerous dinner parties Wednesday night before the Kenwood Social Service clubs' theater party for the benefit of the Infant Welfare society of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacLellan are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Spencer, the Walter W. Crawfords and the "Val" Hansens at their Woodlawn avenue residence; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Utley will have Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evers, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Puhl and the R. P. Laphams with them; the Carl Defebaughs and the Kenath Sponsels are promoting a Dutch treat party in the Cape Cod room of the Drake hotel; and the Cyrus Marks, the Layton Northrups and the Roland Mores are coming in from the north shore for dinner and the theater party, which will be at the Grand Opera house where Ed Wynn is playing in "The Laugh Parade."

These Recipes Will Delight Hungry Family

Fluffy Chocolate Frosting Heads the List.

BY MARY MEADE.

There are many kitchen questions left over from the thousands turned in at THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery, and as usual the how-do-you-make-it queries and the why-did-it-do-so troubles run neck and neck. The Saturday question clinic, though, seems to take care of the second set, so today we'll have—recipes.

"Please may I have a fluffy chocolate frosting recipe?" asked one cookery school goer, and here it is, even to the name!

FLUFFY CHOCOLATE FROSTING.

½ cup light corn sirup.
2 egg whites.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix the sugar, corn sirup, and water and cook to 242 degrees F. or until the mixture spins a thread. Pour slowly over the stiffly beaten egg whites, beating in briskly. Add the vanilla and continue beating until the mixture is heavy creamy and will spread without running away. The jolly part of this frosting is that it's keepable—can be made several days in advance and put away in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator.

Next a request for a taffy "not to pull." Mrs. M. B.'s mother used to make a molasses taffy which got hard but was never pulled. Mrs. B. can't find a recipe which will get hard.

Your trouble, Mrs. B., is probably not so much with the recipes you use as with the length of time you cook the candy. The following recipe, while usually pulled, will become stiff and hard upon cooling:

CRACK TAFFY.

1 tablespoon vinegar.
¾ cup granulated sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon butter.

Blend the molasses, vinegar, and sugar, and boil carefully to 132 degrees C. or 270 degrees F. [hard ball stage in cold water]. Just at this point remove from the fire and add the remaining ingredients, stirring until well mixed. Pour into greased tins and let stand until cool. Crack with a mallet or hammer.

The third query is: "I have been told that one can make all kinds of preserves and jams with prunes. I have a lot of prunes I'd like to use, and would appreciate a recipe."

A quickly made and delightfully flavored prune jam is this one. It may be varied by the substitution of half and half dried peaches, apricots, etc., or combined with pineapple.

PRUNE CONSERVE.

1 cup ground almonds.
3 cups sugar.
Juice of 1 lemon.

Prepare the prunes by soaking over night, then simmering covered for half an hour. Drain, remove the pits, and pass the prunes through a coarse food chopper. There should be three cups of this prepared fruit. Add to it the sugar and turn into a large kettle. Stir in the raisins, nuts, and lemon juice and bring to a full rolling boil over a very hot fire, stirring constantly. Boil hard for one minute, then remove from the fire and stir in the pectin. Stir and skim alternately for five minutes to prevent floating prunes and nuts, and then pour at once into clean jelly glasses. Seal with hot paraffin.

RYE CHARLOTTE.

6 apples.
¼ cup water.
½ cup butter.
¾ cup sugar.
Dash of salt.
¼ cup powdered sugar.
½ cup heavy cream, whipped.

Peel, core, and slice the apples and stew with the salt, water, and granulated sugar until tender. Meanwhile crumble the rye bread and toast, and then place in a frying pan with the butter and fry. Let the bread take up all the butter it will and drain off the excess.

Line a baking pan with oiled paper and put in a thin layer of fried bread crumbs. Sprinkle the powdered sugar over this and then add alternate layers of tender apples and bread crumbs until all are used, adding a layer of crumbs last. Cover the charlotte with waxed paper and place a half pound weight on top of the paper. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.], then turn out the mold remove the paper and pile lightly with sweetened whipped cream. Slice and serve with black coffee at the table.

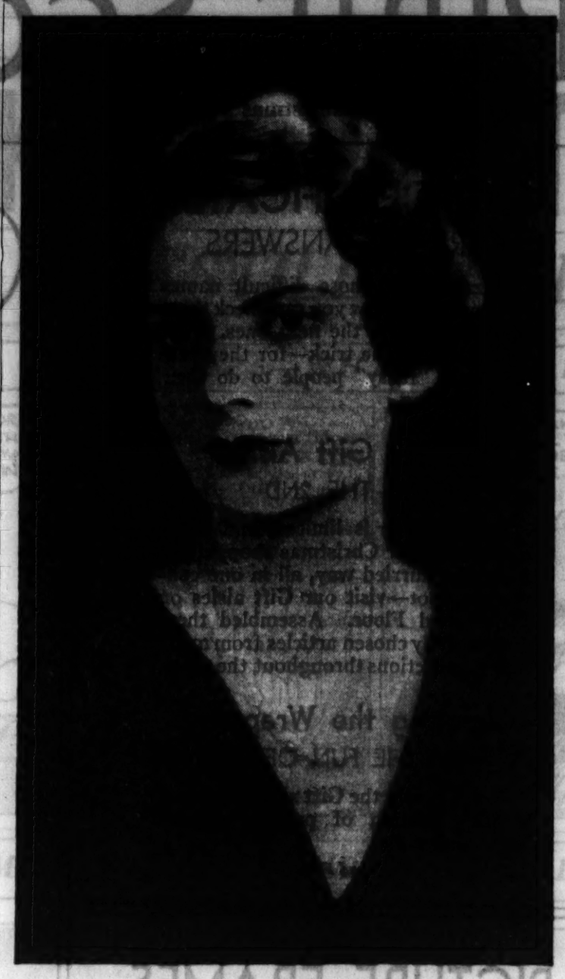
Dr. John Mott Pleads for Hope in Depression

"More than man power, machine power, horse power, we need today heart power—the power to sympathize, to show genuine friendship and brotherhood," said Dr. John R. Mott, veteran mission worker and Y. M. C. A. leader, in his address before the Chicago Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall last night on "Advantages of Severe Testing Times." "Our overwhelming needs make for closer coöperation and unity. It takes manifold trials to generate hope, and the attitude of spirit of hope is just what is most needed in these times."

Engagement Told



The engagement of Miss Mary Coyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle of Evanston, to Christian Walter Schafer, son of Mrs. Cecile Schafer of Evanston, was announced at a luncheon at the Georgian hotel on Dec. 3. No date for the wedding has been set. [Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Fashionable Parisienne Straightens Her Felt and Fur Toques for Winter

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Hats have gone a-traveling in the last few years. They have covered the entire circumference of the head. Having rested casually on the back of the head and perched perilously over one ear, they are returning to the theory that the head is a flat surface after all. Paris is straightening her winter hats. The effort to wear the hat straight on the head started last summer, and it looks now as though the smart woman, the maker and breaker of fashions, is going to accept it.

In the sketch today are shown two of the newest winter hats that the Parisienne wears straight on her head. At the top of the sketch is shown a Talbot small black felt toque worn squarely on the head, and trimmed at the center back and top with a jutting feather ornament. A black nose veil with white chenille dots, having a bow at the back, is worn with this hat.

Woman's Symphony Plays to Large Audience.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Musical events were so numerous and varied yesterday that they indicated the business of concert giving to be on the up curve once again. From symphony orchestra to chamber music, from dance program to composer's recital, they were out with their messages of cheerfulness, and each with its own group of adherents.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra played to a large audience at the Drake hotel under the direction of Ebba Sundstrom. Haydn's "Farewell" Symphony, which in its last movement dies away from a full orchestra to a pair of violins, opened the program. It was played with better tone than has been heard from this organization since its foundation and with painstaking and accurate attention to the beat.

The duo-pianists, Aletta Tenold and Grace Welsh, took the solo position, playing first the Mozart Concerto in E flat gracefully and well, and later Saint-Saëns' amusing "Carnival of Animals." Compositions by Tschaikowsky and Dukas completed the program.

Clarita Martin presented a program of Spanish dances at the Studebaker theater, some of her own creation, others which she had learned while a student of the subject in Spain. Her studies have been to good effect. She covered a wide range of modern, flamenco, and gitano types and interpreted them with color, grace, and wholly attractive warmth. She was assisted by Fay Polk, pianist, and Salvador Ibanez, guitarist, who not only provided music for the dances but played solos of the country.

The Chicago String quartet, ever ambitious to make its audiences acquainted with unhackneyed works of chamber music, gave the second concert of its series at the Chicago Woman's Club theater. Here was a program consisting of d'Indy's quartet in E, Leone Sinigaglia's Etude de Concert, and, with the assistance of Walter H. Steindel, pianist, Dohnanyi's Quintet in C minor. For many reasons of performance their popularity is assured, even though they may at times give their patrons an unwitting reason why certain works of the repertoire are not more frequently played.

Meanwhile John Kurucz, Hungarian composer and pianist, presented a program of his own works at Kimball hall consisting of songs as interpreted by Mary Thomas Duffield and Rose Napau, sopranos; Carlo Hatvary and Frederic Jencks, baritone.

Mr. Kurucz is fluent and melodious and would seem to have a first rate knowledge of what the singing voice should be expected to do. The part of his program heard during a visit at the hall indicated considerable sympathy for the folk music of his native land, by no means a bad thing, since the songs were attractive.

Hall Johnson, who was responsible for most of the music in "Green Pastures," brought his choir of about twenty singers to Orchestra hall in a program of Negro music, spirituals, and secular songs. They are experts in this sort of music, spirited, fervid, most of them with fine voices and all adept at singing words clearly. Negro songs are frequently more complex than they seem on the surface, yet they all have a basis of unaffected simplicity, and the manner of the choir with them was delightful.

The course of music continued into the evening. Among other announced events was another appearance by the Josefter String quartet, with the assistance of Hazel Sims Beidel, pianist, and a considerable group of Chicago composers and artists at the Stevens hotel, under the auspices of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs.

TEMPLE PLANS

More than 1,000 men and women, most of them holders of season tickets at the Chicago Symphony orchestra, yesterday afternoon approved plans for a permanent temple of music on the lake front and pledged their support in a campaign to raise money for the erection of the shrine.

The plan was outlined to the group in the Drake hotel by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, during the Sunday afternoon concert of the Chicago Women's Symphony orchestra.

The Chicago Friends of Music, Inc., a newly organized group headed by Frederick Stock, Mrs. Fairbank, Mrs. Waller Borden and others, have planned a great outdoor theater for operas, concerts, the ballet and allied arts, Mrs. Fairbank said. "Up to now all the arts but music are represented in the plans for a Century of Progress," she said.

Freud Watches Telepathy with Friendly Eyes

VIENNA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Sigmund Freud, world famous psychologist, in a new book appearing in Vienna this week vigorously defends the scientific status of psychoanalysis.

He raps the knuckles of novelists and conversationalist who wisecrack about the study, and reveals he is of the opinion that the scientific world will soon be compelled to take mental telepathy and thought transference more seriously.

While warning his reader he is not yet ready to say that mental telepathy has been proved or that he himself is entirely convinced of its validity, Dr. Freud cites abundant material drawn from psychoanalysis which he says tends to substantiate theories of thought transference and telepathy.

It contains seven chapters written in lecture form, but never intended to be delivered from the rostrum.

The book opens as if Dr. Freud were standing before those who heard his introductory lectures in May, 1917. At the start it reads: "Ladies and gentlemen. If I have called you together again after a fifteen year interval," and so forth.

In the 354 pages he discusses revision of the dream theory, dreams and the occult, dissection of psychic personality, fear, femininity, applications of psychoanalysis and, in the final chapter, religious and intellectual nihilism and bolshevism.

Dr. Freud analyzes the present economic crisis as the price the world is paying for the latest tremendous conquest over nature—namely, aviation.

The world war became possible, the psychologist explained, when Bleriot flew over the English channel, and became inevitable when Germany developed a Zeppelin capable of flying over Britain.

Dr. Freud said, in an interview, that he views the soviet régime as a gigantically daring attempt to remake the social order. He added, however, that he fears the future may show that this attempt was made too soon.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night fought the rugged Montreal Maroons to a 2 to 2 tie at the Stadium, thus preserving their record of being undefeated on Chicago ice. The Hawks have now won four and tied three in their home work, diligence which places them in unshared possession of second place in the American division of the National Hockey league.

The Hawks probably were glad enough to take a tie from the bruising fellows from Montreal, whose personnel included the two ranking point makers in the last league tabulation.

The fact remains, however, that the Chicago athletes were 2 to 1 leaders going into the third period, causing many of the 9,000 customers to anticipate a victory.

The Hawk edge was dissipated at the outset of the third period, though, and neither side was willing to get too fancy thereafter.

Maroons Score First.

The Maroons were the first to score, Smith registering on an assist from Northcott. Less than six minutes after the Maroon score, with only 40 seconds of the first period to go, four Hawks gained points for a goal which set the score at one-all. Teddy Graham fomented a riot with a freak carom shot. After Romnes, March and Ripley had kept the button moving with great alacrity, Graham made the goal, and Doc, Mush and Vic got a point each for assisting.

The second period score, by means of which the Chicagoans seized the lead, was good for three more points in the individual records. Ripley got his second point of the evening for making the goal; Romnes drew down his second assist point and Taffy Abel cut in for a well earned entry in the honor roll.

Glen Brydson was the player who established the tie, with Plaxton and Trottier getting assists.

Rest Until Thursday.

The Hawks will rest till Thursday night, when those wicked old Boston Bruins come to town for the first time this year. A salvo of boos cheers is being rehearsed for Eddie Shore, who recently slugged Donnie McFadyen in the Boston penalty box.

The combat was just about even until after the game had progressed past the 13 minute juncture. Graham and Ripley presented the main annoyances to the Maroons while Plaxton and Robinson came close to scoring on the Hawks.

At 13:40 Smith rammed the puck past Gardiner from a close up position, which gave Chuck little opportunity to defend. The play was made possible by Northcott, who waded through a rather abashed Hawk defense array and then passed to Smith to complete the production job.

The Maroon goal served to make the Chicago boys skate all the faster, and their zeal was rewarded in a spectacular way while the final minute of the first period was being played.

Three Assists on Goal.

Graham shot from near the Maroons' blue line. It apparently was intended for a pass, but the disc hit a skate in full way on its flight and carromed, at great speed, straight to Walsh's boots. The Montreal goalie, apparently startled at the zigzag character of Teddy's maneuver, gave the puck only a tiny kick, whereupon March, Romnes and Ripley closed in and had the rubber bouncing off all parts of Walsh's anatomy.

Maroons aplenty joined in the melée, of course, but before they could bat the vagrant puck away Graham, instigator of all the excitement, took a hand and finished the job by batting home the marker that saw the period end in a 1-all tie. March, Romnes and Ripley all got assists, and the time was recorded as 19:20.

The Hawks didn't take the lead until 15:15 in the second period, but Trojans Smart and Alert; Make No Mistakes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—Looking back at yesterday's great football game between Southern California and Notre Dame, you can't escape the impression that the Trojans were far superior at a style of play in which the Irish for years have been considered to excel.

Notre Dame, under Knute Rockne, established a reputation as the brainiest team in football. They were opportunists. But they were outopportunized, so to speak, at Olympic stadium yesterday afternoon. They lost, 13 to 0.

Fail to Respect Warburton.

Southern California made no mistakes. Notre Dame made several. Southern California passed up none of its scoring opportunities. Notre Dame booted away two. Individually there was little to choose between the two teams.

Somebody did a poor job of scouting for Notre Dame or else the Irish figured they could afford to gamble. At any rate they showed no regard for the running ability of Irving Warburton, Southern California's 148 pound quarter back. It was no secret among coast football people that Warburton was a dangerous runner, particularly in the return of punts.

No other Notre Dame team I have seen in the last 14 years would have given a back like Warburton the opportunities that Coach Anderson's men did yesterday. The Notre Dame punters kicked the ball right down the alley, giving the Trojan flash plenty of room to operate to the right or to the left. It was obvious the first time he got his hands on the ball that he was fast as lightning. Eventually he broke away for a 36 yard dash that put his team in position for the forward pass that was good for the first touchdown. Notre Dame could have nullified his speed by kicking out of bounds.

Running Attack Collapses.

Notre Dame's passing game had the Trojans bewildered in the fourth quarter, but it came too late. It twice halted near the goal line because the team's running attack was not functioning. There was no scoring threat from scrimmage. Inability to carry on a sustained march has handicapped Notre Dame all season. The team shows a lot of punch in midfield, but collapses in the scoring zone.

Lukats came in for a lot of favorable comment today. He was rated by many football technicians as the best back on the field. Smith, Trojan tackle, was unanimously conceded to be the best line man.

Yesterday's game marked the last link between Southern California and the late Knute Rockne, whose teams lost only one game out of five to the coast eleven.

Feel Defeat Keenly.

The Notre Dame squad left for South Bend tonight. They were guests of Edward L. Doheny at dinner today and were entertained at the Hollywood Athletic club last night. Notre Dame apparently took its defeat keenly. A newspaper man representing some of the country's largest papers dropped into the dressing room after the game to get a statement from Coach Anderson or Capt. Host. He was seized by a couple of attendants and pushed out of the door with the explanation that Anderson had nothing to say. Anderson later accommodated a radio station operated by one of the Los Angeles newspapers.

Snowbound. Tony Hinkle of the Green Bay Packers gets out in the open in the first quarter of the game with the Bears at Wrigley field yesterday, but needs skis or snowshoes to make any progress toward Chicago goal. The Bears won, 9 to 0, to tie for the national professional football title.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears tied for the championship of the National Professional Football league yesterday by defeating the Green Bay Packers, 9 to 0, at Wrigley field. All the points were scored in the last period.

Thus the Bears ended their regular schedule with six victories, six ties, and one defeat, and won a place alongside the Portsmouth Spartans at the head of the league. Green Bay, champion for the last three years, dropped to third place with ten victories and three defeats.

Officials of the Bears and the Portsmouth club yesterday agreed to play off the tie here next Sunday.

Snow fell throughout the afternoon, but the crowd of 5,000 was as impervious to the cold and snow as were the players, many of whom did not wear head guards or stockings.

Engebretsen Performs Miracle.

Tiny Engebretsen, whose failure to kick the extra point for victory in the Portsmouth game, which ended 13 to 13, has worried him ever since, erased that error completely yesterday. Tiny booted a field goal from placement on Green Bay's 14 yard line in the fourth period for the first points of the game.

The kick might be called a miracle. Despite the snow and a wet, slippery shoe, Engebretsen lifted the soggy football in a perfect parabola well within the upright. Carl Brumbaugh held the ball for the kick and his handling of Ookie Miller's pass from center was as excellent as Tiny's kick.

Incidentally, Miller wore gloves, as did many of the linemen, but he passed accurately without exception. That undoubtedly established some kind of a record, but for that matter, the playing conditions also broke all Chicago records.

Engebretsen's three points were sufficient for victory, but Bronko Nagurski, the indefatigable full back, removed all doubt of the result a few minutes later. He smashed inside of the Packer right tackle, bowled over the supporting secondary and ran 56 yards down the sideline for a touchdown.

Grange Misses Point.

Bronko's run was the longest of the afternoon. Once in high speed Nagurski outran all except one of the Packers, and he disposed of this opponent with a stiff arm which flung him aside as if struck by a two ton truck.

Red Grange, who played 60 minutes, was given the chance to score the extra point, but Red's aim was off. Neither Red nor any one else cared, for the game was as good as over.

The snow made the ball most difficult to handle. However, the frequent fumbles only added to the spectators' thrills. The teams lost the ball repeatedly, but two Packer fumbles, both by Arnold Herber, outranked all other misplays. Herber's fumble at the Bears' one yard line in the second quarter tossed away Green Bay's best scoring opportunity. His second fumble on a wide sweeping end run in the last period gave the Bears the chance on which Engebretsen capitalized.

Bronko Recovers Fumble.

Nagurski fell on the ball on the Packers' 24 yard line. Grange then passed to Brumbaugh for five yards and Nagurski hit center for a first down on the Packers' 12 yard line. In three plays Grange and Nagurski picked up only five yards, so Engebretsen left his position at tackle to kick the field goal.

With ten minutes to play, the Packers received the kick off and concentrated on passing. Grove and Dilweg caught passes in a drive which finally failed near mid-field when Green Bay was forced to kick. The punt rolled dead at the Bears' 30 yard line. Nagurski and Sisk hit the line for nine yards and then Bronko went through for a first down, but the Packers were offside. The Bears took the five yard advance by penalty, which placed the ball on their 44 yard line. From here Bronko started his spectacular run which wound up behind the goal.

Prior to this scoring activity the Bears twice threatened in the third period. The first materialized when

Well, Anyway, Coach Anderson Called the Score

In a moment of despair a few days ago the Notre Dame coach predicted a 13 to 0 defeat for his team, the like of which Southern California's Trojans meted out here yesterday.

"Southern California should defeat Pittsburgh by two touchdowns," said Anderson today. "Pitt lacks the offense that the Trojans have, although it is a great defensive team. Heller is a great half back. He is fast like Griffith and is a fine defensive player."

Espinosa to Play Wood in Coast Final

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Al Espinosa, veteran Akron, O., professional, and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., won their way to the finals of the San Francisco national match play open golf tournament today.

Espinosa defeated Johnny McHugh of San Diego, 3 and 2 in a 36 hole semi-final match while Wood won over Willie Hunter of Los Angeles, 1 up.

Espinosa held a lead of 3 up at the end of the first 18 and was 4 up at the 27th hole. McHugh, who defeated Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal., 3 and 2 in the third round and eliminated William J. Schwartz of St. Louis 16 and 15 in yesterday's 36 hole quarter finals, was off form today.

In the morning he putted poorly and was weak with his irons to post a score of 78, seven over par for the first 16. Espinosa had a 73 for the same round.

Hunter came from behind to make the other match a close affair, after being outclassed in the morning round. Wood shot a 69, two under par for the Lakeside course, to hold a lead of 5 up when they stopped for lunch. Hunter had a 74.

Waddell Quits as Coach at Carnegie Tech

His resignation was accepted with regret by Clarence B. Overend, graduate manager of athletics, who praised Waddell's work. A successor is expected to be named by the athletic council next week.

Waddell's move did not come as a surprise. He indicated to friends as long as a year ago that he was thinking of retiring as football coach to devote more time to his business interests.

Prominently mentioned for consideration as Waddell's successor are Al Irwin, a former Tech star and present assistant to Overend; Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, and Howard Harpster, coach at Geneva.

Before coming to Tech in 1920 Waddell was captain of the Bucknell team. He came to Tech in the dual rôle of assistant coach and assistant to the graduate manager. In 1923 he went back to Bucknell as assistant to Coach Pete Reynolds. He returned here the following year. In 1925 he was named head coach and Judge Walter P. Steffen of Chicago was designated advisory coach.

STEFFEN TO CONTINUE.

Judge Walter P. Steffen of Chicago, advisory coach at Carnegie Tech, said last night that the resignation of Robert N. Waddell as active coach would not affect his status in any way. He will continue to serve in an advisory capacity to the Carnegie coaching staff as he has in the past, he said.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For a time yesterday Mr. Joe Sherman of the loop, who, when a race track is operating, does a little something every afternoon to help improve the breed, had visions of a very merry and prosperous Christmas.

The horses at New Orleans—the only track operating—were taking their regular Sunday layoff. There were no winners to pick and so there wasn't a chance to improve the breed. With a blizzard raging on the outside it was a day of pure meditation and deep thought for Mr. Sherman.

As the day wore along, he sought diversion from his Dickens and Galsworthy. To get it he put on his mathematical "specs."

A Great Opportunity.

The scheme which engaged his concentrated thought was the "Daily Seven" which is to be introduced on Christmas day at the race track down in Mexico.

The customer, by investing a two dollar bill, has the privilege of trying to pick the winners of the seven races which make up the program. As a grand prize the race track adds $5,000 to insure at least that amount to any man, woman or child who can pick that many winners in one day.

"What's wrong with me stealing that $5,000 in a legitimate way?" Mr. Sherman asked himself. "What's to keep me from filling my little black bag with money, showing up at Caliente before the first race and buying every possible seven horse combination? I would surely win the $5,000, wouldn't I?"

Now Let's Figure.

He started to figure it on the theory that there would be ten horses in each of the seven races. And here is the dope from Mr. Sherman's note book.

"Ten times ten, times ten, times ten, times ten, times ten, times ten equals ten million possible horse combinations. At two dollars a bet this would cost me $20,000,000. The track take would be 10 per cent at least. There's a loss of $2,000,000 right off the reel. I'll win the $5,000, all right, but only get back $18,000,000 of my investment."

Santa Claus? Bah!

"Let's carry this thing a little further, on the assumption that any horse may win at Caliente and that some guy isn't trying to steal the pot," he said. "If 10,000 people made one bet each day in this pool, that is 10,000 separate bets a day, the pool would soon be won by some one once every 1,000 days. As the Caliente meeting is for about 100 days, no one might find a winner for ten years."

Mr. Sherman pushed aside his note book, glanced out the window, and seemed to be fascinated by the lights which were blinking through the snow of the loop.

Fuller Boxes McLarnin in Garden Friday

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—New York again offers the outstanding bout on the national boxing shedule this week in a welterweight match involving Jimmy McLarnin and Sammy Fuller.

These two popular favorites will meet in Madison Square Garden Friday night. Fuller, the Boston boy who showed such striking lack of respect for the nation's leading lightweights last year, will be making his debut among the welterweights.

McLarnin Is Favorite.

Largely because he will have an advantage of at least five pounds in the weights, McLarnin will be a heavy favorite. He stopped Benny Leonard in the sixth round in his last New York appearance, but generally speaking, his performance that night was far from impressive. He will need to do much better to defeat as courageous a battler and as hard a puncher as Fuller.

Heavyweights in general and Ernie Schaaf and Unknown Winston in particular, will hold sway at Boston tomorrow night. This will be a return ten rounder with Schaaf seeking revenge for a beating he took from the Hartford, Conn., boy in October.

Carnera Meets Peterson.

Primo Carnera will meet an old playmate in Big Boy Peterson of St. Paul at Grand Rapids, Mich., Tuesday night. Carnera knocked out Peterson in the first round here in 1930 in his first American appearance. The national schedule includes:

TOMORROW.

TUESDAY.

At Grand Rapids, Mich.—Primo Carnera vs. Big Boy Peterson, 10.

At Seattle—Tod Morgan vs. Al Lewis, 6.

At Los Angeles—Baby Casanova vs. Young Tommy, 10.

THURSDAY.

At Philadelphia—Vidal Gregorio vs. Bobby Dechter, 10.

At Sacramento—Eugene Huat vs. Little Pancho, 10.

FRIDAY.

At Philadelphia—Billy Roederer vs. Billy Angelo, 10.

At Hollywood—Sandy Casanova vs. Tony Polini, 10.

At San Francisco—Maxie Rosenbloom vs. Leroy Haynes, 10 [nontitle].

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Duck hunters along the Illinois river may have to include skates in their hunting outfits when they go into their shooting country this week to enjoy the last waterfowl expeditions on the 1932 calendar. The cold wave has frozen the marshes and has produced real cold weather hunting conditions. Including today there are just four days of waterfowl hunting in the state of Illinois. The season ends Thursday at sundown.

At the peak of the cold spell Lacon, Ill., reported a gloomy duck situation in that part of the Illinois river valley. All day long the ducks had been checking out of the skating ponds, rising high into the air to take a flight formation, and then making a bee line southward. Our correspondent said that he believed he was all through with the 1932 duck business. It looked as if the mallards were convinced that winter had arrived and were going down the Illinois river until they could find the kind of conditions they wanted.

The movements of ducks along the Illinois following severe cold spells always has been an interesting phase of the duck hunting season, especially in view of the fact that the birds driven southward by a cold wave may turn right around again and come back north.

This return flight frequently has been observed in the upper section of the Illinois valley. Let a cold wave come and then be followed by mild soft weather and the birds, remembering their favorite spot and all the food supplies left behind, reverse the migration schedule and stage a comeback to the locality which they deserted when the temperature was low.

Although some mallards will check out for the far south when a cold wave sweeps through the Illinois river, apparently ice has no terrors for thousands of birds in the lower Illinois region. Year after year we have hunted late in the season and have seen mallards decoys to stools of live and block decoys sitting on the ice. Of course, not all the water is frozen over down there. Large flocks of ducks assembled on some lake or other body of water manage to keep these places open.

While ice hunting is a cold business, it really is easier in one way and many hunters consider there is an advantage over open water shooting because fewer wing tipped birds escape when a shooting hole is covered with ice heavy enough to support a shooter.

SHEA-BLITMAN BOUT TO HEAD COLISEUM CARD

Four Ten Round Fights on Program Friday.

Four bouts at 10 rounds each will comprise the boxing card at the Coliseum Friday night. Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, and Harry Blitman of Philadelphia will clash in one bout. Others will bring together Billy Jones and Charley Belanger, Paul Dazzo and Young Geno, and Young Terry and Young Leonard.

Shea will be making his first start since he met Kid Chocolate for the junior lightweight title at the Chicago Stadium last Aug. 4. The championship since has been abolished. Shea is listed as a fifth contender in the National Boxing association's featherweight ratings, Nel Tarleton, Lew Feldman, Fidel La Barba and Johnny Pena are rated ahead of him.

Billy Jones' match with Belanger, who is rated No. 2 light heavyweight contender by the N. B. A., just ahead of the Philadelphia Negro, will be a return affair. They fought a draw at Detroit recently.

Georgie Nichols is the division champion, but James M. Brown, president of the National Boxing association, has announced that votes to vacate Nichols' title are being received and indications are the championship will be vacated Jan. 1. In that event Maxie Rosenbloom, Jones, Joe Knight and Lou Scozza will be among contestants in a tournament for the crown. Belanger cannot make the weight.

Willie Oster and Freddy Langford, Chicago middleweights, will finish training today for their six round windup match at Kid Howard's gymnasium, 116 Madison street, tomorrow night. Sammy Levine and Lou Vine, featherweights, clash in the six round semi-final. Other contests are:

There will be one more match at four rounds.

The North Shore Kiwanis club and the Catholic Youth Organization will sponsor an amateur boxing and wrestling program tonight at the Broadway armory. Proceeds will go to charity. The show is being arranged by Dr. Chester Ihle, Kiwanis club sports committee chairman.

Boxers who will appear are August Hozain, Bob Lamonte, Jack McGuire, Charles O'Krongly, Terry McGovern and Jack Smith. Norman Scheuber, Chuck Johnson, Will Phillips, and Bill Canon ar the wrestlers. Judge R. J. Dunne will referee.

George Kogut and Charley Peterson, heavyweight wrestlers, and four fights will support the Jack Roper-Buck Everett 10 round contest at the Rainbo Fronton Friday. . . . King Tut will leave today for Boston where he faces Andy Callahan, New England lightweight and welterweight champion, next Monday. . . . Primo Carnera left last night, accompanied by Walter [Good Time Charley] Friedman, his manager, and Trainer Manny Seaman for Grand Rapids, Mich., where Carnera meets Big Boy Peterson tomorrow. . . . Frankie Harmon has leased the White City roller skating rink to offer bouts for the balance of the indoor season, starting Jan. 9. Beginning next June he will present shows at White City stadium.

A double windup is offered north side fans tonight at the weekly amateur boxing show at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Five other bouts and one wrestling match will be on the card.

Joe Savoldi Tries Flying Tackle on Indian Tonight

Joe Savoldi takes on Jim Clinkstock, Oklahoma Indian wrestler, at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. They meet in a one fall to a finish battle, the ex-Notre Dame football player spotting his opponent 42 pounds in weight and eight inches in height.

Savoldi, like all good wrestlers, is on the trail of Jim Londos and hopes to meet the Greek here before the end of the year. Joe, with two years' mat experience back of him, has developed into a capable workman, specializing in the headlock and flying tackle. He will weigh 200 pounds, while Clinkstock will come in at 242. Jim is 6 feet 5 inches tall.

Hans Kampfer of Germany will meet John Katan, Russian-Canadian, in the semi-windup. Katan stayed 30 minutes with Savoldi here two weeks ago, although losing the decision. Kampfer lost to Jim McMillen on the same card after 30 minutes.

Tonight's card:

John Katan vs. Hans Kampfer.
Dorna Ostapavich vs. Sun Jennings.
Paul Jones vs. Jack Smith.
Jack Shearin vs. Stanislaus Lurik.

DETROIT FIRES NOBLE AFTER 16 YEARS IN HOCKEY

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Reg Noble, oldest player in years of service in the National Hockey league, was given his unconditional release today by the Detroit Red Wings management.

He got off to a bad start in this, his 16th season of professional hockey, by holding out for nearly three weeks. Last season he had an even worse start, for waivers were asked on him. Then, however, the management relented and Noble responded by turning in one of the beast season's performances of his career.

But this year he hasn't made that kind of a showing and has not been used regularly since he came to terms with the management.

Turkish tobacco is the "seasoning" in Cigarettes

It's the same with a cigarette. Too much Turkish tobacco like too little will often spoil the fine balance of mildness and flavor you want in your smoke.

Begining at the six minute juncture, Romnes, March and Ripley laid down a terrific rally which developed one threat after another faster than they could be described. But the puck went every place in the Maroon end of the hall except over the goal line. After this series of disappointments stirring sallies by McFadyen and Cook and a beautiful solo effort by Couture were denied.

The Hawks were just starting to curse their luck when Bellemer was locked up for charging with his elbow, a most impolite offense. The Hawks thereupon turned on the gas and eventually Abel, Romnes and Ripley got the puck into the Montreal defense zone. Romnes and Abel swished around Walsh's shins until the Maroon goalie became greatly distressed.

Finally the rubber was passed out to Ripley. Victor, quite a distance from the cage but directly in front of it, took time to get set. Then he lifted a high floater which sank into the net just right. Walsh seemed to be keeping track of six pucks when the only real one sailed past him to his right, about waist high.

Maroons Tie Score.

The Maroons tied the score in 3:50 of the third period when Brydson scored a closeup angling slasher after the puck had been carried into the danger zone by Plaxton and Trottier. Brydson picked up the disc on a rebound after Plaxton had shot and made the goal before any Hawk could get up to block his onslaught.

During the remainder of the third period both teams played cautiously, but they made dashes for the goal when the slightest opportunity offered. During the period Gardiner had eight stops and Walsh nine.

The biggest threat in the overtime period was precipitated by the Thompson-Couture-Holmes line which laid down a dangerous barrage that narrowly missed producing a score in the final minutes. Neither side took any undue chances.

Kieckhefer Gets Return Match with Thurnblad

Two blocks of 50 points each will be played every afternoon and evening until Friday night, when the match ends.

DICK TRACY—Reunion

Big League Bosses Meet on Economy

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Retrenchment and economy were the twin watchwords of the hour as big league baseball's moguls gathered here tonight for their annual meetings.

Facing them were a series of momentous problems, all dealing either with the necessity for further drastic economies or the means by which customers can be lured back to parks.

Except for a scattering few clubs, such as the New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Boston Braves, and Brooklyn Dodgers, none was pointing with any particular pride to attendance figures for the 1932 season. A sharp drop in the daily figures was almost universal and the magnates came to New York determined to do something about it.

Face Busy Schedule.

Just what direction their efforts toward economy would take remained to be seen, but a glance at the unofficial agenda for the meetings was significant.

Salary and player limits, admission prices, radio, shorter training campaigns, revision of the world series ticket system, and the trials and tribulations of the minor leagues were just a few of the matters listed for discussion and possible action at the National league meeting Tuesday, the American league gathering Wednesday, and the joint conclave Thursday.

An effort may be made by some club owners to force adoption of a salary limit or at least a uniform salary slash all the way down the line, but the majority, it was believed, would rule that each club was entitled to handle its own financial affairs as it saw fit. It was pointed out, also in this connection, that the players took a severe cut last year and that any drastic salary reduction for 1933 might lead to a costly holdout war.

Cubs Back Radio.

There was no doubt whatever that a strenuous attempt would be made toward reducing the player limit, either by including the coaches in the present limit of 23 or by cutting the maximum to 22 or 21. The suggestion also has been made that the player limit be made effective a month earlier, May 15 instead of June 15, thus saving a month's salary that otherwise would be paid to players retained until the later date.

There seemed to be almost uniform agreement on the question of shortening the training season, now one of the most expensive items on the baseball budget. Whether a definite and uniform date for beginning spring training or whether this should be left to the individual clubs may cause considerable argument.

Radio and its effect on baseball attendance have furnished the majors with an ever-continuing dispute and few expected a general agreement on the question at this time. Particularly antagonistic to radio broadcasting were the two New York clubs, the Giants and Yankees, while the Chicago Cubs strongly favor it.

May Cut Prices.

Hitherto, club owners have maintained that there was no reason for cutting admission prices, pointing out that prices were not boosted during boom times and therefore should not be lowered now. A majority still holds that viewpoint, but a minority has arisen to point out that attendance has fallen off and that something must be done to bring the patrons back to the game. Reduction of admission prices might help.

Player trades, of course, were expected as usual, for there wasn't a manager in either league who was not prepared to swap his stars if the terms were right.

BOWLING RACE TIGHTENS WHEN LEADERS LOSE

The Classic Bowling league race tightened up last night when the leading Lorenz Knitting Mill team lost two games to Wass & Schroeder while the Baby Ruths and the De Barry Insurance teams won three games.

The Lorenz team now holds down first place by a margin of four games. De Barry Insurance turned in a 3,425 series against the Edelweiss while the Ruths, new city champions, took the A. J. Cermaks for three.

COAST GROUP PLANS ATHLETIC COMMISSIONER

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Faculty representatives of the Pacific coast conference, meeting here today, voted to select a commissioner of athletics whose principal duties would be to choose officials for football games.

The commissioner plan was approved by graduate managers of the organization and a committee was appointed to outline his duties.

There were some indications that announcement of the appointment of a commissioner might be forthcoming tomorrow, but there was no hint as to who he might be. The post will be only part time and carry an unimposing salary.

Cardinal Game at Memphis Postponed Until Tomorrow

The game has been scheduled for next Tuesday night. Ernie Nevers, former coach of the Cardinals and assistant to Pop Warner at Stanford, will play with Memphis.

FIELDER ERRS ON POP FLY TO CATCH SNOWBALL

San Martin, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A snowball figured in deadlocking a baseball game between the town team and Cottage Grove just before the game was called on account of snow today.

In the last of the fifth with San Martin trailing Cottage Grove 3 to 1, a San Martin batter sent up a pop fly to an outfielder and at the same time a spectator tossed a snowball at the same outfielder. Instead of catching the baseball he caught the snowball and two men scored on the play. An error was charged the outfielder.

Ten Athletes on Final Ballot for Sullivan Award

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Ten athletes were named today by the Amateur Athletic union as the final list of candidates for the James E. Sullivan memorial medal which annually goes to the outstanding amateur athlete of the year. These ten were chosen by the committee from more than 150 nominees.

The names of the ten finalists will be resubmitted to the tribunal of 600 for balloting, with five points going to first choice, three to second and one to third. The man or woman receiving the most points will be awarded the medal which went to Bobby Jones in 1930 and to Barney Berlinger last year.

Eight men and two women were elected for the final balloting. They are, in alphabetical order: James A. Bauch, Kansas City A. C., Olympic Decathlon champion; Lieut. George C. Calnan, U. S. navy, national fencing champion; William A. Carr, Penn, Olympic 400 meter champion; Miss Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, Dallas, Olympic javelin and hurdles champion; Ralph Hill, Olympic club, runner-up for Olympic 5,000 meter title; Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette university, runner-up for the Olympic 100 meter championship; Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Berkeley, Cal., tennis champion; Leo J. Sexton, New York A. C., Olympic shot put champion; Jack Shea, Lake Placid, Olympic speed skating champion, and Barry Wood, Harvard all around star.

Miss Didrikson had been chosen before the A. A. U. disqualified her for the automobile advertisement in which her name and picture were used. Inasmuch as the case still is pending, the committee felt that her name should be submitted with the rest.

Although in most instances the final ten were those getting the most votes, the committee censored the balloting to the extent of eliminating from consideration those whom they felt lacked the proper character and amateur spirit.

ONTARIO TEAM INVADES DE PAUL FLOOR TONIGHT

De Paul university's basketball team will appear in its second contest of the season at 8 o'clock tonight, opening a two game series with the University of Western Ontario at the De Paul gym.

Tonight's game is the first international affair in which any De Paul team has figured. Ontario is recognized as the Canadian champion, but little is known here as to its style of play.

Three veterans from last year are in the De Paul lineup. They are Capt. Tony Lauritis, guard; Jim Gorsky, forward, and El Weston, center. Two newcomers who will perform are Phil Krause, sophomore who led De La Salle to two national prep championships a few years ago, and Jim Doody, guard.

Grange lobbed the ball to Brumbaugh, who skidded through the snow for a run of 43 yards to the Packer 13 yard line. Grange made six yards on a lateral pass as the best contribution in three line plays. On fourth down Luke Johnsos attempted a place kick, but the ball shot off the side of his foot and the Packers took possession on their five yard line.

After the Green Bay punt the Bears again had the ball on the Packer 10 yard strip when Grove interfered with Johnsos on a pass. Doehring fumbled and recovered for a five yard loss on the first effort. Then Nagurski dropped the ball on a plung and Cal Hubbard fell on it for the Packers.

The Packers' advance in the second period was manufactured by almost uncanny ability to control forward passes. With the ball on Green Bay's 48 yard line Herber passed to Grove for 11 yards. Then after two failures Grove got under another throw, which carried the ball to the Bears' 3 yard line.

Nesbitt Kicks from Drifts.

Hinkle plunged a yard at center. Herber failed to gain, but the Bears were offside, which advanced the ball to the one yard mark. On the next play Herber lost the ball on a plunge and Joe Kopcha of the Bears smothered it. Dick Nesbitt immediately kicked out from the snow drifts in the end zone.

Grove ran the punt back to the Bears' 25 yard line. Johnny Blood then caught a pass on the Bears' 18 yard line. The Packer drive collapsed completely when the Bear line rushed through and tossed Herber for a 15 yard loss and subsequent passes were knocked down.

The Bears probably would have added another touchdown in the last period had time permitted. The Packers lost possession on their own 15 yard line when four passes failed. With three seconds to play, Nagurski threw to Grange, who was tackled on the one yard line as the game ended.

The Packers leave tomorrow for Hawaii where they are scheduled for two games. It is probable Green Bay also will play on the Pacific coast. The Bears also are planning a post-season tour of the south and west.

Wildcats See Chance to Win Big Ten Title

The success of Northwestern's basketball squad in its first two games has encouraged Wildcat followers to boom the team as a championship contender.

Coach Dutch Lonborg apparently has assembled a combination that is even stronger than those of the last two seasons. Two years ago Northwestern won the Big Ten title, and last year it finished second. Against Bradley and Marquette the Wildcats displayed a smooth working offensive which met with unusual success in working the ball in for close shots.

Only Two Vets Back.

Success in its first two appearances comes as somewhat of a surprise, since the team began the year with only two of last year's regulars available. They are Capt. Joe Reiff, forward, and Elmer Johnson, center.

With this pair as a nucleus, Coach Lonborg has added Don Brewer, forward, and Stan Culver and Marvin Moonshower, guards. This trio was salvaged from last year's reserves. Chet Perry, forward, and Al Kawal, guard, appear to be the other leading candidates for the team.

Speed Helps N. U.

Against Marquette the Wildcats overcame their opponents' advantage in height with speed and accurate passing. Northwestern's fast breaking offense clicked well for so early in the season, and with additional practice the team should be a strong contender in the forthcoming Big Ten campaign.

Northwestern's next appearance will be Friday night, when it meets Pittsburgh, last year's eastern champions. Pitt opened its season Saturday night with a 32 to 18 victory over Georgetown.

Rangers Beat Bruins, 3-1, in Wild Overtime

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The New York Rangers defeated the Boston Bruins, 3 to 1, in a furious overtime ice battle tonight and increased their lead in the American division of the National Hockey league.

After a slow first period, in which both teams played cautiously, they warmed up to a wild overtime session which brought two goals, seven penalties, and stopped just short of a free for all fight. Just before the final bell Eddie Shore of the Bruins and Earl Seibert of the Rangers began swinging sticks and fists, and both teams showed signs of joining in before they were calmed.

The races for the Chicago Public High School league 1932-'33 lightweight and heavyweight basketball championships will start today. Two games, Lindblom heavies at Hyde Park, and Schurz lights at Waller will officially open the title campaigns after two weeks of practice.

Lindblom begins its title drive with a victory and a defeat. It scored its practice triumph over Deerfield last Friday night. Lindblom will depend on two veterans, Davis, left forward, and Stankus, center, to carry it to the league title series. Stankus sank seven baskets against Deerfield.

Chomsky, Jones Lead Hyde Park.

While Schurz has failed to score a victory in three games, it is expected to be among the leaders in the north section. Its starting lineup against Waller probably will be Hahn and Dillon, forwards; Klepp, center, and Hughes and Shea, guards.

Crane Tech, which has won the heavyweight championship for two consecutive years, starts its drive for a third title against Marshall at the Crane gymnasium tomorrow. The defending lightweight champion, Wendell Phillips, will not appear in league competition until Thursday when it plays Tilden Tech.

Harrison Meets Tuley Heavies.

In addition to the Crane-Marshall game, four other heavyweight games and two lightweight contests are scheduled tomorrow. Every heavyweight quintet in the west section will see action. Harrison Tech will meet Tuley and McKinley will play Austin. In a pair of south section games Tilden will play Phillips and Fenger will visit Calumet.

The two lightweight games tomorrow involve the undefeated Lane Tech and Senn teams. Lane will meet Roosevelt, which lost three straight, at Roosevelt's gymnasium and Lake View will play Senn on the latter's court.

PRICES OF CRUDE OIL SEEN NEARER STABILIZATION

Contest Among Companies Still Under Way.

New York, Dec. 11.—Crude oil prices, which recently have been on the slippery downgrade, now, in the opinion of some petroleum statisticians appear to be nearing a stabilization point.

For some months the so-called independent oil companies have been waging a sprightly contest with certain members of the Standard Oil group on the question of which should advance first. The price of crude oil or the price of gasoline.

Oil Prices Braced.

With the action of the Texas railroad commission in reducing the state's allowable production by some 69,000 barrels, and the campaign of Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma for a high tax on crude purchased in Oklahoma fields, some important oil men are of the opinion that the price structure may have received a much needed prop.

The New Jersey and Indiana Standard companies have refused to see the arguments of the independents for raising the price of higher gravity oil to 93 cents a barrel, with a corresponding scale for lower gravities. The Standard men generally held that the price was out of line and that gasoline should really show the way to higher levels.

Independents Boost Price.

The Humble Oil company, a subsidiary of Standard of New Jersey, withdrew a posted price in mid-October and then later announced a rate of 93 cents a barrel in Texas, retroactive to Oct. 1. The Sun Oil company and other independents followed with a raise to $1.12 a barrel in Texas, with a similar advance in Oklahoma. The Standard companies, however, did not see the raise. Recently there have been reports that these higher rates were skidding and that the independents might have to recede from their position.

The action of Texas in cutting the allowable production and the announcement of Gov. Murray that crude purchased in Oklahoma would be taxed on a basis of $1.12 a barrel apparently has given the first skirmish to the independents, although the Standard forces are still to be heard from.

LAYS FAILURES OF BANKS TO POOR MANAGEMENT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Incompetent management as the cause of bank failures, which have totaled 1,199 in ten months of the present year, was emphasized today in the annual report of F. G. Awalt, acting controller of the currency.

Awalt gave to congress statistics to show that there were 2,299 bank failures in 1931 and 1,345 suspensions in 1930, with a combined tying up of deposits in the three years aggregating $3,160,808,000. He renewed recommendations made John Pole, former controller of the currency, for enactment of banking laws by congress that would reduce the number of failures.

He said that during the last eight months there had been an abatement of bank failures, adding, "We cannot escape the fact that the year 1932 has been characterized by a continuation of an alarming number of bank failures and we know that a continued improvement in business and support of credit agencies of the government will not of themselves correct the defects existing in our banking structure or reach the root of so many bank failures."

He pointed out that the greatest number of failures had been in states dependent upon agriculture.

"In case of failures among the larger banks located in cities, the adverse economic conditions in recent years, coupled with mismanagement accounted largely for their suspensions," Awalt said.

BUYING OF HOLIDAY GOODS IN CHICAGO AREA AHEAD OF 1931

A continued improvement in local retail trade, coincident with the marked change in weather, better news from one of the larger mail order houses, and prospects for a more favorable report on car loadings, characterized the last week in Chicago. Less favorable news came from the steel industry, where operations displayed further recessions, and also from the electric power companies, where the output of electricity made a poor showing, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Buying of holiday goods continued in a better volume than during the same time last year, although the dollar value of articles purchased was even lower. Department stores were seasonally crowded, but the majority of purchases made were of articles that cost five dollars or less. Colder weather gave impetus to the sales of winter goods. Wholesalers were busy with rush orders for filling broken stocks. Although the sales of one large mail order house displayed a 15 per cent decrease in comparison to the same period a year ago, they displayed a marked improvement over the last few weeks.

Operations in the steel industry dropped to 16 per cent of capacity. This decline was accompanied by a shrinkage in the volume of new business and shipping orders. These facts were regarded as a harbinger for further curtailment in operations during the next few weeks. The tin plate division continued the most active, with estimated requirements for next year about 15 per cent above 1932 consumption.

GRAIN IN DEPTHS BUT TRADE SEES A DAWN AHEAD

Forecast Repeal of Farm Board Act.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Constructive influences are being sought and given increased attention by the grain trade. Three years of depression have brought most interests to a belief that everything of a depressing and destructive character has been worked out. Prices are the lowest known and too far below cost of production of grain, live stock and other commodities to be permitted to continue. If there is to be a return of prosperity within the next six months a start must be made and leaders have already inaugurated it by giving grain markets better support.

Leaders in the Democratic administration have already announced that the farm board act must be repealed or amended, so that it will help farmers rather than ruin them, as has been the case in the last three years.

Fear Large Holdings.

Large concentrations of grain holdings have always proved detrimental to the trade, especially when in the hands of those in whom the trade in general have no confidence, as is the case at present. Were the grain trade in the hands of old time leaders who know how to handle the markets, cash as well as futures, there would have been comparatively little depression and it probably might have lasted but a short time. Had the government given these trade leaders the $500,000,000 which they gave the farm board, surpluses of wheat would have been sold at a world's price and losses might have been comparatively small. It is also said that as soon as the grain trade is returned to normalcy, large concentrations are removed, and prices are on a world's basis of supply and demand, there will be broader speculative markets. While it is not believed there will be an advance to materially higher prices, they will be sufficiently high to give the farmer a small profit at least. By reducing the tax on trades, speculators will come into the markets.

Cash Wheat at Premium.

One of the most striking features is the strength in the cash wheat markets at all centers. It is claimed that hard winter wheats at Kansas City are at premiums close to May price in Chicago, while highest grades of wheat in the Chicago market are selling at premiums of 3c to 4c over December, with some sales reported as equal to the May level or better. An unusual feature is that eastern mills, who are generally well supplied with wheat at this season, have been in the Chicago market for supplies for all rail shipment, as the flour trade has improved.

Stress is being laid on droughty and freezing weather conditions in the winter wheat sections of the southwest, where prospects are said to be the poorest in years. It would be no surprise to a few close observers to see only 400,000,000 bu of winter wheat raised in the 1933 harvest, which would be the lowest in 25 years. This year's crop was 442,000,000 bu. It is too early for traders to become bullish over the winter wheat prospects, but the accidents are all in favor of holders.

The trade would like a statement as to actual holdings of cash wheat and futures by the farm board and its subsidiaries, and it is believed that such an announcement would be beneficial.

Wheat Up 2 Cents from Low.

Argentine crop news was bullish, and Australia bearish. Both of these countries will be shipping wheat liberally inside of 30 days. Wheat prices are up around 2c a bu from the recent low, with the close for the week in Chicago 2½c higher on December at 45⅞@46c, May up 1¼c to 42¼@42¼c, and July up 1⅝c to 45⅝@45½c. Winnipeg showed no important change for the week, and latest reports from there suggest the carryover will be smaller than last year. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Has Steady Undertone.

Consumption of corn on farms has been increased by cold weather, but there is a plentiful supply for market. Country holders are not selling freely and receipts are extremely light. A little corn is going east from Chicago all rail, as lake shipments are over for the season. Expectations are that the final government report, due on Thursday of this week, will raise the November figures. Industries are taking fair supplies, and speculators are doing only a little business and there is nothing in sight in the export line. Decemier closed Saturday at 23¼c. May at 28⅞@28¾c, and July 29⅝c, making net gains of ¼@⅝c for the week.

Railway Labor Heads Fight Cut in Wages

Railway labor leaders, representing 1,750,000 workmen, yesterday planned a bitter fight against extension of the 10 per cent wage reduction adopted for one year last Jan. 31. The labor organizations, represented by the executives of 21 brotherhoods and 1,500 general chairmen of the unions, will meet with a conference committee of managers, representing all the railroads of the country, at the Palmer house today.

The railroad managers proposed on Oct. 14 that the present agreement be extended when it expires on Jan. 31, 1933. The Railway Labor Executives' association, which has been in conference since Wednesday at the Palmer house, yesterday issued a statement assailing the wage cut theory and contending that such measures increase rather than alleviate distress.

Signed by Whitney.

The statement, signed by A. F. Whitney, chairman, referred to the association's stand of last January, when the labor executives declared:

"Wage reductions are not the appropriate means to restore prosperity. We cannot believe that the public welfare is advanced by reducing the purchasing power of labor."

"The appalling downward spiral of the depression since January," said the statement, "has demonstrated that we were right. Not only have more than 110,000 railway workers lost their jobs in the last year, with several hundred thousand working only part time, but all industry has been sliding down hill. As we predicted, a new cycle of wage cutting followed our action, with further great losses of purchasing power resulting in further declines of business and railroad traffic.

"Now we are observing signs of economic recovery. No measure today could be more harmful to the whole nation than a new drive to begin a new cycle of wage cutting—to bleed white the fading buying power of the people. Let it be quite clear that railroad labor will not submit to such a program of national suicide."

On Freight Rates.

The statement took issue with warnings that insurance companies and savings banks are endangered by the financial ills of the railroads, and denied that wage reductions could have any relationship to freight rate reductions.

"There is not a railroad today that would reduce rates out of any wage reduction," the statement said. "In fact, the railroads have recently asked that the interstate commerce commission continue the rate increases granted in 1931. Increased traffic alone can produce lower rates, and then without wage reductions, because labor costs [per unit of traffic] are now lower than ever before."

No statement was forthcoming from the railway managers' committee, of which W. F. Thiehoff is chairman. Railway leaders, however, have contended that the wage reduction is imperative, even insisting that it should be 20 per cent. The union leaders can only negotiate on the extension of the 10 per cent agreement, for that was all their organizations authorized them to do.

Chicago Passenger Club Elects Franke President

Milwaukee November Net to Be Below Last Year

According to preliminary estimates, gross revenues of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific for November will be about $6,700,000, as compared with $7,926,568 for November, 1931, and $8,529,575 for October of this year. Net operating income will be about $140,000, as against $384,673 in November a year ago, while in October, 1932, net operating income was $1,461,139.

Illinois Coal Dealers Lose Complaint on Rail Rates

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission examiner has recommended dismissal of the complaint of a number of Illinois coal dealers and manufacturers against bituminous rates from Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee to specified destinations in Illinois. He held the present rates reasonable.

TREASURY OFFERINGS DISCLOSE HUGE SUMS LYING IDLE IN BANKS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Told vividly in a routine statement today by the federal treasury was a story of huge cash reserves lying idle in the country's banks.

It was contained in the formal announcement by Secretary Mills that an offering of one year treasury certificates at ¾ per cent—probably the lowest interest ever paid on a 12 month issue—was oversubscribed 16 times.

As far as treasury records disclosed, never before has the government borrowed money for so long a period so cheaply on this class of security, though 90 bills have been purchased eagerly at still lower rates.

The same announcement told also of another tremendous oversubscription—nearly 20 times—on an offering of 2¾ per cent four year notes.

In exact figures, the treasury offered $250,000,000 of the one year certificates and received subscriptions exceeding $4,128,000,000. It offered $350,000,000 of the four year notes, and subscriptions exceeded $6,677,000,000. Both issues were dated Dec. 15.

CUDAHY PROFITS ARE CUT IN HALF IN LAST YEAR

Earns 68 Cents Per Share on Common.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Inventory losses resulting from declining live stock and meat prices this year cut Cudahy Packing company profits to $905,985, according to the annual report released last night.

The company's fiscal year ended Oct. 31. In the preceding year net profit was $2,009,991.

E. A. Cudahy, chairman of the board, in his annual letter to stockholders, however, discloses that the management is optimistic concerning the company's prospects for early improvement.

Financial Position Strong.

"What the new year will bring us in the way of business improvement is hard at this time to forecast, as too many unknown quantities enter into the equation," says Mr. Cudahy. "But be assured your company is in the strongest financial position in its history. Cash on hand is more than sufficient to liquidate its current liabilities, and current assets comfortably exceed all current and funded indebtedness.

"Our organization, plants, and equipment are at their best, and if, as many believe, the bottom of the depression has been reached, and so far as our company is concerned I think it has, our earnings will be quick to respond to any upward swing in prices."

Surplus declined from $9,410,474 on Oct. 31, 1931, to $9,026,115 on Oct. 29, 1932.

Earns 68 Cents a Share.

Current assets at the close of the 1932 year were $22,839,765 and current liabilities were $3,584,514. The company's funded debt consists of $11,279,600 of 5½ per cent debentures due Oct. 1, 1937, and $7,036,000 of 5 per cent bonds due in 1946.

The net earnings for 1932 are equivalent to 68 cents a share on the common stock after preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $3.06 a share in the preceding year.

Mr. Cudahy points out that the company reduced its dividend in July this year to $2.50 annually from $4. In this connection he notes that the earnings of the company for the three depression years, 1930-'32, the earnings were equivalent to $2.93 a share on the common stock while in the seven preceding years the company earned $5.58 a share.

The company paid out a total of $2,097,887 in dividends last year on the common and preferred stocks. The excess of dividends over earnings reduced earned surplus to $7,312,586 as compared with $8,504,489 at the end of last year.

Avoid Inventory Losses.

Mr. Cudahy said that the company was able to avoid heavy losses in inventories by keeping their holdings at minimum requirements.

Discussing the price situation Mr. Cudahy added: "In 1930 the average cost of all live stock slaughtered at the company plants was $9.28 per hundred weight. If the entire profit made during that year had been realized from the sale of animal products—although such was far from being the case—it would represent 1-5 cent per pound on the live weight of cattle, hogs, calves and sheep purchased by us during that year. In 1932 the average price we paid for live stock was $4.62 per hundredweight. On the same basis of figuring, a profit was realized of only 1-16 cent per pound.

"I merely mention this to show that we received no benefit at the expense of the farmer from the calamitous drop in live stock prices during the last two years. In either year, but more notably in 1932, the return was truly small recompense for the service rendered in converting vast animal herds into cash, when it is borne in mind that in the process we had to kill the stock, and cure, transport, store, sell and collect for the product."

Stock Yards National, Trust Plan to Merge

Announcement was made last night by Charles N. Stanton, president of the Stock Yards National bank and the Stock Yards Trust and Savings bank, that the directors of the two institutions have approved a plan for their consolidation. Both banks are located at 4150 South Halsted street, at the stockyards.

The plan is to be voted upon at a special meeting of the stockholders of the respective banks on Jan. 10.

Under the plan the consolidated banks would be operated under a state charter and would be known as the Stock Yards Consolidated Bank and Trust company. The plan contemplates the retention of the present officers.

To Strengthen Position.

H. E. Poronto, one of the directors of the banks, stated last night that the consolidation action is being taken to strengthen the financial position of the banks which have long been affiliated in ownership and operation. They are one of the city's oldest financial institutions, having been operating since 1868.

The statement issued last night reads, in part:

"The consolidated institution will be known as the Stock Yards Consolidated Bank and Trust company, with total capital, surplus, and reserves of $2,000,000, with resources of $18,000,000 and deposits approximately $16,000,000. Slow and depreciated assets will be written off and bonds will be written down to their approximate market value before the union.

Economies to Be Effected.

"As a consolidated institution the extensive trust business which these banks have developed in recent years can be more advantageously handled, operation can be simplified and many economies can be effected. The strong financial position of the new bank will enable it to take full advantage of the greater opportunities for increased business upon the return of normal conditions to which the officers and directors look forward with full confidence."

The directors of the Stock Yards National bank are A. G. Leonard, Thomas E. Wilson, H. E. Poronto, C. N. Stanton, Eugene V. R. Thayer, Thomas W. Boyer, George F. Emery, F. H. Prince, O. T. Henkle, and H. I. Tiffany. Directors of the Stock Yards Trust and Savings bank are Charles H. Swift, A. G. Leonard, Clyde H. Schryver, C. N. Stanton, G. F. Emery, H. I. Tiffany, O. T. Henkle, H. E. Poronto, and E. V. R. Thayer.

NEW YORK STATE SAVINGS BANKS REPORT ADVANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—An improved situation among savings banks in this state was disclosed today by the Savings Bank Association of the State of New York.

Total deposits on Nov. 30 were $5,250,146,495, against $5,153,645,139 a year previously. New deposits last month were $105,155,675 and withdrawals were $112,220,242. The outgoing money exceeded the incoming by $7,064,567, and compared favorably with excess withdrawals in November, 1931, of $7,494,623.

Special savings in Christmas clubs, paid out in November, accounted for $3,651,458 of the excess withdrawals, with more due to be paid in December.

MEXICO PLANS TO PUT UTILITIES IN FEDERAL RULE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11.—A bill sponsored by President Rodriguez for federalizing power companies will be enacted soon by congress, it is understood here.

All power companies, according to the measure, which has been reported out by the committee on constitutional amendments, hereafter will operate under federal concessions and federal regulations instead of under control by the states.

A study by the committee showed that 95 per cent of the hydro-electric power in Mexico is produced by three foreign companies, as follows: The British-owned Mexican Light and Power company, 60 per cent; the Electric Bond and Share company of New York, 30 per cent, and the Compania Electrica de Chapala, 5 per cent. The remaining 5 per cent is distributed among 375 companies.

Sterling Drop Stimulates Gold Output

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Partly stimulated by the high price now obtainable for gold in London as a result of sterling's depreciation, the world's production of gold appears to be steadily increasing.

The fact is, however, that ever since the gold output was temporarily checked in many parts of the world by the war, the annual production has been progressively enlarging. Last year's world output is now estimated as in value very little short of that produced in 1914 or 1915, and there is no doubt that production for the current year will show marked advance over the £88,000,000, or $428,000,000 produced in 1931.

Output of Transvaal.

The Transvaal's output will have exceeded that of 1931 by a very large amount. The district's November production, just reported, is 978,716 ounces, as against 974,965 in the preceding month, and 900,510 in November of 1931. This makes the Transvaal's total output for the eleven months 10,572,946 ounces, as against 9,850,792 in the corresponding period last year. The total Transvaal production for the whole of last year was 10,874,145 ounces, so that it is evident that last year's high record Transvaal production will have been exceeded this year by a large amount.

Production in other gold fields of the world has also gone to a higher level, but this is not all. During the present year very large additional supplies of gold came out from hoard of one kind or another, attracted by the high price paid in current British funds. In England many millions sterling were brought into the monetary gold supply this year.

Shipment by India.

More particularly India will have shipped during 1932 nearly £80,000,000 gold derived entirely from existing reserves and hoards. All told, it is estimated in some quarters that the quantity of gold actually added to the world's available monetary supplies this year may be double the world's actual production of 1931.

FEELING IN WALL STREET IS NOW MORE BULLISH

Market Rises in Five Out of Six Days.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—Without any visible stimulus from business or industry, speculative sentiment appears to have turned definitely, if conservatively, bullish.

Five of the six stock market sessions of last week were marked by rising prices, the exception being yesterday's abbreviated affair, in which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's index of fifty representative issues underwent a decline of .26. The net advance for the week amounted to 4.12 points. This brings the list back to the middle of the narrow range in which it has fluctuated for three months.

Rally as Congress Opens.

Those optimistically inclined find more than one good pointer to bolster their enthusiasm over the market's new performance. For one thing it violated established precedent by commemorating the opening of congress with a spirited and sustained rally, instead of the "nervous" reaction it usually stages when the nation's lawmakers begin to buckle down to their tasks anew at Washington. For another it has run counter to the rule by heading into the Christmas holidays on an incline of steadily rising prices, instead of the December reaction it is wont to stage.

The demonstration has led many qualified observers into the belief that an advance of proportion may be in the making. Commission house letters for several days have been drawing comparisons between the present movement and that which marked the start of the July-September rally back in midsummer. Some commentators

INDEPENDENT BONDHOLDERS PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE

Your attention is respectfully called to the fact that this Committee is in no way affiliated with or sponsored by the houses responsible for the marketing of these securities. In view of the circumstances which attended the underwriting and marketing of these securities, the best interests of bondholders obviously demand that they should be represented by an absolutely independent committee. We recommend that bondholders do not authorize committees formed by the issuing houses to act as their agent with respect to these defaulted securities. We say this not by way of any reflection on the gentlemen comprising such committees, but because we feel that such committees would necessarily be handicapped in their activities on behalf of bondholders. The prompt deposit of bonds with the depositary of the undersigned committee is therefore urged for the most effective protection of bondholders.

This is an opportune time to Review Your Will

TO all owners of estates The Northern Trust Company today suggests: it is an opportune time to review your Will.

Readjustments in the securities market and the resulting alterations in values may have made specific bequests inadequate for the purpose intended. An important reason, in many instances, for a restudy of the Will.

In other cases the years that have passed since the writing of the Will may have brought a need for new or altered bequests. Births, business changes, deaths, marriages, new capacities shown by beneficiaries—each suggests a further possible need for revision.

Write for informative booklet

We have a booklet containing practical suggestions for making Wills based on our more than forty-three years' experience as executor-trustee for many hundreds of estates. These suggestions may be of value as you review your Will. An officer of our Trust Department will be happy to explain them to you.

Once you have decided upon the changes you wish to make, the redrawing of your Will is a task to be entrusted to your attorney. He will find The Northern Trust Company ready at all times to cooperate.

At its home on the northwest corner of LaSalle and Monroe Streets an officer of The Northern Trust Company is always at your service.

COTTON STEADY DESPITE HIGHER CROP ESTIMATE

New York, Dec. 11.—The final government cotton crop report of the season, placing the indicated yield of cotton at 12,727,000 bales, was half a million bales above the average of recent private estimates, but had comparatively little effect on the market. Evidently it found a well liquidated position in futures following the declines of the last several weeks, and a slight additional loss carried the price of March contracts down to 5.53c, or 431 points below the high price of last August and within a point of the lowest touched by that position on the break of last June.

This price, combined with the failure of the report to bring out heavier offerings, attracted trade buying as well as covering, and while the volume of business tapered off on rallies of some 34 to 37 points from the lowest, prices held steady at the end of the week.

See Increased Competition.

The increase in the government crop figures has naturally caused some modification of sentiment as to the probable end-season carryover. For the first three months of the season, according to the New York Cotton exchange service, world's consumption of American cotton amounted to 3,319,000 bales. This would appear to be at the rate of about 13¼ million bales for the twelve months, compared with 12,411,000 last year, but the expectation still appears to prevail in some quarters that American cotton will meet increased competition from other growths before the end of the season.

Moreover, recent developments such as the war debt uncertainty and the action of sterling exchange appear to have had a somewhat confusing influence on sentiment, and ideas of the world's consumption have by no means crystallized.

Watch Business Conditions.

Meanwhile the action of the market following the crop estimate is regarded by some traders as indicating that the exact size of the end-season carryover is considered of much less importance as a price making factor during the balance of the season than the development of general business and textile trade conditions, or, later on, the shaping up of next year's crop prospects.

Much of the commission house comment here, as well as the presence of buying orders from trade or other sources below the market, is regarded as suggesting confidence in cotton values at present prices as a long range proposition, but the volume of general business has been restricted by the disposition to await more settled international finance conditions and Washington developments with reference to the budget or farm relief proposals.

Odds Favor Owner.

TO THE EDITOR: I wrote to a bank, an insurance company, and a building and loan association regarding a loan from the Home Loan bank to pay up a mortgage and taxes past due on my residence. They all replied that they did not do business with the Home Loan bank, and did not believe that any institution of their respective kind did business with that institution. The tone of their answers was such that I was led to believe that they did not think much of the Home Loan bank idea. Perhaps the Home Loan bank will put into their income too much.

My mortgage of $1,400 was due Nov. 1. The value of my home, according to the taxes, is over $5,000, and I have been unable to pay the 1930 and 1931 taxes. The bank which has the mortgage renewed the mortgage but socked me plently, and refused to increase the mortgage so that I might pay up the taxes. I asked to pay off the whole mortgage by monthly payments, but the bank refused. The bank informs me they have sold the mortgage. Now I fear the holder of the mortgage will foreclose because back taxes are not paid.

1. Is that possible?

2. Can the mortgage be paid at any time, if I wish to pay it, if there is no stipulation in the mortgage to that effect?

My plan is to get a loan large enough to cover the mortgage and past due taxes from the Home Loan bank and pay them up, provided the holder of the mortgage will accept payment for the mortgage now. The mortgage is dated Nov. 1, 1932, and runs for three years. What can I do if he refuses to accept payment for the mortgage, but threatens to foreclose. It is simply impossible for me to pay the taxes now. Your valued advice will be very much appreciated. —J. S.

ANSWER: 1. Yes.

2. No, unless some provision is made in the trust deed. However, no one refuses cash today and usually will settle at a discount.

The information you have received regarding the Home Loan bank apparently is incorrect.

If you will furnish us the name of the bank handling your loan we will be glad to write them in your behalf.

We suggest you also write the Federal Home Loan bank, 2544 West Railroad street, Evanston, Ill., stating your case and describing your property fully. Request either an application for loan or the name of a building and loan association that has subscribed to membership in this bank and been accepted.

CLAIMS LOWER COSTS IN THIS REFINANCE PLAN

Foreclosure; Receiver Usually Avoided.

BY AL CHASE.

Conveyance of title in the two story garage at 868 North Clark street by the Francis W. Gould corporation to the Cosmopolitan State bank, as trustee, disclosed another type of "liquidation trust" reorganization, which, according to Charles S. Macaulay of the law firm of Rubens, Fischer, Mosser & Barnum, has proven successful in avoiding foreclosure, receivership, and other expensive luxuries of the usual refinancing.

CHARLES S. MACAULAY.

In this reorganization plan the trustee plays the rôle a trustee should, which unfortunately has been dodged by many trustees during the present era of defaulted bonds.

The plan, which was developed for the bondholders' committee, representing the holders of bonds issued through the Cosmopolitan State bank, briefly is as follows:

Trustees Acquire Title.

First, all the junior liens, mechanics' liens, and the title to the premises are required by a trustee, acting under the terms of a liquidation trust agreement. The trustee also acquires as many of the first mortgage bonds as possible at the time the plan is made effective.

Second, when title is found to be good in the trustee the latter issues debentures in payment of the various fees of the attorneys, committee, depositary fees, etc. These debentures are usually payable on or before five years, at 6 per cent interest, and are a first lien on the proceeds of the trust estate.

Third, the trustee issues class A participating certificates to depositing first mortgage bondholders. These usually bear cumulative interest, ranging from 3 to 6 per cent, and are entitled to proceeds after the payment of the debentures.

Class B for Juniors.

Fourth, class B certificates are issued to the junior mortgage holders, if there is a second mortgage, and they come in after the class A and debentures.

Fifth, if there are any judgment liens the trustee will issue a class C certificate.

Sixth, the trustee is authorized to issue units of beneficial interest to participating bondholders.

The plan is made effective as soon as it has been approved by a majority of the first mortgage bonds and the junior interests and title have been acquired by the trustee.

The trustee acts under the direction of three trust managers and is authorized to mortgage or sell the property when conditions improve.

Usually Avoid Foreclosure.

"It's been the experience of the committee that in a majority of cases the owners of the equity and the junior liens, as well as the first mortgage bondholders, are willing and anxious to become parties to such a trust agreement, because it can become effective usually without the necessity of foreclosure proceedings," said Mr. Macaulay. "Then, too, the income from the property can be made available for paying taxes.

"The attorneys' fees and the committee fees and other expenses are a great deal less than they would be in the event that it was necessary to have a full foreclosure, thereby reducing to a minimum the expenses of a reorganization.

"It's usually unnecessary, in case a full foreclosure is demanded, to have a receiver appointed because the trustee, as owner of the property, can post a bond to account for the rentals, thereby eliminating receiver's fees and receiver's attorney's fees.

Don't Need All Bonds.

"Ordinarily it's necessary for all the bondholders to deposit their bonds before a reorganization plan can be made effective; the Cosmopolitan plan can be used as soon as the majority of the bondholders and the junior lien holders and title owner have agreed to the plan."

The members of the Cosmopolitan committee are: Mr. Macaulay, chairman; Albert F. Madlener Jr., vice chairman; Joseph H. Meyer, Richard E. Schmidt, and Henry C. Brummel.

Rubens, Fischer, Mosser & Barnum, with the cooperation of the chairman of the committee and Gustave F. Fischer, chairman of the board of directors of the Cosmopolitan State bank, developed the foregoing reorganization plan.

MEN

WE HAVE IMMEDIATE OPENINGS IN SOME OF OUR LOCAL BRANCH OFFICES FOR MEN WHO ARE QUALIFIED TO LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENT THIS COMPANY.

This company, a unit of a powerful international institution of enviable commercial reputation, is right now enjoying the greatest success of its history, and this year is marking its greatest enlargement and third consecutive record sales year.

These positions are genuine opportunities at high earnings for those who acquire (as taught) right habits of working and thinking. As investigation will disclose, our successful men make from $4,000.00 up to $10,000.00 or higher per year. There are no off-seasons. These incomes in cash are just as stable and certain as any business or professional opportunities can present.

For example, a former tool-maker who joined one of our local offices four years ago earned over $400.00 in November—an average of over $75.00 per week—and earned $140.00 for his last week reported. A former advertising man, J. Hawkins, made $275.00 last month, an average of $55.50 per week. Thomas, $200 for his last week reported. That same week, a former salesman, H. S. Johnson, made $115.00; former file-setter, Sam Kory, made $70.00; former mould dealer, R. Hellebrake, who started in one of our Chicago offices just recently, earned over $65.00, as compared with an average of $38.50 per week last month; a former builder, H. Greene, started in one of our Chicago branches last month and earned only a little over $20; his selling for this week, but his last week reported, made $65.00. On the other hand, another new man, W. B. Graves, made over $15.00 his first 7 days in northern Illinois town. J. Rurka made $100 in his first four days, and a former mechanic made $135.00 his third week here. "This is the greatest opportunity for a salesman who wants to work," one Chicagoan told us recently. "I paid off my old debts, am permanently settled, and know I am in a dependable, profitable business."

This work involves a novel and amazingly effective method of visual selling which does away with talk, arguments and mere claims, and our product lends itself so naturally to this presentation of unusual demonstration that its sales are steadily increasing throughout the entire country. A former wholesale salesman made $1990.00 in commissions alone last month—in another locality a young man who came to this country from Germany only two years ago earned over $1,400.00 his first month, and though he averaged only $26.50 per week his first two months. For his last week reported, he had a profit of over $100.00, bringing his earnings well above the original schedule.

The first model of this product was introduced in Europe in 1919. It was designed to solve in a practical and sensible manner one of the greatest service problems of humanity. Inventors had vied with each other, the market was crowded with contraptions claiming efficiency and actually boldnot a great deal and doing a great deal of good. Yet, within but a short time after the introduction of this product, it took precedence in one market after another until its sales throughout Europe outstripped the sales of all others added together. Five great factories are required for present demand—one in England, two in Sweden and two in Germany. In South America, 95% of all sales classified for such need is for this equipment. The progress of the American organization has been so marked, regardless of times, seasons or conditions, that it is freely predicted that the American factory will outstrip all of the others and demonstrates the present sales strength of the Electrolux mechanical invention (not refrigeration).

Those who are inexperienced in specialty sales work must take the necessary time to learn and acquire the ability which means they must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125.00 to $200.00 per month (some men $95.00 to $100.00) while we cannot tell you how soon it will take you to do this—whether one month or six months—but we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements, you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence, be genuinely assured of making a success which will afford you the higher earnings.

If you can learn from men who prove it with pay checks and will put forth an effort of character into your work, come in for a personal interview with an executive of this company, Monday morning, 9 to 12. Also from 3 to 5. The men who are interested will be trained without charge and immediately employed at once. Apply at nearest office:

215 McGrahan Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av.

Applications will also be received at this time at certain out-of-town offices of Electrolux, Inc., Peoria, Davenport, Danville, Rockford, Springfield, Champaign.
